GERMAN BREACHES OF TREATY CITED IN PARIS CHAMBER

Col. Fabry Gives Details of Armaments and Von Seeckt's Reorganized Army.

Former Minister Maginot Says France Is Not Alone Responsible for Conditions.

BERLIN GETS ALLIED NOTE

Luther Cabinet to Reply Today to Interim Communication on Non-Evacuation of Cologne.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—At the moment when the allied reply to Foreign Minister Stresemann's protest against the continued occupation of Cologne was being handed to the Government in Berlin, Colonel Jean Fabry, in the Chamber of Deputies this morning, began a long speech in which he charged the German Government with having not only willfully but skillfully avoided the disarmament terms of the peace treaty.

General von Seeckt, commander of the Reichswehr, and War Minister Gessler, he said, had recreated the German army until it was almost comparable to what it was before the war. He had recreated under the name of the Directorate of War the former General Staff, under direct authority of von Seeckt, and by a system of short-term voluntary service had secured a constant supply of men well enough trained to be available for war service within a few weeks.

While the treaty allowed only 2,000 machine guns, 15,000 had been discovered in one place alone. There were sixty airplane manufacturing plants which could be put into full operation in three months. The war manufacturing centres had been removed from behind the Rhine to behind the Weser and Neckar, and for first-line defense the Security Police, who were still under direct control of von Seeckt, could be mobilized immediately in the Rhineland, thus avoiding technical infringement of the treaty, which forbids the presence of troops there.

Twelve Trained Divisions in West.

Colonel Fabry estimated that Germany had now twelve divisions of fully trained troops ready for defense in the west, with armament enough to enable them to continue a struggle against any opponent until new guns and munitions could be manufactured.

A large part of the debate was taken up with rival attempts to fix responsibility for the non-disarmament of Germany. Thus the Government charged that it was the action of the Allies at Boulogne, when M. Millerand represented France, which allowed the present situation regarding the Security Police to develop and, further, that occupation of the Ruhr prevented the carrying out of General Nollet's scheme for disarmament control.

To these charges of Colonel Fabry former War Minister Maginot replied that the French were not alone responsible for the increased strength being allowed to the German police forces and by the positive affirmation that the closing of the Essen works did more to prevent the manufacture of arms than the Control Commission ever did.

Once more this debate on the foreign affairs of the country brought up the old theme that things would have been different if the United States had ratified the Treaty of Versailles and treaty guarantee. Colonel Fabry has served on the League of Nations Disarmament and Guarantee Commissions and though a member of the Nationalist Party is one of those who are convinced that the only eventual safety for France lies not in her own armaments but in strengthening the world peace movement and its organization.

Twice, he said, with Lord Cecil and his colleagues he had slowly climbed the slope which led to new horizons, and just as they seemed to reach the summit they had been compelled to descend.

"Last September was your turn, M. Herriot," he continued. "You climbed the slope and you still believe you saw the dawn of peace. Do not be discouraged, but do not be deceived. The Protocol of Geneva gives hope, but until that hope is transformed into something solid, tangible and sure, until it or some other protocol nas given real security, neither Cologne nor any other point of the Rhine guarantees can be evacuated."

Outlook Less Hopeful Than in 1919.

The outlook for disarmament, he said, was far less hopeful than in 1919. Then Germany had not started rearming. There was still hope she would put militarism behind her. But the state of mind of young Germany today was to him a far more dangerous thing than any amount of concealed arms or any number of camouflaged troops would be if that spirit did not exist.

Though Colonel Fabry, like Louis Marin, is not a member of the Government majority, his attitude on the disarmament question, like that of M. Marin on the question of debts, must be taken as representing the opinion of a full half of the people of the country. It serves to show how difficult a path would have to be trod by any French delegate attending any disarmament conference summoned by President Coolidge or any one else. When Colonel Fabry said it was impossible for France to disarm further unless the system of security given by the Treaty of Versailles had been fulfilled by the full

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The original copy of the Isle of Pines Treaty under which the island would be turned over to Cuba by the United States was produced in the Senate today by Senator Swanson of Virginia.

The document, which was drawn up about twenty years ago, was reported missing on Saturday by Senator Copeland of New York, who asked that a search be made for it.

Walter H. Johnson, Executive Clerk of the Senate, found it in a box on the fifth floor of the Senate Library underneath the dome. It was stained and dusty, but intact.

COUNTESS ESCAPES PARIS ASYLUM PLOT

SHE ACCUSES HER FAMILY

PARIS, Jan. 26.—The extraordinary mystery of the sequestration and internment by relatives of a beautiful young Countess bearing one of the most renowned names in French history is today exciting the intense interest of Parisians, who, especially in society circles, are amazed at the astonishing details of the story as told by Albert Londres, a well-known journalist, whose revelations recently led the Government to decide to abolish convict colonies.

For reasons difficult at present to clarify, but which the victim alleges are connected with the ownership and administration of a great fortune, an attempt has been made to intern the Countess Hélène de Chateaubriand in an asylum under circumstances and by the use of methods worthy the imagination of a first-class dime novel writer.

Due to the fact that she was able to smuggle a letter out of the asylum to a friend, the Countess was free today. She lodged a complaint at the office of the public prosecutor and sensational revelations are promised when the case comes up in the courts.

Twice Freed as Perfectly Sane.

The Countess, who was formerly Mlle. Marie Hélène Justa Faria de Saint-George Armstrong, married Count Frédéric Jean Baptiste de Chateaubriand in 1906 and has a baby girl. Her husband died two years ago. Albert Londres's version of the strange adventures of the Countess is as follows.

On Nov. 21 the Countess left her home at 40 Avenue Kléber, where she has an apartment in the house of her mother, Mme. de Saint-George Armstrong. Proceeding toward the Champs-Elysées, she noticed that she was being followed. Later an agent hired by relatives jumped on the footboard of her car and ordered the chauffeur to drive to Police Headquarters. When with perfect calm the Countess in rational language explained that the family was trying to have her declared insane and locked up, she was instantly freed.

Returning home, she received a visitor who introduced himself as the public prosecutor. The Countess having remarked it was unlikely that so high an official would make a personal call, the visitor said he was an assistant sent by the public prosecutor to investigate the case and help her in her troubles. He persuaded her to go with him and took her to the insane asylum at La Maimaison. The director, Dr. Trepsat, after a conversation, refused to intern the Countess against her will without an official order, saying:

"Madame, I am sincerely sorry for you."

Locked Up and Drugged in Asylum.

Members of the family who were waiting outside were crestfallen. They took the Countes back home after a hurried conference. They then bundled her into a motor car and drove along dark quais of the river to beyond the Bois de Boulogne, to a place she was unable to recognize. There the Countess again explained the case to a doctor whose

SENATE IN SECRET SENDS STONE'S NAME BACK TO COMMITTEE

COMMITTEE TO HEAR STONE

DELAY ACTION ON WARREN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The Senate, in secret session today, recommitted to the Judiciary Committee the nomination of Attorney General Harlan F. Stone to be an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. The motion was made by Senator Curtis, Republican floor leader, and was adopted unanimously.

It was said that Mr. Stone and the Administration leaders wanted this action taken, and that the Attorney General would appear before the Judiciary Committee and explain the reasons which actuated him in seeking a second indictment against Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana before a Federal Grand Jury in the District of Columbia.

The executive session was quiet and peaceful while the Stone nomination was being disposed of, and one of the Administration leaders was about to move that the Senate go into open session, when the charge was made that practically all that had occurred at Saturday's executive session, when the Stone matter was under consideration, had appeared in the newspapers on Sunday.

Once this subject was opened up, several Senators wanted to give vent to their feelings, and so the doors remained closed while for nearly an hour charges and counter-charges were made. It was asserted that Senators were "leaking" to the press. The rules which provide that a Senator who divulges the "confidential business" of the body lays himself open to expulsion were read. Suggestions were made that steps be taken to bar from the press gallery newspaper men who write such facts about proceedings in executive session as they may obtain.

The development in today's secret session, which quickly gained circulation despite the rules, served to intensify the feeling aroused by the eleventh-hour battle against the confirmation of Mr. Stone's nomination.

Means Delay on Stone Nomination.

It now appears possible that the nomination of Mr. Stone will be held up indefinitely. It may not be acted upon at the present session if the information which is given by him to the Judiciary Committee is not sufficient to satisfy Senators Borah and Walsh of Montana and other leaders of the opposition.

To further complicate the situation the Judiciary Committee again held up action today on the nomination of Charles Beecher Warren of Michigan to succeed Mr. Stone as Attorney General. This meeting also was in secret session. It is understood that the committee held that action on the Warren nomination should await action on the Stone nomination, as there is no post for Mr. Warren to fill while Mr. Stone remains Attorney General. There is stiff opposition to Mr. Warren also, by Senator Walsh and others because of his connection with sugar interests of Michigan.

Reports were current today that the Administration was greatly concerned over the embarrassing situation developed by holding back action on Mr. Stone's nomination and the widespread publicity that has attended it. Administration leaders had known that there would be opposition from some quarter to the nominations of Mr. Stone and Mr. Warren, but until a few days ago they did not consider this opposition of serious consequence. Especially after the nomination of Mr. Stone was reported favorably by the Judiciary Committee, about a week ago, they felt that the storm clouds were blowing away.

One report heard today was that even after it became known that Attorney General Stone was determined to seek

Another Church Sacrifices Broadway Front; Leases Part of Plot for Trade to Lift Its Debt

Another big church is going to surrender its choicest frontage to business. Christ Episcopal Church at Broadway and Seventy-first Street announced yesterday that it had chosen this means of perpetuating itself at a location that is becoming increasingly valuable.

The Rev. John R. Atkinson, the rector, with the approval of Bishop Manning, the wardens and vestrymen, has rented the plot to Michael H. Lazarus, a real estate man, for sixty-five years at an annual rental of $24,000, to be increased in twenty-five years to $35,000. At the end of that period the ground and the building revert to the church. The church can recapture it meanwhile on a year's notice.

The Broadway frontage will be sliced off and the tower will be torn down. Four rows of pews will be demolished, decreasing the seating capacity by 100. An entrance will be made in Seventy-first Street. Mr. Lazarus will build a seven-story structure for offices above and stores on the ground floor. The leased plot is a strip paralleling Broadway, twenty-five feet wide at the north wall of the present church and 65 feet at the south wall.

One result of the transaction will be that the church soon will be clear of debt and another that in twenty years it will have an annual income of $50,000 a year from investments.

The decision of the church to enter into such a contract emphasizes the rapidity with which churches are following the lead of hotels in giving up their choicest frontages to general business purposes. A business building with a church inside is replacing the Park Avenue Methodist Church. Calvary Baptist Church is considering a similar venture, and the Methodist Episcopal Broadway Temple is to be self-supporting by being devoted in part to apartments and stores. A similar venture in Chicago has succeeded.

WOMAN FOILS THUG AT GRAND CENTRAL

FELLED BY A LEAD PIPE

Mrs. J. E. Rovensky's Screams Bring Help From Hotel, but Negro Escapes.

Mrs. John Edward Rovensky, 30 years old, wife of a Vice President of the National Bank of Commerce, was attacked by a negro yesterday afternoon just outside the revolving doors of the underground passageway leading from the Grand Central Terminal to the Hotel Roosevelt, Vanderbilt Avenue and Forty-fifth Street. She was knocked down by a blow on the head from a twelve-inch length of lead pipe which had been wrapped in paper. Her assailant fled when a swarm of hotel employes rushed through the door from the hotel lobby in answer to her screams.

The negro had on a blue flannel shirt such as is worn by hotel porters. The management of the Roosevelt said last night that they had established the fact that he was not employed there. Although Mr. Rovensky believes that the man who attacked his wife had seen the valuable rings she was wearing on the train coming in from Greenwich, Conn., and had followed her with the idea of robbing her of them, the police are disinclined to accept this theory.

Detective Sergeant P. F. Kenny of the East Fifty-first Street Station said last night that police investigation had convinced them that the negro was a cocaine addict and that he was drugged at the time of the attack.

"Mrs. Rovensky had on valuable rings, but they were concealed by her gloves," said Sergeant Kenny. "No man in his senses, no matter how desperate, would have attempted to attack and rob a woman just outside one of the biggest hotels in the city, where scores of persons are constantly passing. It was the act of a man crazed by drugs."

Mr. and Mrs. Rovensky, who are prominent socially in Greenwich, have a home on Calhoun Drive there. It has been Mrs. Rovensky's custom to meet her husband in town one afternoon each week at the Hotel Roosevelt. Usually she brings a considerable sum of money with her, as she visits the shops immediately after her arrival. Mr. and Mrs. Rovensky then dine together and go to a theatre, remaining over night at the Roosevelt. It has not been their habit to fix this weekly diversion for any one night, but for whatever evening seems most convenient.

Mrs. Rovensky carried a suitcase in one hand and a small shopping bag in the other. Disdaining the proffered aid of porters in the station, as she is athletic and self-reliant, Mrs. Rovensky started up from the lower level and made her way into the tunnel leading from the station at Forty-third Street to the Hotel Roosevelt. The corridor turns under the hotel. Mrs. Rovensky had passed through the swinging doors leading from the station and was just outside the revolving vestibule which opens into the hotel proper when she heard some one running toward her from behind.

There was nothing to alarm her in that, she said afterward, and, realizing that a few more steps would take her inside the lobby, she continued on her way. Without warning, a crushing blow on the left side of her head knocked her down. As she looked up she saw a negro, apparently about 35 years old, who had on the dark blue flannel shirt of a hotel porter. She had dropped the suitcase but was still clutching the handbag containing her money. As the man stepped toward her Mrs. Rovensky screamed. He heard and fled her cries echoed through the long passageway behind her and penetrated into the hotel.

As the negro turned and ran toward the Grand Central Terminal bellboys, room clerks and guests of the Hotel Roosevelt came rushing through the doors to her assistance. An employe of the hotel, who was returning from a late lunch, passed a running negro some distance down the tunnel toward the station but took no notice of him.

Mr. Rovensky, who already had engaged a room on the twelfth floor, was waiting in the hotel for his wife, and was curious as to the cause of the commotion. She was immediately taken up to their apartment and attended by Dr. S. B. Ross, the house physician, who dressed the wounds on her scalp.

As Mrs. Rovensky was recovering from an automobile accident two weeks ago, in which her head also had been injured, it was decided to call in a second physician. A consultation was held, at which it was determined that there had been no concussion of the brain and it was decided not to send her to a hospital.

A dozen detectives from the East Fifty-first Street Station were assigned to the case under Lieutenant John W. Fraser. They have only meagre description of Mrs. Rovensky's assailant. All the porters in the Grand Central Terminal were examined and, according to the police, it was established that none of them nor any one employed at the hotel was concerned in the attack.

LEGINSKA VANISHES ON WAY TO CONCERT

AUDIENCE KEPT WAITING

Ethel Leginska, pianist, disappeared after starting from her home to give a concert in Carnegie Hall last night and her friends and associates were so alarmed when she failed to reach the auditorium, where 2,000 persons awaited her, that they induced the police to send out a general alarm for her.

The appeal was made to the West Thirtieth Street police station after the concert audience had faced a silent stage until nearly 9 o'clock. Miss Leginska lives at 313 West Twenty-seventh Street. When last seen she is believed to have been about to enter a taxicab; at least her secretary left her in front of the house while she went for a cab and supposed, when she returned to find the pianist gone that she had entered another.

Although police throughout the city received a description of the singer and were told to keep a sharp lookout for her no trace of her had been gained at a late hour last night.

When the Carnegie Hall audience grew restive under the protracted wait and news of the strange situation had been communicated to Miss Leginska's manager, Mr. Haensel searched the house for emergency performers. He found another pianist, Miecislaw Munz, just off a train from the Pacific Coast. Mr. Munz went to the platform and gave an entire program. The audience remained, not a dozen persons leaving the hall.

Ten Minutes Getting Cab.

It was Miss Lucile Oliver, secretary to Miss Leginska, who brought the first alarm as to her whereabouts or safety. The pair had started from Leginska's home at 8 o'clock, with scarce time to reach the hall at 8:15. No taxicab was in sight, so Miss Oliver hastened to Eighth Avenue, crowded with traffic theatre-bound at that hour. She said she was ten minutes getting an empty cab.

As she drove back in Twenty-seventh Street, the stoop of Leginska's home was vacant, nor was the pianist anywhere in view. Miss Oliver, concluding the artist had found conveyance and preceded her, drove up to Fifty-sixth Street, to the stage door of Carnegie Hall, only to find hall attendants, managers and audience waiting. Telling those in charge what had happened, Miss Oliver hastened back to ask aid of the police.

Miecislaw Munz took the stage in Miss Leginska's place soon after 9 o'clock. Miss Leginska had intended to play Chopin and Liszt. Mr. Munz so far followed the missing artist's intentions by playing a great deal of Chopin and a Beethoven sonata. His success was instantaneous. He was recalled many times, and in addition to the numbers that he had volunteered played more than three encores. The audience remained till the end.

Of a Nervous Nature.

Miss Leginska is the English pianist, composer and conductor, who directed the New York Symphony Orchestra at Carnegie Hall recently. She was one of the pianists who took part in the piano-carneval which was staged at the Metropolitan. She had appeared in the dual rôle of pianist and conductor in Europe and aspired also to be known as a composer. She was known to be an exceedingly nervous person, and it was suggested by her secretary that while waiting for the taxi she may have wandered away in a fit of absent-mindedness.

When she left her home, Miss Leginska wore an evening gown, black patent leather pumps, black silk stockings and a three-quarters length caracul coat. She wore no hat and as far as the police have been able to find out, no jewelry. Not having carried a purse, she had neither money nor door key, according to Mrs. John Gordon, whose top floor in Twenty-seventh Street the pianist, with her secretary rents for a studio.

The police description of Leginska gave her as 30 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, weight 106 pounds, with gray eyes and brown bobbed hair.

In 1918 Leginska got a divorce from Roy Emerson Whittern, a composer of Cleveland.

Four Men Die in Deep Gas-Filled Shaft, Then Fifth Enters and Recovers Bodies

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 26 (Associated Press).—A small gas-filled shaft, forty-seven feet deep, within a caisson of the new American Insurance Union Building here, claimed the lives of four men today, three of the victims dying heroically. A fifth man, who went to the rescue of his friends in the shaft, came through unscathed, and a few hours later a movement was started to reward him for his heroism.

The dead are: C. P. Bowen, 22, Greenwood, Ind.; Jack Smith, New York City; John C. McCarthy, 48, New York City; John Peterson, 22, Columbus.

All of the men were steamfitters, employed by the John Gill Construction Company of Cleveland.

The cause of the accident is not clear. It is believed Bowen was in the shaft fitting pipes when he was overcome and fell to the bottom. Fellow workmen noticed that activity had ceased within the shaft. Then one of the victims climbed down to see what had happened. When neither appeared within a short time another went down the tube to investigate. Then McCarthy, the last of the victims, volunteered, and he disappeared through the shaft, some 18 or 20 feet above street level.

All was quiet within the tube and workmen gathered about fearful that something was wrong. Ambulances and physicians were summoned.

Suddenly a huge crane swung high into the air from another part of the excavation. Dangling from its steel cable was a man. It swung around and deposited William V. Kelly (Big Bill) Martin, a structural steel worker, on top of the caisson. Fellow workmen remonstrated, three had gone down and had not come back and he must not go, they declared.

"Big Bill" snapped his fingers, put his foot into the rope stirrup and signaled the crane engineer. Some one handed him a gas mask. The crane wench screamed and he was dropped into the shaft.

Minutes seemed like hours to the watchers. The cable jerked. The crane moved upward and out of the mouth of the shaft came the limp form of a man, a rope around his waist. Three more times the cable was lowered and each time it brought to the surface a limp form.

A fifth time it was dropped into the shaft. The cable jerked again, and out of the shaft came "Big Bill," his foot in the stirrup. He clung to the cable desperately. His face was white. The gas mask was gone. He had done what he set out to do. Spectators cheered.

Lowered to the street, an effort was made to put him in an ambulance. Weakly he brushed men aside and edged away from the crowd which surrounded him.

Foreman said that "Big Bill" found the four dead men at the bottom of the shaft and that he had reported that he worked as fast as he could in getting them out. He took off his mask when it hampered him, he said.

FIRE COMMISSIONER, ABSENT ON VACATION, REMOVED BY MAYOR

TIME EXPIRED AT MIDNIGHT

POLITICIANS ARE PUZZLED

Believe That Deposed Man, Who Wired That His Train Was Delayed, May Not Regain Place.

To enable the promotion of fifteen firemen, whose eligibility would have expired at midnight, to lieutenancies, Mayor John F. Hylan last night removed from office Fire Commissioner Thomas J. Drennan, absent from the city, and appointed Deputy Commissioner Joseph M. Hannon to succeed him and make the promotions. Other promotions made by Commissioner Hannon immediately upon taking his new office included one Assistant Chief, four Battalion Chiefs and five Captains.

With the list of firemen eligible for promotion to lieutenant, considered the most difficult step in the department, expiring at midnight the departure of Commissioner Drennan for Palm Beach on vacation a week ago was taken as an indication that he did not intend to make the promotions. The situation caused considerable gossip in the department during the last week.

Only Drennan Could Act.

As the Commissioner is the only person empowered to make promotions, his absence caused much consternation among the members of the department who were due for advancement. A week ago a committee composed of the wives and friends of the firemen eligible for promotion to lieutenancies visited the Mayor and pleaded with him to have the eligible candidates given an opportunity for reward for their long and faithful service. They told the Mayor that in many cases firemen had been on the eligible list for three and four years and that it would be a great hardship for them to be denied opportunity for promotion merely because of the absence of the Commissioner.

Mayor Hylan promised to investigate and asked the committee to return to him on January 22. The Mayor consulted Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson, and the latter rendered an opinion that under the city charter the Fire Commissioner was the only person authorized to make promotions and that this power could not be delegated to a Deputy Commissioner. Last Thursday, when the committee made its second call at City Hall, the Mayor is reported to have told them that he would see that justice was done and that all vacancies in the department, to be filled by promotions, would be filled before the expiration of the eligible list.

Commissioner Delayed on Train.

It was learned that Mayor Hylan talked with Mr. Drennan over the long distance telephone on Saturday and directed him to return to the city so that he might make the promotions. Yesterday the Mayor received a telegram from Mr. Drennan, dated from a town in Georgia, stating that the latter had been delayed by railroad washouts and that it would be impossible for him to get back to the city in time.

The Mayor, upon further consultation with the Corporation Counsel, decided to remove Mr. Drennan and appoint Mr. Hannon Commissioner. The promotions were made last evening immediately after the new Commissioner took office. It is understood that those who received promotion will assume their new duties on Feb. 1.

The fifteen firemen promoted to the rank of lieutenant by the Mayor's action follow: John Sherer, Peter Boertlein, Leo J. Dasop, Michael J. Duffy, Henry Gardner, George Abendschein, James P. Hopkins, Michael A. Lukas, William A. Fraser, Charles H. Hutchinson, Edward Fox, Michael J. Stevens, Peter S. Walsh, James A. Gannon and James F. Malloy.

The other promotions included that of Battalion Chief George L. McKenna to the office of Assistant Chief to succeed the late Joseph L. Crawley.

Whether the removal of Mr. Drennan was to be permanent could not be ascertained definitely last night. Persons

Mme. Jeritza Is Painfully Hurt in a Stage Fall; Gigli, Too Strenuous, Hurls Her Into Footlights

Marie Jeritza, singing in "Fedora" at the Metropolitan last night, fell near the opera's end, with consequences which proved painful and might have been tragic beyond theatric realism but for the prima donna's agility in saving herself from tumbling head first into the orchestra pit. With the tenor, Gigli, she was enacting a final interview in which the heroine is thrown to the floor. It was only the second time Gigli had replaced the indisposed Martinelli, and miscalculating the force of mimic struggle, he sent Jeritza tottering over the footlights.

The soprano fell among the metal and glass at the stage rim, wrenching her wrist as she tried to break the impetus of the fall. When she was examined in her dressing room later it was found that she had suffered a severe abrasion of one leg and that the other was black and blue. It was said that, with good care, she would be able to appear in tomorrow's benefit matinee of "Thais," as she had pluckily done after many dramatic scenes in her realistic impersonations here.

With Jeritza and Gigli in the cast of Giordano's opera, sung for the fourth time this season, were Mr. Scotti, Miss Guilford and others, and Mr. Papi at the baton. There was a large house, though not all the spectators stayed late enough to witness Mme. Jeritza's accident.

Airplane Over Mount Everest To Trace Lost Climbers

LONDON, Jan. 26.—It is reported from Calcutta that the famous airman, Alan J. Cobham, has arrived at Darjeeling with the object of reconnoitering Mount Everest by airplane. Cobham piloted Air Vice Marshal Sir Sefton Brancker, director of civil aviation, in a flight to tIndia with a view to the establishment of an airship service. His intention to proceed to Darjeeling, which is the base from which Everest expeditions have set forth was unknown in London. He is regarded as Britain's most daring aviator and has accomplished many remarkable records.

The world's altitude record created last November by M. Callizo, a French airman, is 38,8747 feet and the summit of Everest is estimated as 29,142 feet. It is possible, therefore, that Cobham may solve the mystery of the fate of Mallory and Irvine, who vanished in the last British attempt to scale the peak.

RADIO MENACE LEADS ACTORS TO MOBILIZE

Equity Will Name Committee to Deal With Broadcasting Situation Tonight.

BRADY ASKS FOR EMBARGO

The first step toward forming a comprehensive committee for the protection, preservation and furtherance of all the interests of the American theatre was taken at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre yesterday afternoon. For nearly three hours members of the Actors' Equity Association, a few managers and representatives of other branches of the theatre discussed the possible effect of radio upon the stage and other theatrical problems.

A resolution, adopted along with an amendment by William A. Brady, to the effect that John Emerson, President of Equity, take the first step in the naming of the proposed committee, with the approval of the Equity Council, was in the shape of a summons to Equity "to form a committee, truly representative of the theatre, the duty of which shall be to formulate plans for the betterment of the institution."

"Such plans," said the resolution, which was unanimously adopted, "in addition to covering the radio situation, may include legislative activities, common efforts for the removal of the war tax on theatre tickets, the reduction in the price of railroad transportation for traveling companies, agitation against laws prohibiting the appearance of a child on the stage, united action on censorship matters, the further popularization of the theatre as an institution, endeavors to retrieve the one-night stands and to increase the number of stock companies. The committee should ultimately progress to a consideration of every theatrical subject common to all branches of the theatre."

Do Not Wish to Destroy Radio

A lively discussion of the effect of radio upon the stage preceded the adoption of the resolution, which was read by Frank Gillmore, Executive Secretary of Equity. The discussion was opened by John Emerson, President of Equity, who made clear the steps taken by Equity for the protection of its members and of the managers against possible radio competition.

"We have never for a moment thought of destroying or impeding the progress of the radio, because as an organization we are not altogether insane," said Mr. Emerson. "We have taken the position that, so far as our members were concerned, the radio as a form of entertainment should not be given an unfair advantage over the theatrical producer, by being enabled to secure from our members the same service for nothing that the theatrical manager pays his good money for. Therefore, we have passed a ruling that if our members speak or sing for the radio in such a way as to make the radio a competitor with the theatre, they must be paid for their services the same amount they are paid by the theatrical manager."

Determination of the advertising value to a production of radio performances by its stars, Mr. Emerson said, requires "the closest attentition and the keenest study, in the effort to discover how the theatre and the radio may work together in such a way as to benefit both and be a detriment to neither—if, indeed, it is possible to bring such a situation about."

"We certainly have no desire to prevent our members from helping a manager to put his play over, but at the same time we have no power to compel them to do so," Mr. Amerson continued. "The old days, when the actor was obliged to double in brass and parade

COOLIDGE ASKS CUT OF FEDERAL COSTS TO $3,000,000,000

He Calls On Budget Organization to Bend Every Effort Toward Economy.

WANTS TAX BURDEN LIFTED

Every Dollar Saved, He Asserts, Should Go to Benefit the Taxpayer.

SEES $373,000,000 SURPLUS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Declaring his desire to keep the cost of government down to $3,000,000,000 and stressing the need for economy in Federal expenditures with reduced taxation as the objective, President Coolidge delivered a speech at the eighth annual meeting of the budget organization tonight, in which he predicted that if retrenchment continued as begun at the outset of the year 1921 the Treasury surplus at the end of the fiscal year 1926 would reach $373,000,000.

Mr. Coolidge's address was broadcast by radio, and the President remarked that it was being heard "by the invisible audience in whose interests we are gathered," adding that "they are watching our efforts in their behalf."

Approximately 2,000 men and women crowded Continental Memorial Hall, where the meeting was held, to hear President Coolidge and Director Lord discuss the budget. Mrs. Coolidge had a warm reception as she appeared in a box, and the audience stood and cheered as the President stepped to the stage. Thirty or more Government officials, including Secretaries Mellon, Hoover, Wilbur, Work and Gore; Attorney General Sargent, Postmaster General New, General Pulaski, Chief of Staff, U. S. A., and Admiral Eberle had seats on the stage.

The President told his audience, which was made up in large part of department officers, that every dollar that was added to this surplus "should go to the benefit of the taxpayer in reduction of taxes."

Mr. Coolidge sounded an optimistic note relative to the business outlook, declaring that the United States apparently was "entering upon an era of increasing business activity and material prosperity." This meant, he said, increased revenues, but he was determined to see to it that these increased revenues were not absorbed by increased expenditures.

In an elaborate speech in which he analyzed Government receipts and appropriations, General Herbert M. Lord, Director of the Budget, spoke of the United States as a corporate organization with 115,000,000 stockholders. He likened tonight's session to a meeting of a board of directors, the President of the United States acting as the head of the directorate.

President Coolidge's address dealt largely with figures. He pointed out that in 1921 the Government had spent about $5,800,000,000. This year, he said, expenditures would total about $3,538,000,000. He declared it to be the duty of Congress to keep the appropriations of this session well within the $3,000,000,000 mark. In the last four years, he pointed out, the public debt had been reduced $3,198,000,000. This meant a reduction in the annual interest charges from $990,000,000 to $865,000,000, a saving of $134,000,000 a year. In the same period taxes had been reduced about $2,000,000,000 a year.

Text of the President's Speech.

This is the eighth regular meeting of the business organization of the Government. These meetings are probably unique in the history of nations. We have found them to be most profitable. They are necessary to the conduct of the business of the Government in a business way.

This fiscal year will mark the close of four years of effort to reduce the cost of Government. How successful these efforts have been can be summarized in very few words. In the fiscal year 1921 we spent $5,538,000,000. It is estimated that we will spend this fiscal year $3,534,000,000. This will show a reduction in our expenditures of $2,004,000,000. The four years will show a reduction in the public debt of approximately $3,198,000,000. This means a reduction in the annual interest from $990,000,000 to $865,000,000, a saving of $134,000,000 each year.

In the same period of time the people have been benefited by a material reduction in taxes of about $2,000,000,000 yearly. This is certainly an enviable record. It is a record in which the executive branch of the Government shares credit with the legislative. The Chief Executive is pledged to economy in the requests which he makes upon Congress for funds. This pledge has been kept in the several budgets. In its considerations of these budgets the Chief Executive has had the support of Congress.

As I am pledged to economy in my requests for funds, so are you pledged to economy in the expenditure of the funds which may be granted by Congress. No longer are the funds appropriated by Congress regarded as the minimum amount which is to be expended. Every dollar that is saved by careful administration adds to the amount by which taxes may be reduced in the future. It is practical economy which I have in mind and which we must practice. I had rather talk of saving people and save them than theorise in millions and save nothing.

Will Continue Efforts to Save.

The people of this nation have been not only patient under the heavy burden of war taxation, they have been heroic. Their burden of taxation has been greatly lightened, but our fight must be for further reduction of the burden of the people. This campaign for economy has no other object. So far as it is within may power, I propose to continue my efforts for economy in Federal expenditures. What we have done must be considered only the beginning. We have proved that we can reduce the cost of Government, and I propose that this cost shall be further reduced. In this effort I look to you for loyal support.

When you leave this meeting tonight carry with you a pledge to bend every effort to carry on your activities with less money. Take with you the determination to guard against each and every unnecessary expenditure. Take with you the determination to close the year with unused balances of appropriations. These are efforts in which you should take pride.

Sacrifices will be required. I want to see the sacrifices of those who are charged with the expenditure of the money of the Government somewhat commensurate with the sacrifices that have to be made in the home by the taxpayers who furnish the money for the Government. If you are in doubt as to the wisdom of such sacrifices, resolve the doubt in favor of economy.

I am speaking to you in the interest of the taxpayers. Their interests are our only interests. It is our duty to serve them, and serve them well and faithfully. They are the main support, the chief and only foundation of the economic system of this country.

We can best serve them by reducing their burden of taxation. If you become weary under this constant call and pressure for economy, think of the beneficiaries of your efforts. Think how they have borne uncomplainingly their burden. This will hearten you to renewed effort. Our nation is prosperous. Its prosperity is due largely to the economy which has been effected in the cost of government.

Business Encouraged by Economy.

It is this economy that has encouraged business, abolished unemployment, made wages high and work plentiful. It is this economy which has enabled us since 1921 to reduce our public debt so materially. It is this economy which has enabled the reduction in taxes.

It is estimated that our expenditures this fiscal year, excluding postal expenditures, will amount to $3,534,000,000. Included in this estimate is $471,800,000 required by law to be applied to the reduction of our national debt. It is my desire that our expenditures this year, excluding this amount for the public debt retirement, be kept within $3,000,000,000. This will require a curtailment of our expenditure program by $62,000,000.

With your full cooperation I believe that we can effect this further reduction in our expenditure program for this year. I ask your cooperation and effort to this end. Our estimated expenditures for the next fiscal year are well under the $3,000,000,000 mark, but I desire to reach the goal this year. Here is a concrete objective. Revise your expenditure programs so as to contribute your share to the saving.

At our meeting last June I called your attention to the necessity of reducing the Government payroll. The matter of personnel should be kept constantly in mind. It is the heaviest single item of our expenditures. In 1913 the average salary of Government employes in the District of Columbia was $1,134. On July 1, 1924, the average salary was $1,749. This shows an increase in the average salary of $615 within this period. I do not think any one can claim that the cost of living has increased $615 in the same time. This is more than a 54 per cent. advance.

Proposes Fewer Employes.

Should the salaries of all employes in each class reach the average rate authorized for the class the average salary would be $1,809 per year. We cannot look to a reduction in pay to effect a reduction in the Government payroll. What we are looking for is a reduction in the number of employes. Let me remind you that the Government payroll for 1924 reached the staggering total of $1,680,000,000. This includes the active personnel of the Federal service, the several retired lists, the pensioners and other beneficiaries of the Government.

This staggering total should cause concern—not only to us but to every thinking citizen. While there cannot be, and should not be, parsimonious withholding from deserving pensioners who have a just lien on our gratitude and purse, and while inadequate compensation for necessary and worthy employes should not be advocated, not a dollar should be asked from the taxpayers for superfluous personnel.

We have superfluous employes. It is an unpleasant and difficult task to separate people from the Federal service. But it can be done. It will be done. I advise Federal administrators to plan to operate with a smaller personnel than is now employed.

The President is not lacking in appreciation of the high class of service rendered by Government officials and employes. He has knowledge of the technical, professional and scientific equipment of personnel in the Government service and the high average of ability, devotion to duty and industry of the Government employe. If it were not for the intangible spirit of service, the of performance for the Government, devotion to its interests and complete commitment to projects and interest into which many of these officials have built their worthy lives, the Government would be in a bad way.

As it is, the Government service is training ground for personnel for commercial interests, and will always continue to be. A careful review of the Federal payroll discloses great administrators, learned scientists, skilled technicians and talented professional men, in many cases submerged, laboring diligently, intelligently and devotedly, and contributing the best that is in them—and that best incomparably good—to the nation's interests.

Commends Federal Service.

And faithful, capable performance is not confined to these particular classes, for service of high character and value is being given the Government by the great mass of Federal employes in Washington and in the field. The disloyal and incompetent are the exception. No more devoted, patriotic and efficient employes can be found anywhere than Government servants. Their loyal effort and intelligent cooperation is making economy with efficiency possible, and their familiarity with the operations and policies of their various activities make them indispensable to administrators of the Government.

The President of the United States, the members of his Cabinet, and the heads of the independent establishments and the great bureaus of this Government are dependent upon these devoted dependable Federal employes for the efficient conduct of the business of government entrusted to them.

At our last meeting I had occasion to call your attention to the fact that, under the law, the only lawful estimates are those which the Chief Executive transmits to Congress. My reason for then calling the matter to your attention was that in a few instances officials of the executive branch of the Government advocated before the committees of Congress the appropriation of amounts in excess of those recommended in the executive estimates. Both the letter and the spirit of the budget and accounting act prohibit such action.

There is nothing, however, in the law, nor any intent on the part of the Chief Executive, to preclude the officials who appear before the committees of Congress from giving the committees full and complete information on any item contained in the estimates. There is a marked distinction between advocating an increase in the executive estimates and furnishing Congress with full and complete information concerning them. The former is prohibited by law, as it should be. The latter is a fulfillment of the right of Congress which has never been questioned nor should ever be questioned.

Again Urges Economy.

Before we meet again you will have your appropriations for the next fiscal year. In formulating your expenditure program under these appropriations, keep constantly in mind the necessity for economy. In making your apportionments of these appropriations, set up a reasonable amount in a reserve status. This course has helped you in the past. It has enabled you to meet ordinary emergencies without interfering with your regular program. It has helped us to save.

For the next fiscal year, 1926, our financial outlook as presented in the budget for that year is most encouraging. If the budget program is sustained by Congress at this session I will be able in the next budget to recommend a further reduction in taxes. The outlook for 1926 is that we will have a surplus that year of more than $373,000,000. Any increase in receipts will swell this surplus. And any decrease in expenditures will again add to the surplus. By economy in operation you can help swell this estimated surplus. Each dollar that you add to it should go to the benefit of the taxpayer in reduction in taxes.

This intensive drive for economy is increasing the efficiency of Federal business. Let those who are inclined to scoff at it, those who are inclined to refer to it as cheese-paring, look at the result it has accomplished. They will find there an answer which is complete and overwhelming. If the practice of economy is not popular, the results of it are viewed with tremendous satisfaction. Your own closer scrutiny of your requirements, the searching revision of your estimates by the bureau of the budget, and the further searching inquiry by Congress of the budget estimates, all lead to efficiency of operation. They separate the necessary from the unnecessary. They lead to the grant of funds sufficient only for the necessary.

This meeting tonight is being broadcast. What I say to you here is being heard by the invisible audience in whose interests we are gathered. They are watching our efforts in their behalf. We have not failed them in these last four years. We will not fail them in the four years to come. These next four years will be years of continuous pressure for economy. There must be no retreat.

Foresees Increasing Prosperity.

We are evidently entering upon an era of increasing business activity and material prosperity. With increasing business we can surely depend upon increasing revenues. I have heretofore indicated my purpose that growing revenues shall not be absorbed in unwarranted increases in Federal expenditures. As the country grows an honest, reasonable increase in cost of government is expected. That increase, however, must not be timed to keep step, dollar for dollar, with the increase in revenue. Necessary increases in the cost of government, due to legitimate Federal growth, must be offset by reduction in costs of existing activities and the elimination of projects and the discontinuance of operations that can be dispensed with without interference with Federal efficiency.

We are occupying fields that should be abandoned. We must reduce the cost of government to a point which will reduce taxes to a point where they cease to be a burden. Loyalty to the taxpayers of this nation demands that we secure this result.

Before turning this meeting over to General Lord, the Director of the Bureau of the Budget, I wish to express to him appreciation of his disinterested and faithful service. The law has not provided a more important office than that which he holds. Our entire service has no officer more truly devoted to the promotion of the welfare of the people. I wish also to express my appreciation of your efforts and my faith in your loyalty and devotion to a continuation of the economy program which we are following.

COOLIDGE NAMES WOODLOCK

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Thomas F. Woodlock, a New York financial writer, was named by President Coolidge today as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission to succeed Mark W. Potter.

Mr. Woodlock until recently was financial editor of The New York Sun. Many prominent men were among his endorsers. Matthew C. Brush, head of the American International Corporation, a personal friend of the President's, called at the White House Friday to tell Mr. Coolidge about Mr. Woodlock and urge him to appoint him.

Mr. Woodlock, according to Mr. Brush's description, is not a Republican. He voted for Wilson in 1912, for Hughes in 1916, and for Coolidge for President and Al Smith for Governor last Fall.

BELGRADE, Jan. 26.—In a statement on the results of his recent visit to Paris, Finance Minister Stoyadinovitch of Yugoslavia laid stress on the fact that France is demanding a more favorable settlement of her indebtedness to America than Britain obtained, and said:

"I think the final settlement of this question must take into account the economic and financial situation of each debtor nation as well as the sacrifices it incurred in the great war."

He inferred that his Government is disposed to imitate the French policy and plead for at least a reduction of the allied claims on account of financial assistance during the war.

In a second part of his speech, which is more likely to please British and American financial circles than the first, the Minister said his journey to France was not connected with a new loan, the calls on French capital for reconstruction having made one impossible at an early date. He had, however, established contact in Paris with new as well as old financial friends, and said the Blair Bank was preparing a new issue of a railway loan this Spring. It is very probable that some British or American house would associate itself with this bank, he added, foreign capital being necessary for the construction of ports and railways and to combat the financial difficulties under which his country is laboring.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—It is now stated, according to a Bombay cablegram, that although it was not, as first reported, an aide de camp to the Maharajah of Indore who was among the men arrested in connection with the Malbar Hill outrage, the officer in question is connected with Maharajah's household.

The latest details published in London of Mumtaz Begum's career state that she was taken to the court of Indore when 13 years old and lived a luxurious life as a favorite, with her own automobile and staff of servants. She visited London in 1921, when 14 years old, as a member of the court retinue and returned to the Indore court as a Nautch girl, but fled in March, 1924. Later she became the favorite of the merchant Bawla, who was offered large sums to release her. As she declined to be persuaded to return, she was threatened. She and her mother were shadowed until forced to seek police protection last December. Then, it is stated, was hatched the plot to abduct the girl which resulted in Bawla's death.

WALSH IS ASSAILED BY DOHENY COUNSEL

ARGUMENTS ARE CONCLUDED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Arguments were concluded in Criminal Court No. 2 today for and against proceedings with the indictments growing out of the naval oil reserve leases, in spite of the radio speech made some time ago by Senator Walsh of Montana which counsel for the oil companies contend affected the public mind and perhaps the outcome of the case.

Senator Walsh was assailed by Frederick R. Kellogg of New York, counsel for the Pan-American Oil and Transport Company, a Doheny concern. Mr. Kellogg appeared as associate counsel for Edward L. Doheny and his son, Edward L. Doheny Jr., who were indicted with Albert B. Fall and Harry F. Sinclair. Senator Walsh, on May 6, 1924, told the country over the radio "all about the oil scandal." Mr. Kellogg declared.

"I note," he said, "that Senator Walsh deplores the public discussion of the Stone-Wheeler matter in the Senate, which deals with the nomination of Mr. Stone for the Supreme bench and the possible indictment of Senator Wheeler by the Grand Jury here. Such discussion, the Senator thinks, might tend to influence the Grand Jury which is expected to investigate the charges against Mr. Wheeler. It is apparent that the Senator has changed his mind.

Says Speech Might Sway Jury.

"Did not Mr. Walsh believe," Mr. Kellogg asked, "that his remarks, his public discussion of the oil cases over the radio, have a tendency to influence the Grand Jury, which was then nearly through with its investigation and about to vote on indictments or presentments?"

Frank J. Hogan, also of counsel for the Dohenys, declared that Senator Walsh's radio speech was made on a Wednesday when Atlee Pomerene and J. Roberts, special counsel for the Government, promised Edward L. Doheny Jr. that the Government did not suspect him of crime and had no intention of indicting him. The younger Doheny was called upon to testify and refused, and the promise of the Government was subsequently made to persuade him to testify, Mr. Hogan charged. This promise, counsel declared, was broken, with the result that the younger Doheny was indicted.

After the arguments were concluded today Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy took the case under advisement and ordered briefs from each side.

Fears that the act of Congress of Feb. 8, 1924, which authorized the President to employ special counsel to institute civil and criminal proceedings in connection with the naval oil leases, might be invalid because it created a special class of prosecutors to prosecute special cases and thereby violated the prohibition against class legislation, were the reasons why Mr. Pomerene and Mr. Roberts sought the aid of the Department of Justice, it was said during the hearing.

Prosecutors Defend Course.

One of the pleas for the abatement of the indictments is based on the alleged unlawful appearance of Mr. Roberts, Mr. Pomerene, Assistant Attorney General Oliver E. Pagan and District Attorney Peyton Gordon in the room with the Grand Jury which indicted the Fall-Doheny-Sinclair group. According to counsel for the defendants only Messrs. Pomerene and Roberts could lawfully appear before the Grand Jury and then only as special counsel for the Government and not as special assistants to the Attorney General.

In response to this contention Mr. Roberts declared that the act of Feb. 2, 1924, placed himself and Mr. Pomerene in charge and control of the investigation and court proceedings and not, in any instance, prevent them from obtaining assistance from the Department of Justice or elsewhere.

Martin W. Littleton of defense counsel replied to this statement with a declaration that the act "deprived the Department of Justice of both the power to pay and the power to prosecute."

When Mr. Roberts touched upon the radio speech of Senator Walsh he insisted that the delay of fifty-five days by counsel for the defense in setting up as a bar to prosecution justified the Court in ignoring the plea.

While Mr. Roberts was telling the Court that the speech did not harm the defendants and that the defense did not contend that any of the grand jurors heard the speech and were prejudiced by it, Justice McCoy asked:

"Is it not a fact, Mr. Roberts, that this Court must take judicial notice of the fact that very often indictments are returned in the midst of a clamoring by the press and public for the indictment of such and such a person or persons? I myself have directed a mistrial in a criminal case because of certain newspaper articles, though I had no proof that any jurors sitting in the case had read the obnoxious articles."

BELGRADE, Jan. 26.—The Pashitch Government has stolen a march on the Opposition in Yugoslavia and has begun a serious offensive. Practically all attempts of the Opposition to hold electionary meetings in the past two days have ended in bloodshed.

Former Premier Davidovich, the Democratic leader, who is now in Belgrade, receives a thousand telegrams daily from all parts of the country relating how his friends and party leaders are being murdered. Tense excitement is noticeable even in Belgrade, where letters are being confiscated and a strict censorship imposed. This is nothing to the excitement prevailing in the rest of the country.

Dr. Kraft, President of the German Party of Yugoslavia, was yesterday violently assaulted during an electionary meeting in Bacha. It is reported today that he died of his wounds. Assaults continue throughout the country.

The Albanian Comitaci, making use of the general disorder prevailing in Yugoslavia, stormed the frontier, attacked and surrounded the artillery garrison of Gjakovieze. After a day's fighting the garrison received reinforcements and beat off the Albanians.

Dinar and Shekel Reappear In Currency of Palestine

JERUSALEM, Jan. 26 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The dinar, the ancient Jewish monetary unit which is so frequently mentioned in Jewish Biblical literature, will again become the monetary unit of the new Palestine. This decision was reached today at the joint meeting of the two commissions appointed by the Palestine Government, one representing Palestine Jews, the other representing Palestine Arabs, for the purpose of choosing a name for the contemplated new currency, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency correspondent learns.

The smaller coins of the Palestine currency will bear two names, one in Hebrew and the other in Arabic. The commissions have agreed to the following: The dinar is to be equal in value to one English pound. A coin representing one-tenth of the dinar will be named "shekel" in Hebrew and "miskal" in Arabic; one-twentieth of the dinar will be called "chetzi-ha'shekel" Hebrew and half "miskal" in Arabic; one-fortieth of the dinar will be named "darkman" in Hebrew and "dirhem" in Arabic; one-thousandth of a dinar will be named "prutah" in Hebrew and "salf" in Arabic.

SENATE VOTES CUT IN ONE MAIL RATE

MORE FOR SOUVENIR CARDS

Two-Cent Stamp on Private Postals Is Approved—Debate Due on Zone Revision.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Advancing its consideration of the postal pay and rate increase bill today, the Senate approved a number of items, including one fixing a rate of 1½ cents a pound on reading matter of all publications, but stopped work on the measure for the day upon reaching the controversial proposal for revision of zone rates on second-class mail.

In fixing the reading matter rate at 1½ cents, the Senate approved a reduction of ½ cent a pound from the rate now paid by general publications and placed them on a parity with religious, scientific and educational periodicals, which already enjoyed the lower rate. At the same time it rejected a recommendation of the Post Office Department that the rate for general publications be increased to 2 cents a pound.

A provision increasing the rate on private and souvenir postcards from 1 to 2 cents was approved, but proposals to advance the rate to 1½ cents on postal cards and on letters mailed where free delivery is not established, as recommended by the department, were rejected.

A determined fight against the proposed advances on the advertising matter of publications subject to second-class zone rates is in prospect. Several amendments designed to eliminate the recommended increases were introduced today, with others proposing decreases in the present rates.

Debate today showed three divisions of thought on the bill. Democrats, headed by Senator Simmons of North Carolina and Swanson of Virginia, were ready to oppose any increase in second-class rates. Senator Sterling, Republican, South Dakota, and Senator Willis, Republican, Ohio, on the other hand, would go further in most instances than reported by the committee, and follow the higher recommendations of the Post Office Department, while Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, in charge of the measure, led the fight for the committee bill.

Responsibility for failure of the postal salary increases, Senator Moses said, must rest directly on Senators who prevent enactment of this bill, "either by mutilation or by filibuster."

The zone rate section, as reported by the committee, proposes to combine the present eight zones into three, with rates of 3 cents on advertising matter in publications to apply to the present first three zones, 6 cents to the present fourth, fifth and sixth zones, and 8 cents to the seventh and eighth zones.

SENDS STONE'S NAME BACK TO COMMITTEE

a second indictment against Senator Wheeler, against whom a charge of conspiracy to rob the Government of oil lands was being considered. Administration leaders did not expect a very determined fight against the Stone nomination. This confidence, it was said, was based on the theory that Democratic Senators who stood behind Senator Wheeler when he was "prosecutor" for the committee which investigated former Attorney General Daugherty would desert him in the present emergency because he had bolted the Democratic Party in the national election to become the running-mate of Senator La Follette on the Progressive ticket.

The Democratic Senators, however, have confused the Administration leaders by lining up almost solidly behind Senator Wheeler, and the row over the nomination of Mr. Stone promises to reestablish the Senator in his party as the Democratic "prosecutor" who drove Daugherty out of the Cabinet and uncovered corruption in the Administration.

In the executive session there was a fairly general expression that it would be unwise to discuss the nomination in open session. This led to the decision to send the nomination back to the Judiciary Committee. This apparently was satisfactory to President Coolidge, for Senator Curtis, who moved for recommital, had come from a morning conference at the White House.

Speculating on Stone's Course.

Just what the Judiciary Committee expects to hear if Mr. Stone appears before it to tell of his plans to seek a new indictment against Senator Wheeler was a much discussed question among the legislators. It was reported that Mr. Stone was anxious for the publication of a letter he sent to Senator Walsh of Montana, as counsel for Senator Wheeler, informing him that an indictment would be sought, and that Mr. Wheeler might appear before the Grand Jury if he consented to waive immunity. A summary of this letter appeared in the newspapers several days ago.

Another version of the contemplated proceedings heard today was that Mr. Stone considered the case in which he would seek indictments here as separate from that in which an indictment was obtained against Senator Wheeler in the Montana courts. It is understood that the contention will be made before the District of Columbia Grand Jury that a conspiracy was concocted to obtain valuable oil lands from the Government, and that to carry out this conspiracy it was necessary to bribe Government officials. It also is understood that an effort may be made to show that Senator Wheeler, perhaps without knowledge that a conspiracy existed, was the instrument by which persons involved in the alleged conspiracy were brought into contact with Government officials to whom bribes were to be offered.

There seemed to be a feeling among the Senators, however, that the forecasts of what Mr. Stone might tell the committee did not include statements which would end the opposition to his confirmation. There was a belief that action might be delayed until the Senate had obtained complete information which would include new evidence, if any, in the possession of Mr. Stone which he could not be expected to tell a Senate Committee before he had taken the case to the Grand Jury.

Wheeler Will Withdraw Demurrer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (Associated Press).—While Attorney General Stone and Senator Wheeler of Montana are in accord on the question of an early trial of the Senator in his home State on a charge of accepting a fee improperly in a land case, the exact time of the proceedings in the Federal District Court remains somewhat uncertain.

Senator Walsh of Montana, counsel for his colleague, has announced that local counsel at Great Falls, where the indictment was returned, has been instructed to withdraw the demurrer to the indictment and the motion for a change of venue to Butte when the court convenes at Great Falls.

Subsequently Mr. Stone addressed a letter to Mr. Walsh, stating that the request for a transfer of the hearing to Butte would be agreed upon if the demurrer were withdrawn and a pleading made by Senator Wheeler, and that the trial would start at Butte at a court term beginning in mid-March.

Asserting late today that he had not received this letter, Senator Walsh said there was no "if" about the withdrawal of the demurrer and the motion. He added that he had been informed by the Attorney General that, although court would convene at Great Falls on Feb. 5, the District Attorney in Montana had advised that there would be no jury to try the case until the latter part of March and that there would be no jury in Butte until some time in May.

FIFTEEN ARE KILLED BY GAS IN ONE DAY

Father, Who Lit Range for Wife and Baby in Bed, Finds Them Dead on Return.

ONE SUICIDE REPORTED

A Child and a Laborer Die From the Fumes From Coal Stoves.

Fifteen persons died from gas poisoning in and around New York yesterday. Illuminating gas killed eleven, of whom only one was a suicide. Coal gas caused the death of a two-and-one-half months' old baby in East Twenty-fourth Street and a laborer in Nassau Hospital. A woman and her infant son were killed by carbon monoxide fumes in their home in Brooklyn.

Peter McMahon, who received considerable publicity five years ago when he charged the Ku Klux Klan with kidnapping him in the South and sending him back to New York a prisoner, was accidently killed by illuminating gas in a furnished room at 15 Maple Avenue, Yonkers. The gas came from an unlighted burner on a small stove on which he was cooking.

It was cold Sunday night in the rooms at 343 East Twenty-fourth Street, where Vahan and Marisa Bogoshian live with their little children. The only heat came from a coal fire in the kitchen range and early yesterday the mother heard her youngest child, Rosa, 5½ months old, coughing in her cradle. She took the cradle and brought it close to the fire. A few hours later she felt a drowsiness overcoming her and, hurrying to the kitchen, she found the infant dead from the coal gas fumes.

The Bogoshians have had a hard time of it since they came to this country from Armenia. Bogoshian now has a temporary job as a porter in a Brooklyn department store. Yesterday while his wife wept over the body of the little child and neighbors commiserated with him, he put his hand in his pocket and drew out $3.

Another death from coal gas yesterday was that of Andrew Koleska, a laborer, who lived on the Jericho Turnpike near Mineola, L. I. He died in Nassau Hospital. Neighbors passing the house last Saturday morning smelled gas from several stoves burning in the basement and found Koleska stretched out on the floor overcome. He rallied for a time after being taken to the hospital, but took a turn for the worse yesterday morning.

Illuminating gas killed Augusta Krell, twenty years old, in her home at 812 East 168th Street, the Bronx. She came home exhausted from a dance, and in throwing some of her clothing over an unused jet partly opened the valve. When her father went to awaken her in the morning he found her dead.

The body of Joseph Sonatron was found by his brother in their rooms, at 1,448 Second Avenue, early in the morning. Death was caused by asphyxiation.

Despondent because of the illness of his wife, Louis Parodi committed suicide by turning on a gas jet in his home at 179 East 109th Street. His brother, who lived with him, found him when he came home from work.

Carbon monoxide gas formed by a gas heater burning for several hours in their unventilated bedroom killed Mrs. Julia Hill, 20, and her infant, George Jr., two months old, as they lay in bed at their home at 114 South Oxford Street, Brooklyn. The latter had shut all the window and let the heater as he left for work to make the room comfortable. When he came home at night he found them dead.

Gas escaping from an unlighted burner in the kitchen stove killed George McQuarrie, his wife Mary and an unidentified woman believed to be Alice Gillen of Classon Point, the Bronx, in the McQuarrie home at 319 Bergen Street, Brooklyn. It was believed that the McQuarries sat down to chat with the other woman, who was visiting them, and failed to notice the fumes.

The water in a kettle in which he was making a beef stew overflowed and put out the flame in a gas stove, and caused the death of Samuel Kobin in his rooms at 315 Avenue A. He was found by a friend who lived with him.

James M. Phillips, 72 years old, was accidentally killed by gas at his home at 223 Fourth Street, Union Hill, N. J. For the past twenty-five years Phillips had been conductor on the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad.

Thomas McDermott, 135 Engert Avenue, was killed and William Martian was overcome by gas escaping from a disconnected tube in Martian's apartment at 15 Broome Street, Brooklyn. McDermott was visiting Martian. The latter was taken to the Greenpoint Hospital, where he is in a serious condition.

Gas Causes Five Deaths.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—Illuminating gas escaping from stoves today caused the deaths of four persons in this city. They were Mary Meade, 67 years old; Edward Miller, 48; Charles H. Aginn, 53, and John Lawrence, 42. All the deaths are believed by the police to have been accidents.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 26.—Joseph E. F. Woesley, 73, retired jeweler, was asphyxiated while preparing supper in his kitchen tonight. He lived alone.

AMERICAN CAPITAL FOR CENTRAL EUROPE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—American and British interests will cooperate to provide new capital for Central European undertakings, according to the financial editor of The London Times.

The acute scarcity of capital in Central Europe brought into being last year several new companies, formed under British auspices, to finance European industry. There will be registered soon another undertaking that will work on somewhat similar lines as an industrial finance and investment corporation. It will have a capital of £1,000,000, of which £750,000 will be paid up almost immediately, the whole of it being found privately by a group which includes some of the leading houses in London, together with representatives of the Continental Trust, formed recently in New York.

The scope of the new company will not be geographically restricted, but Central Europe will provide a field for its chief energies.

"It is particularly interesting to observe that the new company will represent the cooperation of British and American interests," says The London Times. "This is a very desirable arrangement, for harmony between London and New York in granting financial assistance to the Continent is essential if the best results are to be obtained."

NEW GEDNEY FARM HOTEL.

To Be Erected on Site of One Which Fire Destroyed.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Plans for a $500,000 structure to replace Gedney Farm Hotel, which was destroyed by fire last September, with a loss of $1,000,000, were announced today by Kenneth M. Murchison of 101 Park Avenue, New York City, architect. He has been engaged to draw the plans.

The project will be financed by a corporation to be formed in the next month, he said. One of the members will be Edward H. Crandall, who owned Gedney Farm Hotel. The same site here will be used.

Construction will be started in July.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Gillespie Myers of 153 West Seventy-eighth Street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Constance Myers, to Dr. Arthur Forrest Anderson of this city. Miss Myers was graduated from Vassar in 1919. Dr. Anderson, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Chalmers Anderson of Westerly, R. I., is a graduate of Tufts College Medical School. He served in the Medical Corps during the war. The wedding will take place in the late Spring.

Father Meets Son In Court.

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 26.—Silas Swift of Bloomfield, N. Y., and his son Malcolm, also known as Howard Carson, met for the first time after a separation of seven years today in Superior Court here, where the young man was arraigned on charges of breaking and entering. Mr. Swift told the Court the boy was enticed from home when he was 14 years of age by a man who taught him to steal and then abandoned him to shift for himself. Young Swift was put on probation.

HYLAN TO ASK PARTY FOR RENOMINATION

Intention Made Known to End Talk of Mayor's Running for Supreme Court.

EXPECTS NO DIFFICULTY

Also Feels Confident of Winning a Third Term on His Transit Record.

Mayor Hylan intends to ask the Democratic Party for a renomination for a third term and expects to get it without any particular difficulty.

This information was obtained yesterday from an authoritative source and was intended to end reports that the Mayor might take a nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court, or would acquiesce in the selection of some other candidate.

According to close friends, Mayor Hylan expects not only to be renominated but to be re-elected. It was said that a large part of his confidence in his renomination was caused by his belief that he would be more likely to be elected than any other Democratic candidate and that certain influences in Tammany which would prefer another candidate realize that what seems to be an excellent chance for party success at the election next November might be jeopardized by refusal to renominate him.

Mayor Hylan was reported to be entirely willing to stand on his record on transit and to believe that he could be re-elected on the transit issue alone. It was said that one reason for his desire to serve another term was his belief that his work to establish a municipal transit system was unfinished and that another Mayor might be willing to abandon his program and turn over the proposed new subways, construction of which is expected to be well under way before election, to one of the present operating companies as extensions of its present system.

Dispatches from Albany yesterday carried the rumor, apparently emanating from Republican sources, that Supreme Court Justice John V. McAvoy, appointed by Governor Smith to investigate the transit situation, would recommend in his report that the Transit Commission should be abolished on the ground that even the retention of the power of regulation of transit companies carried with it a divided authority and that the city should have control of both regulation and construction. Mayor Hylan was said to have no information concerning Justice McAvoy's report, but to believe that the evidence taken by him showed that the abolition of the Commission was desirable.

From other sources it was learned that Justice McAvoy has not yet written his report. Henry L. Sherman, his counsel, only received the brief of former Justice Clarence J. Shearn, special counsel of the Transit Commission, on Saturday, and is expected to confer with Justice McAvoy concerning the report today. It was said that it would be ten days or two weeks before Justice McAvoy filed his report with the Governor.

Whether Justice McAvoy recommends abolition of the Transit Commission or not—and information on this point was unobtainable—there was said to be no chance whatever that the Republican Legislature would pass a bill to that effect.

PRUSSIAN CLERICALS FIRM.

Strong Pressure Put on Them to Join New Cabinet Group.

BERLIN, Jan. 26 (Associated Press).—The political parties in Prussia were still in deadlock today on the question of finding a successor to Premier von Braun's three-party coalition Cabinet which resigned last Friday after failing to obtain a decisive majority on a motion voting it the confidence of the Diet. Although the Socialists are numerically the strongest party in the Diet and as such are entitled to nominate a Premier from the party's ranks, it now is believed the radicals will forego that privilege and will permit the Clericals to name a man to succeed Herr von Braun.

The situation is already paralleling that which obtained during the recent Federal Government crisis, in that the Nationalists and the German People's Party are employing tactics calculated to "wear down" the resistance of the Clericals in Prussia to the formation of a bourgeois Cabinet. Up to the present the Clericals have remained staunch in their determination to stick to the Socialists and the Democrats in their attempt to revive the three-party coalition government.

FIRE COMMISSIONER REMOVED BY MAYOR

having knowledge of the situation declined to discuss that phase of it, but the general impression was that Mr. Drennan might have some difficulty in regaining the Commissionership.

Thomas J. Drennan was one of Mayor Hylan's original appointees when the Mayor first took office on Jan. 1, 1918. At that time Mr. Drennan was Deputy County Clerk of Kings County. He had previously been Deputy Tax Commissioner under Mayor McClellan and Secretary of the Board of Assessors during the Administration of Mayor Gaynor.

Mr. Drennan had long been active in Democratic politics in Brooklyn and his selection was understood at the time to have been satisfactory to John H. McCooey, the Brooklyn Democratic leader, and to Charles F. Murphy, then leader of Tammany Hall. Mr. Drennan was generally believed to have got along well with Mayor Hylan, with whom he was credited with being on terms of personal friendship, although Deputy Controller Frank J. Prial in the course of an inquiry into the expense accounts of Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield's investigators asserted that the Fire Department had been under investigation by Commissioner Hirshfield for some months.

Mr. Hannon was appointed Deputy Fire Commissioner in March, 1920, to succeed Charles W. Culkin, Tammany leader of the Fifth Assembly District, who resigned. Mr. Hannon was at one time Clerk of the First District Municipal Court and several years ago was Alderman from the Greenwich Village section.

HIRSHFIELD REPORTS SNOW REMOVAL GRAFT

Charges Evil Is Widespread in Letter to the Mayor—Names a Policeman and Two Foremen.

Charges of widespread petty graft in the city's task of snow removal were made yesterday by David Hirshfield, Commissioner of Accounts, in a letter to Mayor Hylan. The charges, the Commissioner said, were based upon testimony at an investigation he had conducted in cooperation with Alfred E. Taylor, Commissioner of the Department of Street Cleaning.

Copies of Commissioner Hirshfield's report have been sent to the Police Commissioner and to the District Attorney of Kings County for action, as a member of the uniformed police force and also two Brooklyn foremen of the Street Cleaning Department are said to be implicated.

Thus far, the Commissioner of Accounts says in his letter, he is prepared to proceed only against the two foremen and the policeman whom he names, but he also suggests that action be taken against two of the smaller snow removal contractors, whom he also names. Other cases, Mr. Hirshfield says, are under investigation.

Mr. Hirshfield said that he had examined under oath all persons directly concerned and had found that one of the contractors after having received a snow removal contract for a Flatbush area at 44½ cents a cubic yard had sublet the contract to another man for 38 cents a cubic yard. The original contractor then, Mr. Hirshfield asserted, hired motor trucks at $25 a day for snow removal. The trucks were of the seven and one-half ton capacity type and netted the contractors $3.33 and $2.85 a load, respectively. Thus, according to Mr. Hirshfield, ten loads a day left both contractors in the clear.

Commissioner Hirshfield and Commissioner Taylor held several conferences and decided that Brooklyn was the best place to begin the effort to run down the snow removal graft. Inspectors then were sent to Flatbush secretly to check up on the snow removal work. Thomas G. Ryan, an employe of the Commissioner of Accounts office, reported that two trucks noted by him had actually carried only eighteen loads each, whereas their time slips, punched by city-employed foremen, showed that they had carted more than thirty loads.

Commissioner Hirshfield said the drivers of the two trucks, who, because they were hired at a flat rate per day, were not participants in the alleged graft, had admitted that their tickets gave them credit for ten more loads than they actually had hauled. The Commissioner recommended the dismissal of the policeman and of the two municipal foremen.

GOVERNOR QUESTIONS RULING BY OTTINGER

Letter to Hulbert Read in Senate Denies He Has to Call Special Election.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 26.—The Hulbert case provoked a rather lively debate in the Senate tonight. It began when Senate Leader Knight read a letter which Governor Smith sent today to Murray Hulbert, deposed President of the New York Board of Aldermen, in which the Governor said that he was in thorough accord with the position Mr. Hulbert had taken in withdrawing and expressed his disagreement with the opinion of Attorney General Ottinger that a special election must be called to fill the vacancy.

Before Governor Smith's letter had been made public Senator Knight had prepared a statement on the Hulbert case to be read in the Senate tonight. In this the temporary President pointed out that all the complications in connection with the Hulbert matter were due to the mistake made by Governor Smith when he appointed the former Aldermanic President a member of the State Finger Lakes Parks Commission.

Minority Leader James J. Walker of the Senate, in responding, accused the Republicans of playing politics and declared that the statement of Senator Knight was an attempt at establishing an alibi.

Senator Knight in his statement declared that the Republicans in the Senate would not attempt to make Governor Smith call a special election, should he be unwilling to do so.

Governor Smith in his letter, which the Senate leader attempted to have it appear was the text for his own statement, said: "In the opinion of the Attorney General the Vice Chairman of the Board of Aldermen may exercise the function of the President. This clears up the doubt which existed when I sent my message to the Legislature and will be readily accepted as a solution of the difficulty. But I cannot agree with the Attorney General that the Legislature is powerless to amend the law it already enacted. I particularly disagree with that part of his opinion which states that I am compelled to impose upon the people of New York City the enormous expense of a special election. The Public Officers' Act says that the Governor may call such election in his discretion. That does not mean that he is compelled to call one."

Senator Knight then said the Governor, "a Democrat," had made the first mistake in the matter; Controller Craig, "a Democrat," has discovered the blunder; Justice Proskauer, "a Democrat," sustained the contention of Craig. Neither the Republican Legislature nor the Attorney General is responsible for the cost of this election. It is directly chargeable to the Governor.

25 FIREMEN FALL FROM GAS FUMES

Twenty-five firemen were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes while fighting a small blaze in the basement of a five-story tenement at 15 Stanton Street yesterday. Five were in so serious a condition that they were sent to hospitals. The others were able to return to their quarters after receiving treatment from ambulance surgeons.

The fire was confined to a coal bin in the basement. It is not known how it started. Smoke was noticed coming up through a grating by some persons passing by and an alarm was turned in. Several companies, including Engine Companies 17 and 33 and Truck Company 9, responded.

Under Battalion Chief Harry Helm the firemen went into the basement and were making quick work at putting out the fire when one by one they began to fall. The basement was small and was crowded with the firemen. Some of the first who were overcome were able to cry for help. As rescuers responded they, too, were overcome. More than two dozen had fallen before other firemen, with wet handkerchiefs over their faces, carried them to the sidewalk, where they were stretched out on blankets borrowed from neighboring houses.

First aid was administered and by the time ambulances arrived more than half of the injured had recovered. An emergency crew from the Consolidated Gas Company worked with a pulmotor over nine of the more seriously stricken.

The condition of five firemen who were stretched out on the sidewalk was considered so serious that Father Albert McGovern of St. Mary's Church, Grand Street, near Ridge, who was at the scene, administered the last rites of the Church to them before the ambulances took them away.

The five who were taken to hospitals were Lieutenant George Morris, Engine Company 17; Fireman James Maher, Engine Company 33, and Fireman Victor Dignes, Truck Company 9, to Gouverneur Hospital, and Firemen Joseph Brady and Thomas Brennan of Engine Company 17, to Bellevue Hospital. All are expected to recover.

ASKS RATIFICATION OF WATER TREATY

Tri-State Compact Should Be Approved Quickly, Says Hylan.

ENGINEER TELLS NEED

Merriman Says City Will Have Outgrown Present Supply in Ten Years.

Mayor Hylan, discussing the tri-State treaty between the States of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania for the use of the waters of the Delaware River, said yesterday:

"The proposed compact represents one of the most important and forward-looking steps that have ever been taken in the public interest, and I hope that it will be ratified speedily by the three Legislatures."

Thaddeus Merriman, Chief Engineer of the city's Board of Water Supply, declared that in less than ten years this city will have outgrown its present sources of potable water supply, including every drop drawn from the Catskill-Croton system and the auxiliary Long Island sources, and will be obliged to tap extensive new supplies.

The Mayor's comment follows:

"The announcement that an agreement covering the water resources of the Delaware River has been signed by commissioners representing Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York is of great importance to the people of these three States. It is always necessary that our water supplies should be kept abreast of requirements, and the treaty just signed is one of the longest and best steps ever taken in that direction. With the rapidly growing populations in Philadelphia, in New Jersey and in our own city, it is most fitting that steps should have been taken to insure their future interests in the best and most available source of supply within reasonable reach of them all.

"It will not be long before we in New York must actively further a plan for an additional water supply. The first step in that direction was taken by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in June, 1922, and the Board of Water Supply has now reported, for approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, a plan for a tunnel to carry water to the several boroughs of the city. This tunnel will supplement the present tunnel in carrying Catskill water, and it will be ready and available to distribute water from the Delaware when the development of that source shall become necessary."

"Probably before the year 1935," said Mr. Merriman, "New York City will have outgrown all its present sources of water supply. If by that time we have developed our just share of the Delaware's resources, this city will then have a maximum daily water supply of 11,000 million gallons, including the joint yield of the Delaware River, with our present supply.

"New York City's rate of consumption daily is now about 800,000,000 gallons, of which 500,000,000 gallons is drawn from the Catskill-Ashokan district, and the balance from the older Croton and Long Island sources.

"A maximum ultimate development of the Delaware River resources in accordance with the relative distribution determined by the terms of the tri-State compact would give to Pennsylvania 3,000 million gallons a day and to New York and New Jersey about 1,500 million gallons each.

"Port Jervis is the nearest point to New York City on the Delaware River. Probably any aqueduct built to carry Delaware River water to this city would tap the main reservoir not far from there. The distance from Port Jervis to City Hall is about fifty-five miles, but an aqueduct probably would have to be more nearly seventy miles long, because it would have to traverse New York State territory exclusively, and be tied up with the Kensico reservoir to mingle the Delaware waters with the Catskill supply impounded there.

"The area of the Delaware watershed, which will be tributary to this great prospective supply and which extends to the northern boundary of Delaware, is 10,444 square miles. Of this, 6,079 square miles are within Pennsylvania, 2,387 in New York and 1,979 in New Jersey."

SUBWAY SAFETY GATE HURTS 3 ON PLATFORM

Second Accident in Three Days From Device Causes Delay in Morning Rush Hour.

Three persons standing on the platform of the 125th Street subway station were slightly hurt yesterday by being hit by the swinging safety gates of a southbound express train, which passed the station without stopping, to make up time lost by a preceding mishap. It was the second accident within three days caused by a safety gate, as the iron lattice work between the cars is called. The previous accident, in which no one was hurt, occurred Saturday night when a loosened gate wrapped itself around a pillar so tightly that it took a wrecking crew fifteen minutes to get it free and permit the train to proceed.

The series of mishaps which resulted in the 125th Street accident started when an express train on the Interborough west side subway developed mechanical trouble and was ordered withdrawn from service at the West 145th Street station. This happened about 8:30, at the beginning of the morning rush period, and considerable delay was caused by the passengers refusing to leave the train.

After much pleading the passengers finally left the cars and the train was shunted to a siding. The express train following was more crowded by these passengers and the motorman received orders to run to the Ninety-sixth Street station without stopping.

The safety gate swung loose at some point in the run between 145th and 125th Streets. As it passed the 125th Street station at full speed a woman at the north end of the platform screamed and fell backward. Other prospective passengers managed to dodge the loosened gate, which swung over the platform like a flail, but several were hit.

Two persons were taken to the Knickerbocker Hospital. They were Margaret Chadwick, 35 years old, of 449 West 122d Street, with a fracture of the right hand, and Harry Smith, 20 years old, a clerk, of 2,091 Hoyt Avenue, Fort Lee, N. J., who was cut about the face and body. Dr. Kolar of the hospital staff also attended Annelatia La Fortezzo, 20 years old, a clerk, of 13 West 130th Strete, for bruises of the right foot.

The two accidents caused an actual delay of about half an hour on the west side southbound express tracks, the effects of which were felt through most of the morning rush period. The loosened gate was tied with a piece of rope and the train continued in service.

At the Interborough offices it was said that the company's engineers were considering some device that would make the safety gates really safe. Difficulty had been caused, it was explained, by failure of guards to fasten the gates properly and by passengers unfastening them.

Texas Senate Rejects Child Labor Amendment.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 26.—At the close of a several-hour debate on the Federal Child Labor Amendment, the Senate today refused to ratify the amendment by a vote of 19 to 2. Opposition to this amendment was expressed in the State Democratic platform and the opposition accords with the views of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. Slight illness kept Governor Ferguson at the Executive Mansion today, and the duties of her office were performed by her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson.

SHEARN ATTACKED BY HYLAN ON BRIEF

SAYS HE BLOCKED 'SCHEME'

Mayor Also Berates the Transit Commissioners and Dahl—Scoffs at Ryan.

Mayor Hylan replied yesterday to the brief filed by Clarence J. Shearn, special counsel for the Transit Commission, with Justice John V. McAvoy with an attack upon Judge Shearn, the three Transit Commissioners and Gerhard M. Dahl, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation. The Mayor suggested that it might be a good thing for the city if Mr. Dahl returned to New Orleans and took Judge Shearn and the three commissioners with him.

The Mayor's statement follows:

Mr. Shearn represents the McAneny State Transit Commission. Would you expect anything else? This commission has been trying for more than four years to extend the iniquities of the dual subway contracts so that the B. M. T. and the I. R. T. may get additional franchises, additional millions of the people's money and a complete monopoly of transit in this city.

Strange as it may seem Mr. Shearn is the same gentleman who denounced the dual subway contracts and according to Mr. Harkness, 'opposed them at every stage.' Of course his opposition of some ten years ago was well paid for. Today he is being equally well paid, no doubt, by the other side for taking the opposite view.

Jake Sharp got the Broadway franchise from the Boodle Board of Aldermen and we know to what public scorn these Aldermen were held up. McAneny, under the dual subway camouflage contracts, not only gave the most valuable franchises in the world to the B. M. T. and the I. R. T., but along with them some $250,000,000 of the people's money. And now Mr. Shearn would paint Mr. McAneny in the light of a public benefactor, when the purpose of McAneny, the father of the dual subway contracts, of O'Ryan, the moving platform star, and of Harkness, the increased fare advocate, is to extend the iniquities of the dual subway contracts through the granting to the private operators of more franchises and more of the people's money.

Says He Thwarted Scheme.

To date the City Administration has blocked this nefarious scheme. Jerry Dahl and the B. M. T. do not like this. Their sympathizers, McAneny, Harkness and O'Ryan, are equally put out. Hence their lawyer, Clarence J. Shearn, must also show displeasure. This is being done by a meaningless abuse of the public officials who have thwarted the attempted steal.

O'Ryan spoke before a church congregation the other night. He lamented the crowding and jamming as against public morals. O'Ryan knows that if he did his duty for the money that the people paid him he could soon stop this overcrowding and jamming in many instances which would make unnecessary his hypocritical lamentations before a church congregation. He might have, but he did not, tell about his moving platform scheme which he tried to put over upon this city.

It is very plain that Shearn's brief is merely a further attempt to mislead the people and to shift the responsibility for the present transit situation from the shoulders of the private operators and their sympathetic transit commission to the shoulders of the City Administration.

It is too bad that the opportunity was not given to us to examine Jerry Dahl in connection with the charges made against the Transit Commission. Had this been possible we would have asked him what became of the $4,700,000 of B. M. T. reorganization money. We have not had a chance to examine Dahl on this point. Perhaps we shall have in the near future and then the people will be assured of some interesting if not scandalous disclosures.

Wants Him Back in New Orleans.

There is one thing that Jerry Dahl could do which this Administration would not oppose. He could go back to New Orleans. And we would not have any objection if he took Shearn, McAneny, Harkness and O'Ryan to Bear him company. There is one thing he cannot do. He will not be able to put over on the people of this city what he put over on the people of New Orleans.

Cornelius M. Sheehan, Deputy Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, denied Judge Shearn's statement that Justice McAvoy had repeatedly invited the attendance of witnesses to substantiate the Mayor's charges against the Transit Commissioners.

"Your statement is evidently intended to convey to the public the impression that the witness stand was open to any one who desired to take it and express their views on the kind of service that was being given and who had any remedy for same," Mr. Sheehan said in a letter to Judge Shearn.

HYLAN BUS BILL INTRODUCED.

Measure to Give New Powers to Transportation Board Also Offered.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Bills urged by Mayor Hylan to permit New York City to own and operate municipal buses and trackless trolleys were introduced in the Legislature tonight by Senator James J. Walker and Assemblyman Maurice Bloch, the Democratic leaders. It had been expected these measures would be offered a week ago, but the Democratic leaders wanted an opportunity to study them.

A bill which would clothe the New York City Board of Transportation with power to take over the operation of municipal ferry lines and trackless trolleys was introduced also by Walker and Bloch. Under this the board could have assigned to it jurisdiction over bus operation within the city limits.

However, when she refused to be conducted on a "visit" of the building, attendants seized her and threw her into a barred and padded room. Sobbing, the Countess offered to do anything, pay large sums, turn over her whole fortune to the family, and even go to America, provided only that her little baby girl be not taken from her. Finally, after she was held down, a hypodermic injection made the Countess fall into a deep sleep.

Two days later she was taken to see her mother, but, no agreement having apparently been reached, she was taken back to the asylum, where she was kept until Dec. 20. That day her mother visited her and a possible arrangement was discussed. Nevertheless she was still detained. The doctor attempted to force her to take some odd-tasting pills, which, however, she managed to secrete instead of swallowing.

Having succeeded in smuggling a letter to her private secretary, the Countess was freed a few days ago and immediately had herself examined by a number of well-known doctors, including Professor Babinsky and Dr. Voronoff, who signed a formal declaration testifying to her complete sanity.

To THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent the Countess said this afternoon that the story as related by M. Londres was true indeed and that when the case came up in the courts even more startling facts would come to light, but intimated that she could not just now add anything further.

The asylum where the Countess was sequestered is full of many patients, notably drug addicts, many of whom are foreigners. The methods employed by certain charlatans to exploit rich foreigners, it is said, will be exposed.

BALLOTS IN FRAUD CASE TAKEN TO GRAND JURY

Will Be Inspected Today to Check Rosken's Story He Voided Votes for Sirovich.

Ballots used in the Twentieth and Twenty-third Election Districts of the Eighth Assembly District last election day will be inspected today by the January Additional Grand Jury investigating charges of fraud in the re-election of Representative Nathan D. Perlman, Republican, over his Democratic opponent, Dr. William I. Sirovich.

George Rosken, a Republican tally clerk in the Twenty-third Election District, brought about the inquiry by a statement several weeks ago to District Attorney Banton and Chief Assistant District Attorney Pecora. Rosken asserted that he voided certain ballots cast for Dr. Sirovich with a writing lead concealed in a ring, that he marked others so that they were counted for Mr. Perlman and deprived Dr. Sirovich of his rightful majority in the district.

The ballots were delivered to the Grand Jury yesterday on an order signed by Judge Morris Koenig in General Sessions and are to be inspected by order of Supreme Court Justice Davis. Those of the Twenty-third District previously had been delivered on a Supreme Court order, but were returned when Mr. Pecora became apprehensive lest handling them might prevent a Congressional investigation of the election, requested last December by Dr. Sirovich.

Representative Perlman recently wrote a letter to District Attorney Banton waiving any such contention in event of a congressional investigation, and demanding that the Grand Jury inspect the ballots. Rosken had been unable to produce corroboration of his charges, it was said, but had offered to furnish proof of them through demonstration on the ballots of his district.

The delivery of the boxes from the Twentieth District was unexpected. It developed that George Lewis, an alleged ex-convict, had made an affidavit that he had been substituted as an official last election day in that election district, and that frauds were committed there. John Godfrey Saxe, Chairman of the Law Committee of Tammany Hall, called the attention of Mr. Pecora to Lewis's statement last Friday.

When Mr. Pecora was about to enter the Grand Jury chamber yesterday he said that it was not likely that he would call Lewis before the body, unless the inspection of ballots in the Twentieth District made it necessary. "I can get Lewis through the Parole Board any time I need him," Mr. Pecora said. It is expected that the investigation will be finished tomorrow.

PRINCE'S REGIMENT SENDS CHALLENGE HERE

N. Y. Guardsmen Invited to Bisley to Shoot Match for Sir Howard Vincent Shield.

The Prince of Wales's honorary regiment, the Queen's Westminster and Civil Service Rifles, challenged the 107th Regiment, New York National Guard, yesterday, to shoot with them in a match for the Sir Howard Vincent Challenge Shield at Bisley Range, near London, in midsummer. The Prince, who is believed to have inspired the challenge, has joined his regiment in expressing the hope that the 107th Regiment will accept the challenge.

When he visited the United States for the first time in 1919 the Prince went to the 107th Regiment Armory and there saw, flanked by a British and an American flag, the trophy that had been held by the Americans since 1908.

When the Prince returned to England he was made Honorary Colonel of the Queen's Westminster and Civil Service Rifles, the challenging regiment.

The challenge of the Britishers was sent by Colonel Geoffrey H. Cox, commanding the Queen's Westminster and Civil Service Rifles, to Colonel Wade H. Hayes, commanding the 107th Regiment, New York National Guard. Colonel Hayes said last night that his regiment would welcome an opportunity to accept the challenge, but it will first have to be laid before the regiment.

Col. Hayes will formally acknowledge today the receipt of the challenge.

The trophy was offered in 1905. The Queen's Westminster and Civil Service Rifles won the trophy at the first shoot held that year. The rules of the match provided that the second shoot should be held in the United States and that thereafter the shoot should be held in the country holding the trophy. At the second shoot in 1908 the 107th Regiment won the shield and has held it ever since, although no contests were held after the beginning of the World War.

ALESSANDRI NAMES TERMS TO RETURN

Chilean President Demands Civil Government and Other Reforms or He Will Remain Abroad.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Jan. 26.—President Arturo Alessandri of Chile, who has been invited by the Provisional Government established in Santiago after the coup last week to return home and resume power, arrived in Rome today from Venice, where he was on a vacation. After a thorough examination of the situation in Chile as revealed by official dispatches to the embassy here, he has cabled a conditional acceptance.

If his conditions are not accepted, his message states, his mind is firmly made up to remain a voluntary exile, fearing that his presence in Chile would cause further disturbances.

The conditions are:

Second, guarantees that he will be allowed freely to exercise full constitutional powers, all military units being immediately ordered to return to their proper functions.

Third, immediate convocation of a constituent assembly to discuss the reform Constitution, which has so long been desired by the Chilean people.

Fourth, approval by this constituent assembly of new laws regulating the election of the Chamber, the Senate and the President of the republic in time for him, upon the expiration of his term of office on Dec. 23, to hand over the power to a new President.

SAYS FUSION IS IMPOSSIBLE

Due to New Ballot Law, Declares Ex-Governor Whitman.

The junior members of the Republican Committee of One Hundred gave a dinner and dance at the Hotel McAlpin last night in honor of the senior members. Miss Emily Delafield presided, and speeches were made by ex-Governor Charles S. Whitman, ex-Senator Nathaniel Elsberg, Miss Mary Stuart of the United States Employment Service and Mrs. Mary Hatch Willard, Chairman of the senior division of the organization.

Mr. Whitman said the new ballot law makes fusion, as it was understood in previous elections, impossible at the approaching Mayoralty contest. He said Tammany could be beaten and the history of Mayoralty elections in New York has been that before the advent of Mayor Hylan, a Tammany Mayor never won a majority of the votes since consolidation, with the exception of Mayor McClellan. He said the Republicans should choose men who are platforms in themselves for this election. The Mayoralty candidate, he said, need not necessarily be a Republican, as people no longer voted on a party basis in a municipal election.

Senator Elsberg attacked the Hylan Administration, saying that though there was no financial dishonesty there was intellectual dishonesty and the Government did not appeal to the best in its citizenry but to their worst feelings. "The highest officers of the city seem to spend most of their time calling each other names," he said, "and meetings of our Board of Estimate are spectacles unparalleled in any Government anywhere else in the world."

MAYOR AND CRAIG ROW ON HIRSHFIELD

DENIES BARRING RECORDS

"The open season for placing responsibility where it belongs is now here. You can't duck responsibility by going to Palm Beach."

That was the taunt flung at Mayor Hylan by Controller Craig yesterday while the Board of Estimate was sitting in Committee of the Whole. The outbreak was precipitated by a long written appeal, in which David Hirshfield set forth to the Mayor the troubles he has encountered in trying to get access to records of the Controller's office needed in investigations he is conducting.

After a wrangle between the Mayor and the Controller, the Mayor succeeded, against Mr. Craig's protest, in putting through a resolution directing Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson to prepare a report suggesting ways and means whereby Mr. Hirshfield can gain access to Controller Craig's records. William T. Collins, acting President of the Board of Aldermen as successor to Murray Hulbert, voted with the Mayor, but explained that he did it not as an attack upon the Controller but because the resolution merely called for a report from the Corporation Counsel.

Before adoption of the Mayor's resolution the Controller told the members of the Board of Estimate that Commissioner Hirshfield was "merely the Mayor's political mouthpiece" and that Mayor Hylan by this action was "trying to use the Board of Estimate for political purposes."

After he had declared that the proposed action by the board in calling for the aid of the Corporation Counsel would "only result in another lawsuit, with the city mulcted for its costs," Controller Craig said to the Mayor: "You must take the responsibility for every word he says in your behalf. If such a lawsuit does ensue, however, it will result in landing Hirshfield just where he belongs. I want the members of this board to know that the Department of Finance does not need any investigation. The people of New York know the degree of villification of which the Commissioner of Accounts is capable. You want to force the Tammany Hall and other members of this board to take issue with the Controller."

"Even so," replied the Mayor, "will you give us permission to examine your office?"

"I never refused any one access to my office or to my records or my books," retorted the Controller. "I never even excluded your vile Commissioner of Accounts. You take care of your job and I will take care of mine."

Mayor Hylan told the board he had information of matters that ought to be investigated in the Controller's office and added: "I think that the Controller should help instead of obstructing."

"There is no truth in that statement," said the Controller, "the Mayor is asking you into a political fight."

The report submitted by Julius Miller, Borough President of Manhattan, regarding plans for the improvement of Riverside Park and Drive led to another encounter between the Mayor and the Controller. The report had been drafted by a special committee named by the Mayor and headed by Borough President Miller. Controller Craig, who claims authorship of the original plans for the Riverside Park extension down to the waterline and for the covering of the New York Central tracks by a driveway, declared the project was "ten years old" and that the Mayor's committee was not prompted by any desire to make headway.

"The members of your committee," said the Controller, "are all working together all right, but they are working to chloroform the improvement."

"Don't pay any attention to the rantings of this gentleman," said the Mayor. "I will tell the truth about this matter and others," said the Controller, "and I'll make you sick when I tell it, too."

"This report," said the Controller, "shows that it is a six months' job, and it has been bandied back and forth for ten years. It is nothing but another move made by you and your committee to get into my way in this matter."

The committee was thanked by the board for its work.

OPIUM CONFERENCE NEARING AGREEMENT

CECIL AND PORTER MEET

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Jan. 26.—The outlook for the American opium plan is better today than at any time since the beginning of the second conference. Practically all the remaining differences with respect to drug manufacture, suppression of traffic in prepared opium and fixing a formula for the beginning of the fifteen-year period of progressive reduction are now resolved. What is most important, however, is the get-together spirit which has suddenly descended on the conference.

The official work today was of little importance. The delegates considered the election of a President of the Conference Committee. M. Zahle of Denmark, President of the second conference, was chosen for this important position, but was indisposed to grapple with the work. The election was postponed until tomorrow.

Unofficially the work was important. since Satruay night all the delegates have been trying to work out a formula for the beginning of the fifteen-year period. Yesterday Mr. Porter was closeted with Lord Cecil for two hours, and not only were most cordial relations restored, but practically all remaining drug problems were solved and views exchanged on suppression of the prepared opium traffic.

There is little question in the minds of the delegates that Great Britain is willing to go far in order not to sacrifice the drug convention by a general break-up. Lord Cecil told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that the work accomplished on the drug question was of such tremendous value he would do all in his power to prevent its being lost.

On the question of the prepared opium traffic it would not be surprising if an agreement were reached which Mr. Porter would be able to sign. While it has been stated in Washington that Mr. Porter has plenary powers, he is completely tied by the appropriation act.

M. Delevigne of the French delegation, asked if the conference would accept the French suggestion for limitation of the opium traffic, said the Japanese were more reasonable, as they gave China five years to reduce production to medicinal requirements before the league is called on to state conditions that permit progressive reduction of traffic. The declaration fixing the period of two years for suppression of cultivation M. Delevigne declared too short to be practical.

The position of England and France is simple: So long as China's yearly production is thousands of tons, traffic would be carried on to the profit of smugglers, prices increased to detriment of smokers and the encouragement of producers. At the same time important revenue would be lost. They are willing to lose the revenue if it benefits humanity, but are unwilling to hand it over to smugglers, who will increase suffering. For these reasons they insist the period of progressive reduction commences only when the League is able to ascertain that China is actively suppressing production. While perhaps a fair attitude, the Americans declare it is too indefinite. China, they say, is the world's weakest Government. Nothing indicates it can or will suppress cultivation.

The Swiss Government this evening informed the second opium conference that formalities of notifying The Hague of ratification of the opium convention of 1912 were complied with on Jan. 15. On the same date was signed the protocol of the convention.

The convention was ratified three months ago, but the Swiss law for ratification was held in abeyance to permit a referendum.

The Swiss themselves do not hesitate to brand the attitude on the drug problem a national shame. They are as great offenders as any other nation in the manufacture of dangerous habit-forming drugs and responsible for much of the drugs smuggled into America. The entire drug manufacture is carried on at Basle, and the power of the drug magnates has kept Switzerland out of The Hague convention. Formal ratification of the convention makes the work of the delegates to the present opium conference less difficult.

Lighter in Lake Managua Capsizes With 100 From the Tulsa.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 26 (Associated Press).—Three sailors and one United States marine of a liberty party of 100 from the United States gunboat Tulsa, were drowned in Lake Managua Saturday when a heavily loaded lighter on which the men were being conveyed to a larger vessel, capsized.

The Tulsa had accompanied Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director of the Pan-American Union, to Managua from Corinto. The sailors and marines were guests of the Nicaraguan Government.

The lighter, loaded with baggage and forty men, capsized midway between the shore and the larger vessel. The party had left the railroad at Boqueron to complete the journey to Managua by water.

The bodies of the thus-far unidentified men were not recovered, and it is thought they may have been devoured by alligators.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The Navy Department was advised today that four men of a liberty party from the cruiser Tulsa were missing and "probably drowned," as the result of the capsizing of a small boat on Lake Manague. They are Seamen James W. T. Burton, G. H. Hough, H. C. Cook and Private Willie Bowen of the Marine Corps. The home addresses of all were listed in Georgia in the Marine Corps records.

According to the election ordinance, every male citizen more than 20 years old may vote; every 250 men choose a secondary elector, and eighty of the electors choose a deputy, who thus represents 20,000 voters. Parliament must include at least four Christians and four Jewish members.

GERMANS LOSE SUIT TO RECOVER STOCK

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Efforts on the part of the German banks and German individuals to recover American stock certificates on deposit in London branches of German institutions at the beginning of the war, estimated to be worth approximately $100,000,000, were defeated today through a decision of the United States Supreme Court confirming Great Britain's title to the property involved.

The court opinion in this case was read by Associate Justice Holmes, who held, in effect, that the British Government was entitled to ownership of the American stocks or certificates representing stock, owned by alien enemies, seized by it during the war, and that the pre-war owners could not compel an American corporation to issue substitute stock for that lost as an incident of war.

The court upheld the right of a belligerent in time of war to capture enemy property as embodied in duly endorsed certificates of corporate stock.

The decision is of importance inasmuch as it affects many cases of a like character in which Great Britain appears as a party.

Today's opinion was made in cases brought to the Supreme Court on appeal from the District Court of the Southern District of New York, in behalf of the direction of the Disconto Gesellschaft and the Bank für Handel und Industrie, German banks, against the United States Steel Corporation, and the Public Trustee, an agent of the Board of Trade of Great Britain. The Public Trustee is a British corporation that exercises duties similar to those of the American Alien Property Custodian.

The German banks disputed the title of Great Britain, as the property of the stock represented by the stock certificates were located in the United States. They contended that the action of the lower court in dismissing their bill of equity, if permitted to stand, would deprive them of their property without due process of law. The British Government asserted that its title to the stock certificates was confirmed by the Treaty of Berlin and the Treaty of Versailles which, it was argued, had recognized that the ownership of stock certificates had passed to the Government seizing them. Germany, it was further argued, had renounced on the part of its nationals all title or rights which they might claim to such certificates. Great Britain emphasized the importance the court decision would have in the settlement of war accounts with Germany.

The United States Steel Corporation joined in the suits with the plaintiffs, setting forth that it as well as other American corporations with respect to thousands of shares of their stock similarly situated, awaited the decision of the court in order to terminate existing uncertainty in relation to such holdings.

The decision of the Federal Court in New York dismissing the bill in equity that sought to compel the United States Steel Corporation to issue new stock to take the place of that seized by Great Britain was affirmed.

HERRIOT TO GIVE VIEWS TO CHAMBER ON DEBTS

Cabinet Sees Difficulty in Going Beyond Clementel's Settlement Proposals.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—The principal matter under deliberation during the meeting this evening of the French Cabinet was the nature of the declarations to be made by Premier Herriot in the Chamber tomorrow on the subject of the inter-allied debts.

Despite all the information on the confusion in the European press neither M. Herriot nor Finance Minister Clementel thus far has received from Washington any request for information or suggestions relative to the proposals made by M. Clémentel in the recent memorandum submitted by him to the Chamber on the regulation of debts.

Without any definite communication from Washington on the subject, however, the French Cabinet sufficiently sensed the American reaction to M. Clémentel's memorandum to realize that the United States does not consider the plan of payment extending over ninety years with progressive interest as a satisfactory basis for negotiations. The Cabinet discussed possible modifications, but the Ministers agreed it would be difficult in view of the present tendency of French public opinion to go beyond M. Clémentel's proposals.

Owing to the fact that the situation is at present having a sharp influence on banking operations, the Cabinet felt it was actually important that M. Herriot should officially make known to the Chamber his own views on the problem.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 26.—The State of Connecticut, which a year ago was disclosed as the dumping ground for alleged Western medical diploma mills, today opened war on illegal practitioners who have failed to leave the State. Dr. Vincent Lully of Stamford was fined $200 and costs by Judge Samuel Young in Police Court on the charge of practicing medicine without a license.

A woman whom Dr. Lully treated developed blood poisoning last week and an investigation by the State Board of Health resulted in the arrest of Dr. Lully. In court Dr. Lully, who does not speak English, exhibited a diploma from Modena University, Italy, and admitted that he failed to pass the State medical examinations last month. He pleaded guilty to three counts and agreed to leave the State.

State Health Commissioner Stanley H. Osborn announced today that his department planned to arrest and drive out of the State every disqualified physician.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Oscar Brunler, a young engineer, reports the discovery of a new process by which a submerged flame, burning in direct contact with water, can produce instantly steam power capable of driving a locomotive or steamship.

The flame is produced by a mixture of oil and air which is ignited after contact with water, where it burns fiercely, attaining a heat of 4,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

ITALY CONSIDERS US TIED TO DAWES PLAN

HAILED AS UNITING ALLIES

De Stefani Asks How America Can Expect to Collect and Yet Be Aloof.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Jan. 26.—In the opinion of the Italian Government the chief result of the Paris conference was political rather than economic, and of the political results Rome estimates as most important the partnership of the United States in the Dawes plan. For whatever may be the point of view in Washington, the impression among European Governments is that in coming in for the collection of part of the Dawes annuities America comes into a full partnership in the enforcement of the Dawes plan. That action by the United States in signing the Paris agreement means only our consenting to receive money without accepting the slightest responsibility for its collection has not yet occurred to the allied statesmen.

The important thing accomplished at Paris," he said, "was the establishment of a unity among the creditors of Germany which had not existed before because of the abstention of the United States. Even at London we talked with Americans who spoke only unofficially, and, therefore, we never were sure of the importance of what they said. But at Paris we talked with Americans who represented your Government, with Americans able to sign for the Washington Government, and that for the first time.

"We regard the enlistment of America by the side of the Allies in the Dawes plan as a political event of great importance, of much more importance to us and to you than the amount of money involved in the terms of settlement made with the American delegation. It seemed to me then, and it seems now, perfectly plain that in taking part in the Paris agreement, the United States took up its part of the responsibility for Germany's paying, and it was because of that understanding that we welcomed the arrangement.

How can it be that if your Government is to share the German payments for many years you have no concern with the enforcement of the Dawes plan? That seems an anomaly. Of course, you did not ratify the Treaty of Versailles, but it seems to be common sense that in the way you became partners with the Allies in forming a common unity of Germany's creditors certainly all were actuated by a common desire to make her pay what she owes."

Signor de Stefani said he did not wish to discuss the details of Ambassador Kellogg's rôle at the conference, but admitted that the Americans had made efforts to sign with reservations and that these were dropped when it was pointed out that in the last analysis even the nations that were parties to the Versailles Treaty reserved ultimate liberty of action as to the measures to be taken against Germany in the case of her default.

Personally, he did not regard reservations as of any particular importance, and took the stand that in the last analysis the agreement spoke for itself when it listed the American Government along with the Governments concerned for the application of the Dawes annuities. If Germany should default, he considered that America was perfectly entitled to have her say about the action to be taken and expressed the belief that she would say what she thought when the occasion arose to take action.

"There was no effort on our part," he said, "to trick America into anything. As the American request to share in the Dawes Plan payments came along, we decided that although America had no legal claim on the collections under the Treaty of Versailles, it was a square deal to let her in, since the Dawes plan provided for exclusive collections from Germany. It would have been unfair, we thought, to shut America out. At London, Washington asked to be allowed to participate in the division of the receipts under the plan, and we agreed to your request. We would be surprised, indeed, if you did not show some concern about collecting the money of which you will get a part, and it seems to me to be perfectly natural that the United States should wish to act with the Allies to repair any faults which may develop in this means of collecting from Germany."

Signor de Stefani concluded by saying that America's action was welcomed, "since American interest in the German payments means additional pressure on Germany to meet her obligations."

BERLIN TARIFF QUERY ANSWERED BY PARIS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—M. Trendelenburg, head of the German delegation negotiating a new commercial treaty with France, received from M. Reynaldy, the French delegate, today the reply to Berlin's last demand for specifications of what the French tariff regulations would be like after expiration of the proposed modus vivendi.

It is understood that M. Reynaldy made such specifications as he could, considering the tariff regulations as a whole something the French Parliament must define, but he in turn insisted that the Germans also make precise indications of what French products would receive favored nation treatment from Germany.

The atmosphere of the negotiations is less troubled and there is every reason to believe the delegates are slowly but surely moving toward an accord. Within the last forty-eight hours, however, a certain amount of pessimism has developed on the French side by publication in the German press of a telegram, presumably inspired by official sources, which seemed to indicate that the Reich expected suspension of the negotiations for several months pending the voting of the new tariff regulations by the French Parliament. In short the Reich hoped to avoid committing itself until it saw all the French cards on the table, tactics which are proving increasingly intolerable to the French.

Another element of concern for the French is the publication by the Temps of a German document relative to an accord between the big metallurgical industries across the Rhine and the iron and steel transforming industries. The accord, if realized, would result in a veritable dumping arrangement whereby French metallurgical exportation to Germany would be completely paralyzed, while the French market would be flooded with German products especially protected by the Reich.

Cognizant of the danger of such accords, M. Reynaldy, in his reply to the German delegation today, specifically reserved all rights to take such steps as are necessary to prevent dumping arrangements detrimental to the French market.

ITALY'S FINANCES OUTSTRIP FRANCE

Favorable Budget Balance of 2,000,000,000 Lire Expected for This Fiscal Year.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Jan. 26.—The fiscal situation of the Italian Government appears to be the best of all the Continental countries. That does not mean that the economic situation of Italy is as good as the economic situation of France, but it does mean that the technical financial position of the Government is immensely superior to that of France, taking into account all factors.

The budget balanced this year, and the Finance Minister, Alberto de Stefani, says that the end of the fiscal year, June 30, will show a favorable balance of between 1,500,000,000 and 2,000,000,000 lire, which probably will be devoted to reducing the advances to the State in the form of paper money. The budget this year will be about 21,000,000,000 lire, while the receipts will run close to 23,000,000,000, whereas last year's budget showed a deficit of nearly 500,000,000 lire.

In comparison to France, Italy is able to make this very favorable showing because of the difference in the cost of service of the national debt. While France has a national interior debt of 400,000,000,000 francs, which absorbs 18,000,000,000 francs, or 62 per cent. of the budget receipts, Italy has a national debt of only 91,000,000,000 lire, which calls for a budget charge of less than 5,000,000,000 lire annually. The floating debt of 65,000,000,000 francs, which constitutes the chief danger in the French fiscal situation, has no counterpart in Italy, where the floating debt in short-term paper similar to the French defense bonds reaches only 11,000,000,000 lire and is gradually being reduced by changing it into long-term securities.

While France faces the problem of caring for the advances by the Bank of France to the Government of some 23,000,000,000 francs, Italy has advances in paper money of only 7,000,000,000 lire, which will be reduced this year by at least one billion. As compared to the French paper circulation of 41,000,000,000 francs, Italy has a paper circulation of 20,000,000,000 lire, which Signor de Stefani expects to reduce to 18,000,000,000 during 1925.

Signor de Stefani has just published a fiscal inventory for Italy similar to that made by Finance Minister Clémentel for France recently. This lists the interior debt of Italy as made up of 12,500,000,000 lire of pre-war debt, 36,000,000,000 of war debt, 11,000,000,000 of floating debt, 22,000,000,000 of Treasury bonds, 7,000,000,000 in bank advances to the State, and minor issues, completing a total slightly under 92,000,000,000 lire.

Unlike M. Clémentel, Signor de Stefani lists in Italy's liabilities her debt to England and America. England being down as a creditor for 14,500,000,000 gold lire and America for 8,500,000,000. But, like M. Clémentel, he makes no provision in the budget for meeting this debt. In fact, the Italian regards the settlement of these debts as something which cannot be seriously undertaken now, something which must wait for a fairer day. There is a feeling here that America will seek a settlement with France before turning to Italy, and, in a way, the Italians look upon the French in this matter somewhat as their protectors—a sort of windshield.

After explaining the situation of his Government, which he regards as highly satisfactory, Signor de Stefani said:

"The fiscal position of the Italian Government is quite good, but in comparison with France it must be remembered that our national fortune is only one-fourth that of France. Italy is a poor country lacking capital, but we are doing the best we can with what we have."

On the face of it the large unfavorable foreign trade balance would appear to be a serious factor, since last year's figures show an excess of importations over exportations of some 5,000,000,000 lire. However, this is largely compensated for by the remittances home of Italian immigrants, which probably run to 2,000,000,000 lire or more annually, by the expenditures of tourists in Italy and by the earnings of shipping companies. While the exact figures are not to be had, it is generally supposed that Italy has an unfavorable balance of between one and two billion lire.

TITLE FOR ASQUITH HEIR.

Grandson of Former Premier Will Be Viscount Asquith of Morley.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The following official announcement was issued today:

"The King has been pleased to approve the dignity of an Earldom of the United Kingdom to be conferred upon the Right Honorable Herbert Henry Asquith, K. C."

According to custom the first official announcement contains no indication of the title selected by the new peer, since it has first to be examined by the Heraldic College. There is no reason, however, to suppose any objection will be found to the designation Earl of Oxford, which is Mr. Asquith's choice.

It is understood the second title selected is Viscount Asquith of Morley, Mr. Asquith's birthplace in Yorkshire, and that this will be borne by his grandson, whose brilliant father, Raymond Asquith, was killed in the war when serving in the Grenadier Guards.

GERMAN BREACHES OF TREATY CITED

disarmament of Germany and the application of an American or English treaty of guarantee of some effective substitute for these conditions, the whole Chamber supported him. Compulsory arbitration, a chain of alliances, a League of Nations armed force, a change of heart and mind in Germany—any of these would be acceptable compensation. But without at least two of them no question of further disarmament was possible.

The revival of discussion of the Franco-German compact has had here some serious attention. But, just as when Chancellor Cuno made his proposal, it seems likely to come to nothing so long as Germany will guarantee only the western frontier. French suspicion of Germany is far too deeply rooted for the possibility of making any such partial arrangement. If any such treaty is ever made it must be on the basis of Germany's reiteration of her promise at the signature of the Versailles Treaty to respect all the frontiers then established in the east as well as the west.

REICH'S FAULT, ALLIES SAY.

Interim Note on Non-Evacuation Received With Disfavor by Berlin.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Lord d'Abernon, the British Ambassador to Berlin, handed today to the German Government the second collective reply of the Allies to Dr. Stresemann's note of Jan. 6. The allied reply is as follows:

The allied Governments have taken cognisance of the note addressed by Dr. Stresemann to the allied representatives at Berlin on Jan. 6 in reply to a previous note of the allied Governments regarding execution of the provisions of Article 429 of the Peace Treaty concerning the occupation by their troops of a portion of Rhineland territories called the Cologne zone.

It is not the intention of the allied Governments at the present juncture to enter into a discussion with the German Government on this subject, nor to deal with allegations which they could in no way accept. As they have already informed the German Government in their note of Jan. 5, they will in due course address to them a further communication setting forth what still remains to be done by Germany for her obligations to be considered as having been faithfully carried out in the terms of Article 429 of the Treaty of Versailles.

The allied Governments intend to make this communication at the earliest possible date. They must, however, now point out that the German Government appears to misunderstand the import of Articles 428 and 429 of the Versailles Treaty. These articles have fixed at fourteen years' duration the occupation of the Rhineland, and have contemplated the reduction of this period only in the event of Germany faithfully carrying out the conditions of the Versailles Treaty.

Certain of these conditions not having been faithfully observed, the allied Governments can only abide by the terms of the treaty. It is for Germany by fulfilling her obligations to enable them to restrict occupation in the manner contemplated by Article 429, the provisions of which the allied Governments, for their part, intend scrupulously to observe.

BERLIN, Jan. 26 (Associated Press).—A reply to the interim note of the allied powers on the issue growing out of the non-evacuation of the Cologne zone was drafted at a special session of Chancellor Luther's Cabinet this evening. It will be handed to the Entente envoys at noon tomorrow.

The joint note of Great Britain, France, Japan, Belgium and Italy was presented to Dr. Luther this morning. It was in reply to the German note of Jan. 6 protesting against non-evacuation.

Chancellor Luther expressed to the Ambassadors his disappointment over the fact that the note was of a provisional character and did not contain the details on which the non-evacuation of the Cologne one was based.

Replying to Lord d'Abernon's statement that the German Government would receive from the Allies, as soon as possible, the written details requested, Dr. Luther said he could only again express the urgent desire that the present state of suspension would be soon ended.

The text of the interim note was released for publication by the Foreign Office late tonight without comment, the original plan to make it public with a formal statement having been abandoned.

Today's allied note was apparently received with pronounced disfavor at Government headquarters, which declined to discuss its beyond observing that "it was anything but pleasant."

GIVES ALSACE RIGHT TO A VATICAN ENVOY

THEIR DEPUTIES PLEASED

Chamber Now Expected to Approve Suppression of French Mission at the Holy See.

PARIS, Jan. 26 (Associated Press).—Premier Herriot scored heavily in the Chamber of Deputies today against the advocates of continuance of diplomatic relations with the Holy See by recognising a ruling of the Council of State that Alsace-Lorraine was still under the régime of the Napoleonic concordat between Paris and Rome and accepting the eventuality of appointing a representative of the recovered provinces to the Vatican should circumstances demand.

The Premier's good grace and diplomacy in accepting the ruling of the State Council took the Opposition by surprise, removing as it did one of their strongest arguments against the suppression of the French Embassy to the Vatican, namely, the status of Alsace-Lorraine.

"The régime of the concordat will continue to be applied to Alsace-Lorraine until Parliament has definitely decided otherwise," M. Herriot said. "The modus vivendi was easily found and we will apply it loyally and sincerely. Our attitude is based on the principle that the general régime of France cannot be applied brusquely to Alsace-Lorraine, while, on the other hand, we cannot apply to entire France the religious status now in force in the recovered provinces."

It is now regarded as certain that the Chamber will vote for suppression of the credits for the diplomatic mission to the Vatican by the regular governmental majority.

The Deputies from Alsace-Lorraine were greatly pleased over Premier Herriot's announcement of the ruling of the Council of State with regard to the Napoleonic concordat, and some of them expressed themselves as grateful to the Premier for making the Council's decision known as soon as it was taken.

While these Deputies are in favor of continuing the French Embassy at the Vatican, they declared that they would be satisfied with the appointment of a Chargé d'Affaires Delegate for the recovered provinces, provided he be a permanent representative, so as to establish a constant relationship between France and the Holy See, and not an envoy sent to Rome only occasionally to treat with certain problems.

When Alsace and Lorraine were annexed by Germany in 1871 the German Government ratified the Napoleonic concordat under which the relations between Rome and France were governed. In 1905 the French Government repealed the concordat, and when Alsace and Lorraine were returned to France after the war the French Government was confronted with the fact that the provinces were still under the régime prevailing before 1905.

Today's development, according to Deputies opposed to suppression of the embassy at the Vatican, emphasized the necessity of France being represented at the Holy See, because the Pope, according to the concordat, must consult the French Government upon religious administrative measures, such as the appointment of Bishops.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—News has reached Paris that the Tranin mission, which left Konakry, on the West Coast of Africa, on Dec. 8, reached Fort Lamy, Lake Chad, safely on Jan. 13.

Using ordinary touring cars, Edmond Tranin, who is a French journalist, accompanied by a Swiss Deputy, Dr. Valloton; M. Duverne and M. Borie, a photographer, plans to cross the whole African Continent from west to east through the French possessions, British Upper Sudan, Abyssinia, Somaliland to Jibouti.

For fuel the engines burn vegetable oils, which can be obtained along the route when gasoline supplies run out. Overcoming tremendous difficulties, crossing every sort of country, desert and virgin forest, M. Tranin has now covered about half the distance. But the hardest part faces the expedition through lands some of which are unknown to white men and then the deserts of Sudan and the rocky mountains of Abyssinia.

One was sentenced to seven years' rigorous imprisonment and three others were given five-year sentences. One priest was acquitted.

EYEWITNESS TELLS OF HERRIN BATTLE

Elias Green Was Used as a Barrier by S. Glenn Young in Shooting Duel.

SAYS GUNS FIRED AS ONE

Special to The New York Times.

HERRIN, Jan. 26.—While Klansmen and anti-Klansmen were peaceful today beneath the rifles of the State militia and the hooded order made plans for a gathering of 40,000 of its members at the funeral of S. Glenn Young on Wednesday, the only living eyewitness, so far as is known, of Saturday's fatal encounter between Young and his followers and Deputy Sheriff Ora Thomas was telling a story which thrilled even the residence of Herrin¼ accustomed as they have become to the crack or revolver shots and the sight of dead men.

Only Eyewitness Found.

The eyewitness was Elias Green, the hitherto unidentified man who was seen running with a newspaper covering his bleeding face from he cigar store which was turned into a shambles when the Klan and anti-Klan feudists shot out their enmity and left four of their number dead or dying. The story told by Green placed Deputy Sheriff Thomas in the category of the "two-gun" men whose exploits adorn the pages of fiction thrillers and among the "killers" of Western annals, whose aim was deadly, though their own lives were fast ebbing. So far as is known, Green is the only man who escaped from the cigar store without a death wound. He was the unconscious agent who brought to its dramatic ending the hatred engendered between Young and Thomas by the many sanguinary encounters in which they or their followers had been wounded and nine of the latter slain.

Caught Between Foes' Pistols.

Green said he had entered the cigar store a few moments before the shooting to buy a package of cigarettes. Turning about he found himself staring into the muzzle of Young's revolver. Bad blood had existed between the two men on account of the anti-Klan activities of Green.

"Glenn began to curse loudly and abuse me," said Green. "I was helpless, of course, and could only stand still and say nothing. Outside on the sidewalk stood several of Young's lieutenants, including Edward Forbes, the miner, and Homer Warren, who were slain.

"No one else was in the store at the time except Mrs. Biotti, wife of the tobacconist, and Young became so violent in his language that she fled the place.

"Suddenly the door opened and in stepped Ora Thomas. He must have passed through that knot of Young's followers and realized the risk he was running; but his eyes were blazing as they fell on Young.

"'Lock that door,' Thomas ordered me. But I dared not move with Glenn's gun against my stomach. Quick as a flash, Thomas whipped out his automatic. With one sweep Young whirled me about so that I formed a barrier between the two.

"'We'd better not shoot now, I guess,' Young told Thomas.

"'We've gont too far now. I'm ready if you are,' replied Thomas.

"'All right,' replied Young. Their guns spoke as one.

"I couldn't say for the life of me who fired first, but think Young did. His bullet went wild. I don't know why I didn't get killed, but the next I knew I had scrambled out of there somehow, getting only this little scratch on my lip. I don't know where the bullet came from, but certainly neither Glenn nor Thomas did it. I am sure of that.

"Young toppled first with a bullet through his chest and another through the centre of the heart.

From the sidewalk at this instant Young's followers opened fire. Thomas was wounded only in the body and swayed back against a showcase, but did not fall. Thomas, weakly supporting himself, returned shot for shot. When the smoke finally settled Thomas was dying and Forbes and Warren were dead, both killed by Thomas."

Green's story is partly verified by John G. Glenn, a jitney driver, who had driven Green to the place and who saw some of the battle from his car.

Major Davis, who is making an investigation, has been unable to find any of the weapons used by the combatants. Green says he is ready to take the stand at the Coroner's inquest tomorrow and tell his story.

Harry Murray, one of Thomas's close friends in Herrin, pictured the deputy as fully realizing he was walking to almost certain death in entering the Biotti cigar store. Young, at an earlier meeting with Thomas at the same store, is said to have jibed Thomas about the killing of John Wollard, a Klansman, during the fight of last August.

"Son," Young is reported to have told Wollard's young son who was present, "if a man killed off my father like this man (indicating Thomas) did, I would not let him live another day."

Full Klan Funeral for Young.

Hundreds of Klansmen from surrounding sections and even from adjoining States are reported on their way to attend Young's funeral at the Herrin Baptist Church, Wednesday. In the church the body lies in state, swathed in the purple robes of a Klan Kleagle. Several thousand Klansmen in full regalia are expected to take part in the funeral procession to the Herrin cemetery and twelve snow white horses will draw the funeral carriage, which will be draped in the colors of the Klan.

The body of Thomas was quietly removed to his home today. The cottage was thronged with visitors all day, who came to offer consolation to his widow and their two children, Ralph, 6 years old, and Jack, 3.

The warfare of Williamson County was attributed by Mrs. Thomas's sister to Young and the man accredited with bringing him here two years ago, Samuel Stearns, Chairman of the County Board.

"Those two alone are responsible for all these murders, this burning and shooting and rioting," declared the sister. "And I say that despite the fact that Sam Stearns is my uncle."

Thomas will be buried tomorrow. Forbes and Warren, who died in the exchange of shots with Thomas were buried today with Klan services.

No one is overlooking the possibility of further open hostilities as soon as the troops are withdrawn. The death toll of the latest outbreak, it is pointed out, included three from the Klan side, while only one member of the other faction, Thomas, was slain. This uneven score, it is contended, may inspire an attempt at retaliation. Thomas has three brothers, at least one of whom is credited with the intrepidity possessed by Ora.

Two Largest Collar Concerns Combine—10,000 Employes Are Affected.

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Purchase of the Earl & Wilson Company by Cluett, Peabody & Co. was announced here tonight, bringing about the merger of the two largest shirt and collar manufacturing concerns in this city.

It was said Cluett, Peabody & Co. had taken over the fiscal assets and the trademark of Earl & Wilson and that Edgar H. Betts, President, would become a Vice President of Cluett, Peabody & Co.

The financial consideration involved was not made public.

It was said the Earl & Wilson trade mark would be continued and that the directors of Cluett, Peabody & Co. at a meeting soon would consider plans for continuing in various offices the present officials of the Earl & Wilson firm.

The purchase is subject to the approval of Cluett, Peabody & Co. stockholders, it was explained.

Approximately 10,000 employes of the two companies are affected by the merger, but although details were not made public, it was believed the Earl & Wilson plant would be continued.

Earl & Wilson grew out of the original shirt and collar company organized by William S. Earl in 1850. In 1856 Edward P. Blanchard was taken into partnership and the firm was known as Earl & Blanchard. In 1857 Washington Wilson became Mr. Earl's partner, and the firm since has continued in business as Earl & Wilson.

Cluett, Peabody & Co., at present has an authorized capitalization of $27,000,000, of which $26,432,000 is outstanding. The Earl & Wilson Company is capitalized at $2,500,000.

SNOW AND COLD WAVE FORECAST FOR TODAY

Approaching Chill Coming From Alaska, Where It Is 60 Below, States Weather Bureau.

Snow and a cold wave, with a low of possibly 10 above zero, are forecast for New York today, but the Weather Bureau promises that tomorrow will be clearer.

A storm warning from Delaware Breakwater to Eastport, Me., was issued last night in Washington. It was not believed, however, that much snow would fall.

Yesterday in New York City the thermometer reached as high as 46 above. That was just before noon. The lowest was 36 at 1:10 A. M. But that promise of a warm spell is not to be fulfilled. Today, according to the forecast, is to be much colder.

The approaching cold wave is coming down from Alaska, where the temperature is reported at 60 degrees below zero. It is travelling rapidly eastward. Yesterday found the Northwest in its grip. There were lower than zero temperatures in South Dakota, Minnesota and Michigan. At Huron, S. D., it was 10; at Minneapolis, 8, and at Duluth, 10.

Yesterday's warm weather in New York was in striking contrast to the same day a year ago. Then the highest was 19 above and the lowest 6 above.

Allenby Says Experts Are to Consider Sudan Irrigation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Jan. 26.—The application of the clause in the recent British ultimatum to Egypt extending the diversion of the water of the Blue Nile for the irrigation of the Sudan has been suspended pending the report of an expert commission.

This announcement, which is expected to remove the fears excited among Egyptian agriculturalists that their own irrigation interests might suffer by diversion of water to Sudan, was made by Lord Allenby, British High Commissioner, in a letter to Ahmed Pasha Ziwar, Prime Minister, who succeeded Zaglul.

Lord Allenby's letter was in reply to a communication from the Prime Minister inviting him to reconsider the question of the Sudan irrigation. Now cordial relations had happily been reestablished between Britain and Egypt.

Premier Zlwar reminded Lord Allenby of Egypt's historic rights and Allenby replied the British Government "has no intention of trespassing the natural historic rights of Egypt in the waters of the Nile."

SHANGHAI, Jan. 26.—Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan's attempt to regain his province ended in a complete rout today in a battle beginning at Wuah yesterday morning, and tonight Shanghai again faces an influx of thousands of disorganized troops.

Five troop trains came here tonight and the soldiers discarded their uniforms and raced for the foreign settlements. One car, containing 100 wounded, was abandoned on the tracks.

Foreign volunteers and marines have been mobilized and Rear Admiral McVey has dispatched additional destroyers to Woosung with a further warning to commanders of the forts against firing on foreign ships near here.

The steamship Belgenland, carrying 400 American tourists, got in this afternoon without incident, convoyed by two destroyers, and gunboats are still standing by to prevent trouble.

Marshal Lu Yung-hsiang, commander of the Fengtien forces which defeated Marshal Chi, issued a statement saying that the 3,000 Russians in his army have become Chinese citizens, and that there will be no international complications.

DR. SUN HAS CANCER.

Physicians in Peking Hospital Say Condition Is Hopeless.

PEKING, Jan. 26 (Associated Press).—An operation performed on Dr. Sun Yatsen, head of the so-called South China Government and one of the leaders in the formation of the Chinese Republic, revealed that he is suffering from cancer of the liver. His case is described by attending physicians as hopeless.

When Dr. Sun was taken to the hospital this afternoon it was thought he was suffering from an abcess of the liver.

Philippines Bar Chinese Claims.

MANILA, Jan. 26 (Associated Press).—The Government is relieved of all liability for damages incurred by Chinese residents of Manila in recent months when their business houses and homes were damaged by Filipinos, the Attorney General ruled today in rejecting a $17,500 claim made by the Chinese Consul General. The authorities used "due diligence in preventing and repressing the riots and punishing those concerned in the rioting," the Attorney General said.

OBSERVERS DIFFER ON MOON'S SHADOW

WEIGH EFFECT ON RADIO

Reports to Scientific American Show Both Increased and Decreased Signal Strength.

Professor E. W. Brown of Yale said yesterday that a great volume of data was being received from eclipse observers who had volunteered to help in fixing the exact boundaries of the shadow of the moon, but that it would require a great deal of patient calculation to work out the path of the shadow.

"Of course, there are discrepancies, and we will have to choose the best evidence," he said. "Reports are still coming in. I do not think it will take such a long time to work out the subject."

Not all observers were agreed as to the exact line of the southern limit of the moon in Manhattan. Some reported it at Seventy-ninth Street, four blocks south of the line predicted by astronomers, but the expert observers of the New York Edison Company agreed it was between Ninety-sixth Street and Ninety-seventh Street.

The latter position for the line has been confirmed by further examination of the photometric measurements taken by many of the 149 experts of the New York power companies, according to Vice President Arthur Williams of the New York Edison Company. These experts were equipped with instruments which automatically and continually measured the candlepower of the illumination throughout the eclipse. At the time of total eclipse the candlepower fell very low north of Ninety-sixth Street and was considerably higher south of Ninety-sixth Street. The sudden change in the curve of candlepower at total eclipse time is said to be the most reliable evidence of the course of the moon's shadow. Professor Brown is eager to obtain reports from observers along the doubtful zone where the eclipse was almost but not quite total.

May Determine Diameter.

From the reports of thousands of observers it will be possible to work out the course of the moon with greater certainty than ever before and possibly to determine its diameter, which is not known at present, with absolute precision. The eclipse observations have so far thrown no light on the mysterious factor which disturbs the moon's flight.

The moon's shadow had a marked effect on radio, but it is too early to analyze that effect, according to Dr. E. E. Free of The Scientific American, who has already received thousands of reports from radio listeners who by prearrangement were at the instruments during the eclipse to test the strength of radio signals.

"It is already apparent," said Dr. Free, "that there are distinct effects of the eclipse on radio transmission. These effects appear to be rather complicated. Some stations report increases of signal strength during the eclipse, while other stations report decreases at this same time.

"Without anticipating the final report, it is possible to say now that the most probable explanation of these circumstances is one which involves what scientists call the interference of ether waves.

"The shadow of the eclipse can be considered as a column of darkness rising from the earth's surface through the atmosphere. The radio waves from any station in crossing this column of darkness appeared to have been deflected to one side or the other. Sometimes the waves appear to have been deflected in opposite directions by the opposite sides of the column of darkness so that the waves are brought more or less to a focus on the far side of the darkness column.

Decline in Strength Indicated.

"Scientific theory indicates that if this happened there would be alternate bands in which reinforcement of the signal strength would be decreased. These bands would extend more or less perpendicular to the direction of transmission and would be picked up in the region beyond the column of darkness.

"Furthermore, since the column of darkness is a moving column the positions of these bands reinforced and decreased would change from instant to instant. All this makes a very complicated picture which will be analyzed in detail when more records are available and have been studied and when carefully than there has yet been time to do.

"It is very important that persons who observed the eclipse in New York City report to the scientific authorities the exact position at which the observer stood with reference to street intersections and also whether or not the eclipse appeared entirely total to that observer."

"Shadow bands," which are usually seen only a minute or two before and after the eclipse, were reported to have been seen sixteen minutes before the eclipse by observers on the tower of the Holy Child Academy at Riverside Drive and 140th Street. The report was as follows:

"A white sheet, 4 by 5 feet, was vertically hung facing the east in sunshine against a turret of the tower. At 8:55 flickering small shadow spots appeared, resembling heat waves from a chimney. At 9 o'clock black and white vertical shadow bands appeared moving to the right as you faced the sheet. The bands were made up of shadow spots flickering.

Speed Seemed to Grow.

"The speed seemed to increase as the shadow spots became more distinct. A minute before the total eclipse bands were added, moving downward—none upward—the horizontal motion continuing. At the moment of total eclipse the bands became confused in motion.

Scientists had started to work yesterday at Yale, Cornell, Wesleyan and other observatories on their material, but were reticent about the value of what they had.

Preliminary calculations by Professor F. K. Richtmyer and other physicists of Cornell indicated that the illumination during totality was about 50 per cent. greater than that of a full moon.

Changes in the magnetism of the earth were noted, but it will take several days before definite statements can be made.

AID BLUE RIDGE SCHOOL.

Virginians Give a Successful Dance at the Roosevelt.

There was a successful dance last night at the Roosevelt for the benefit of the Blue Ridge School of Greene County, Va., which has many friends among the Virginians now making their homes in New York. Among those giving dinners in advance of the dance were Mr. and Mrs. F. Graham Coote, Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan Schley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Thieriot, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Eyre Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. H. Snowden Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. E. de Forest Simmons, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Gaunt, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Allaire, Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tilt and Mrs. Orrin B. Mitcham.

Among those entertaining friends at supper were Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon Battle, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Breckenridge, Mrs. Le Roy Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Gibboney, Mr. and Mrs. J. Randolph Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. James Oscar Williams, Mr. and Mrs. H. Murray Le Mont, Mr. and Mrs. Paris H. Russell, Dr. and Mrs. Fielding, Lewis Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison M. Robertson. There was dancing while supper was being served.

'OH, DIVINE' ACTED BY SPENCE ALUMNAE

Mrs. Lawrence C. Thaw the Hit of Musical Play in Aid of Orphaned Babies.

Mrs. Lawrence Copley Thaw, known in entertainments of the past as Miss Peggy Stout, as a Yankee maid in Paris whose answer to all questions was "Oh, divine," was quite the centre of attention in the musical play of that name given by the Spence Alumnae Society at the Plaza last night as its annual benefit for the nursery for orphaned babies, which it maintains at 232 East Sixty-second Street. The play was written and staged by Miss Grace Henry and the music was composed by graduates of Miss Spence's school and others. There will be another performance at the Plaza tonight.

The most applauded number of the evening was "Such a Bustle," sung by Mrs. Thaw, assisted by William T. Taylor and the chorus, who were recalled to repeat their songs and steps after several prepared encores had been presented. In a quaint bustle costume, Mrs. Thaw, after singing in the manner of various nationalities, entirely stopped proceedings in a stuttering version of the number.

There was much dancing in the performance of unusual excellence. In the first act Mrs. Murray Vernon, in a Russian dance, received the enthusiastic approval of the audience, as did Miss Frances McCoon and Mrs. S. Theodore Hodgman Jr., in solo dances later in the evening. Mrs. W. John Warburton was called to repeat the "A la Francaise" number, in which she led a chorus, the members of which were the Misses Polly McCall, Emily Wright, Nathalie Hanna, Mary Rawlins, Pauline Stevenson, Margaret Dittmar and Marian Gould.

Other features of the evening were "Sweet as Pie," sung by Mrs. Elliot Phillips and Archibald L. C. Savory; "Pipe Dreams," sung by Mr. Taylor, and "How Do I Know?" sung in a spirited manner by Miss McCoon and Mr. Taylor. Others having prominent rôles in the entertainment included Mrs. J. J. Hindon Hyde, Mrs. John H. Twining and the Misses Constance Nash, Lois McCall, Dorothy Fitch and Charlotte K. Demorest.

ALBERT M. BAGBY HONORED.

Chancellor Brown Confers on Him the Degree of Master of Arts.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Alexander invited several of their friends yesterday afternoon to their house at 4 West Fifty-eighth Street, where Chancellor Brown of the New York University conferred on Albert Morris Bagby the degree of Master of Arts. It followed the three-hundredth of the musical mornings which Mr. Bagby originated and which have continued for thirty-four years in succession.

Since the erection of the Waldorf-Astoria these morning concerts have been held in the large ballroom of that establishment where all the great musical artists that have visited the United States have been heard during that period. Those heard yesterday were Mme. Frieda Hempel, Edward Johnson, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, and Arthur Friedheim, pianist.

Chancellor Brown in his presentation paid a great tribute to Mr. Bagby for the aid he had been to music in this city. There were present fifteen members of the Faculty of the university including the Rev. Dr. George Alexander. Among others were Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew, Mrs. M. Orme Wilson, the American Minister to The Hague; Richard M. Tobin, General and Mrs. Charles H. Sherrill, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Post, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Fish, Mrs. Rutherford Stuyvesant and Miss Louise Sands.

In commemoration of the three hundredth of these musical mornings Mr. Bagby has invited his many subscribers to join him in establishing a fund which will be used to give pensions to needy musical artists who are without sufficient means in their declining years. The Bankers Trust Company, at Madison Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, will act as custodian.

CHILD HAILS TWO 'MOTHERS.'

Calls One 'Mumsy,' Other 'Mama'—Court More Puzzled Than Ever.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—Efforts to determine the identity of a three-year-old boy, claimed by two "mothers," Mrs. Russell Earl Steimling, formerly of Girard Manor, Pa., and Mrs. Martha Silknitter, former laundress at the Western Temporary Home in this city, were further complicated today in Juvenile Court by the disputed infant himself.

"Hello, mumsy!" was his greeting to Mrs. Silknitter, while he hailed Mrs. Steimling with a jovial nod and the cry of "mama."

Mrs. Silknitter claims that the child's name is Jackie Duff, which was her family name before her marriage. With her present husband she was charged recently by the Steimlings in the Pottsville Courts with having kidnaped their son, Russel Earl Steimling Jr. Mrs. Silknitter told the authorities that she had abandoned her baby in Camden, N. J., where the Steimlings subsequently claimed the youngster involved in today's proceedings after he had been found abandoned there.

Mrs. Silknitter described to the Court a number of scars on her child's body, which court physicians testified were on the boy.

Miss Mary Steimling of Girard Manor suggested that a bucket of water be brought, and that if the child were Russell Steimling he would immediately attempt to sit in it, as Russell had a penchant for such informal immersions in available mud puddles.

the streets during the day to advertise the show in which he was appearing at night, are past and gone.

"There is nothing in the present actor's contract which obliges him to do anything but rehearse and play in his part satisfactorily and behave himself in the theatre; and it is generally accepted that the advertising of a play is a part of the manager's business and the manager's expense. This does not, however, prevent the actor from voluntarily cooperating with the manager in a dozen ways to assist him in arousing interest in his play. The actor gives interviews to newspapers, sits for artists, distributes photographs, attends stupid dinners, talks to Rotarians, Kiwanisers and myriads of women's clubs, spouts on library steps for all sorts of drives, and does a thousand other things, some of them pleasant, some of them a terrible bore, but all of them a help to his manager in advertising the show in which the actor is appearing.

"We have no wish to put a straw in the way of the actor continuing to render this help to his manager. In fact we would encourage it in every way possible."

Warns Against Broadcasting.

Gene Buck, President of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, said:

"There is no more important question before the theatre than the radio. I want to warn all present against the peril of ridiculing or underestimating its effect on the theatre. At present there are 540 broadcasting stations. In ten years there will be fifty-four master broadcasting stations which will control the theatrical broadcasting of the country. It will not be impossible for the American Radio Corporation to broadcast a Whiteman Orchestra into every theatre in the country."

Arthur Hornblow Jr., representing Robert Milton, Inc., deprecated the opposition radio was offering to the theatre at present. He said that Charles Frohman had tried broadcasting with popular stars without exercising any appreciable effect on the attendance of the plays they were appearing in.

William A. Brady added this to the discussion:

"The spoken drama is not wanted in 34 States. The actor is being eliminated gradually everywhere throughout the country. Mr. E. F. Albee for whom I hold no brief, at least meets a situation when it comes. He has barred radio from vaudeville. It is up to the others Equity, the managers and others to get together and do the same.

"The theatre, the radio and the disc are engaged in a battle from which one may not survive. Let Equity provide in its contract that an actor may not sit in on a process which may prove his own destruction."

Says Listeners-in Should Pay.

E. C. Mills, Chairman of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, announced that after three years study on the part of his organization the crux of the matter was in finding a way by which the ultimate consumer, the radio listener-in could be taxed to pay for the cost of providing his entertainment.

Among others who spoke were Arthur Hamrestein, Brock Pemberton, Frank Sheridan, Louis Wolheim, Frank McGlynn and A. E. Thomas. On the stage were A. G. Andrews, George Arliss, Harry C. Browne, Frederick Burt, Jefferson de Angelis, Pedro de Cordoba, Malcolm Duncan, Paul Harvey, Robert Kelly, Helen MacKellar, Edith Wynn Matthieson, Olive Oliver, Florence Reed, Elizabeth Risdon, Scott Welsh, Janet Morden Shield, Ruby Pine, Fred Wall, Essex Dane, Arline Ludovici, Daniel Kussell, Frank Craven, Oscar Hammerstein 2d, Henry W. Savage, John Drew, Paul Meyer, J. C. Rosenthal, the Rev. C. Nelson Moller, Walter Vincent, Edgar Smith, Rosalie Stewart, George Kelly, Frank Ferguson, Charles K. Harris, William Canavan, Richard Green, Mrs. A. T. Wilkes, Augustus G. Vois, Charles E. Lessing, C. H. Packard, Benjamin Kauser, William de Lignemare and Gilbert Gordon.

Attention was called at intervals throughout the meeting by various speakers to the fact that no direct representatives of the Shuberts or A. L. Erlanger, the most powerful factors among the managers, were present.

SAYS OUR POLICE SURPASS LONDON'S

Centre of Courtesy Shifts From Piccadilly to Times Square, Citizen Tells Enright.

PRAISE ALSO FOR BRAVERY

New York policemen now exceed the London bobby in point of courtesy to the public, according to one of several letters commending members of his department made public yesterday by Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright.

John Shiagl of 17 Battery Place was the writer who thought the centre of politeness had shifted from Piccadilly Circus to Times Square. Until the Commissioner himself took over command of the finest, gallantry was—well, subordinated in the blue-covered heart. But now, noticed Mr. Shiagl, a rapid change has developed from that of "autocracy to that of a desire to serve the public."

Three letters commended the bravery of Policeman Charles Brown of the Brownsville Station. When a fire broke out in a garage at Rockaway Avenue and Sutter Avenue, Brooklyn, three men were caught in the cab of a motor truck and surrounded by flame. Brown opened the cab and pulled the men to safety, although afire himself. The clothing of one of the rescued men was in flames and Brown smothered them in a blanket and applied oil to the men's burns before attending to his own severe hurts. Letters praising this feat were written by Jacob S. Workman, a Sergeant of the Headquarters Motor Repair Section of the 27th Divisional Train, N. Y. S. G., and Mrs. Grace Burns of 193 Osborn Street, Brooklyn, and the third was a "round robin" from ten neighbors.

Sergeant Workman wrote that he had spoken to Brown immediately after his act, asking him if he had not hesitated. Brown replied—"No, I am a policeman."

Captures Bandit After a Battle.

Policeman Conroy of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station won the commendation of Duncan S. Bunell, manager of the Sheffield Farms Company plant at 524 West Fifty-seventh Street. Conroy chased two bandits after they fled from the Sheffield Farms dairy at 62 Amsterdam Avenue, although warned that both men were armed and had threatened to kill any one who gave pursuit. Conroy chased them through Sixty-second Street and over housetops, firing and being fired at. After a hand-to-hand struggle in a dark alley he brought in a prisoner, who was convicted.

A Kings County Grand Jury, in a letter written by Foreman William B. Roth, praised the efficiency of Policeman Eugene F. Stahl of the Bushwick Avenue Station, Brooklyn, who, on suspicion, stopped five armed men in a stolen car and solved a hold-up committed an hour earlier.

Norman G. Smith of the Maine Feldspar Company, Brunswick, Me., had good words for an unidentified policeman who aided Mr. Smith's young daughter in an accident near the Grand Central Terminal. The girl was traveling alone and her taxicab was upset. Finding that her shoulder was dislocated, the policeman put it back and then placed the girl on her train.

Another unidentified policeman was praised by Miss May Bampton of 1,467 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn. She said he went to her aid when a man and a "night hawk" taxicab followed her along Livingston Street one morning at 2:30 o'clock.

Got Loan for a Throat Treatment.

"A Resident of New York" told of having reached St. Luke's Hospital, Manhattan, with his wife to obtain a throat treatment before he discovered that he had left the necessary 25 cents at home. The man asked Policeman Edward Ryan, on traffic duty at Broadway and 110th Street, for a loan. It was instantly forthcoming.

Mrs. Mae Schwer, mother of the Ridgewood boy killed by a rifle in the hands of playmates, expressed her thanks to Captain John G. Gallagher of the Queens Detective Bureau and Detectives Mierau and Herbert for their recovery of her son's body and the solution of his death. Joseph Silverberg of 2,264 Davidson Avenue, the Bronx, commended Policeman Peter O'Reilly of Traffic A for his prompt use of a tourniquet in saving the life of a man in danger of bleeding to death. Several hospitals and tuberculosis associations sent thanks for concerts given by the Police Glee Club for the benefit of invalids.

PLEADS FOR FOREIGN BORN.

Republican District Leader Points to Results of Abuse.

Racial and religious intolerance are the underlying causes of the rapid spread of radicalism, declared Joseph Levenson, Republican leader of the First Assembly District, speaking yesterday at a meeting of the Kansas Women's Club at the home of Mrs. Zimmerly Bryan, 218 West 59th Street. "The animosity against foreigners dates back to the Revolution," said Mr. Levenson. "When Irish Roman Catholics were bitterly attacked. We are now experiencing the results of this attitude. The foreign born resent the attitude toward them, and are ready to embrace any party which promises better treatment.

SAYS RUSSIA GROWS STEADILY WORSE

TELLS PRISON CRUELTIES

But Thinks Limited Recognition by America Would Strengthen Hand of Moderates.

Frederick A. Mackenzie, English war correspondent, arrived yesterday on the White Star liner Cedric to lecture upon Russia, where he has spent the past three years. He traveled over Russia from Archangel to Tomsk and spent a long time in Moscow and Leningrad. Ending his study of political conditions in town and country only last month, Mr. Mackenzie said that conditions had not improved in the slightest degree since he entered the country in November, 1921. In some respects they were infinitely worse, he said.

"The extreme Radicals have control of the Government," he explained, "and are making every effort to suppress capital, destroy business enterprise and obliterate religion. The intellectual classes and the bourgeoisie are being subjected to greater oppression than ever.

"They have been exiling large numbers of business people to Northern Siberia and places in the Arctic region, such as Solvetsky Island, a desolate spot in the White Sea, within the Arctic Circle, cut off from the rest of the world for six or seven months every year. About 500 political prisoners and more than 5,000 so-called criminals have been deported there. Many of the "criminals" were merely political offenders, including several Bishops of the Greek Church and numerous students. No distinction is made between criminals and political prisoners. They are herded together and get the same food, their rations consisting of black bread and a small quantity of soup. Their labor is made exhausting. They are exposed to extremes of weather. The death roll is frightful. This is understood by the Soviet authorities, and even the prisoners know that exile virtually means a sentence of death.

"Catherine Breshkovsky's statement in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning to the effect that the Soviet Government is trying to kill off the Russian people is perfectly correct. The Soviet Government is now discharging many Government workers who used to belong to the upper classes, and they are facing starvation. They cannot leave the country because few permits are granted.

Mr. Mackenzie said the Soviet authorities do not prevent visiting foreigners from traveling about the country, and even provide foreign newspaper correspondents with special facilities. They object very strongly, however, to having correspondents send out stories showing the dark side of Russia. "I sent a message after my return from Siberia, telling some plain truths about the exile system, and declaring that it had all the worst features of the Czarist exile system with others added," he said. "A Soviet official said to me 'We didn't know you were going to Siberia to see the exiles, or you would never have got there.'"

Mr. Mackenzie believes that Trotsky's downfall was chiefly due to his illness, and that he was really a very sick man. "I saw him some weeks ago," he said, "and he had lost all his former appearances of alertness and energy. The Bolsheviki are afraid to take his life because he is today the one big figure in Russia. In my travels through the country I saw his portrait displayed everywhere with that of Lenin, but none of the other Soviet leaders was shown this honor. Trotsky has an enormous following, but it is not organized, and as the heads of the Soviet Government control the army, he is powerless.

Mr. Mackenzie believes that the Russian Army is now about half a million strong, but this number could be increased easily to two or three millions if the equipment was obtainable.

"Everybody who comes from Russia is asked whether there is any immediate prospect of the Soviet régime breaking down or changing?" he said. "In my opinion, the present régime will continue for some years, but eventually it will be forced, by economic pressure, to modify its extreme measures. In the meantime, I believe the right course for outside Governments to pursue to help Russia is to establish relations of some kind with the Soviets, though not perhaps formal recognition. This would strengthen the conservative element in the Communist Party. Krassin, for instance, is an honest, sensible business man, but has to yield to his associates. If he had his way he would have trade restored. America should use the tremendous influence she undoubtedly possesses in Russia by making provisions of some kind.

"Revolution in Russia is impossible because of the apathy of the people."

"There has been much talk about Jews controlling the Soviet Government. This is undoubtedly true. Even when a Soviet official is a gentile most of his subordinates are Jewish. The explanation is simple. Large numbers of Jews were oppressed and driven into exile during the Czarist régime, many having gone to America. After the revolution hundreds of these returned to Russia, and being business men with a good knowledge of foreign languages they naturally obtained Government employment."

Mr. Mackenzie will give his first address in New York City next week before the Engineers' Club.

FORBES DEFENSE USES NAME OF COOLIDGE

Counsel Compares One Defendant to Contractor Who Sought Vice President's Aid.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Closing arguments for the defense were begun today in the trial for alleged conspiracy to defraud the Government in awarding contracts for Veterans' Bureau hospitals of J. W. Thompson and Charles R. Forbes, former Director of the bureau.

Part of the prosecution's argument was completed at the morning session with an appeal to the jury to bring in a verdict of guilty as a surety that the integrity of the Government might be maintained. The case "struck at the very roots of government," asserted Ralph Potter, Assistant Attorney General.

In his plea for acquittal Randolph Laughlin of St. Louis pointed to alleged changes, flaws and weaknesses in the testimony of Elias H. Mortimer, the chief witness for the prosecution. Government counsel had stated, he asserted, that Mortimer's uncorroborated testimony was not in itself sufficient evidence, and he argued that while little had been introduced to support Mortimer much had been offered to refute his story.

Laughlin asserted that Thompson and his colleagues had been "taken in by Mortimer." He attempted to show also that the Thompson interests sought through Mortimer only that legitimate entree to the Veterans' Bureau which M. Y. O'Connor, a Northampton (Mass.) contractor, had sought in calling on Vice President Coolidge in Washington in July, 1922, for assistance in arranging an interview between O'Connor and Charles F. Cramer, former general counsel of the Veterans' Bureau.

TRINITY CHURCH SUED FOR LAND IT OCCUPIES

Two Descendants of Original Owner Also Claim Property Reaching to Hudson River.

The title of Trinity Church to the site it occupies at Wall Street and Broadway is questioned in a bill of equity filed yesterday in the United States District Court here. The action is brought in the name of collateral descendants of Robert Edwards, who say Trinity Church has used and occupied land that rightfully belongs to them. They ask the court to declare them the owners and compel the church to give an accounting of rents and profits received from the land since May 1, 1866.

The litigants are Arthur J. Edwards of Guilford County, North Carolina, and Wesley J. Edwards of Los Angeles, Cal. They are represented by Samuel G. Litwin of 1,540 Broadway. Mr. Litwin said yesterday the property involved is the site of the church edifice, the cemetery and all the property in the rear running to the Hudson River. He said the value of all the land covered by the deed would be approximately $100,000,000.

There have been many actions brought against Trinity Church by persons who thought they had a claim to some of the properties of the corporation.

In asserting the alleged title of the new litigants the complaint says that the church came into possession of the property by an assignment of the unexpired residue of a lease executed by Robert Edwards to John Cruger and George Cruger, to run for a period of ninety-nine years, which expired May 1, 1866, after which the church continued in possession at sufferance."

According to Mr. Litwin the bill will later be amended to include other heirs. There are more than a hundred such heirs, residing principally in Virginia and North Carolina, he said. Mr. Litwin said he had been informed that these heirs did not know they had any claim to the land, since Robert Edwards died intestate and his brothers and sisters, aware the property had been leased for a period exceeding their lives, had moved away and paid no further attention to it.

GAS GUN SURPRISES POLICE.

New Weapon Comes to Light With Arrest of Pier Guard.

A new weapon came to the attention of the police yesterday when detectives found a gas pistol in the clothing of Elmar Lowes of 253 East Twenty-third Street, after he had been arrested by a policeman in a hallway on Fourteenth Street near Second Avenue. The pistol was about eight inches long and in it was a cartridge containing what the police believed was a deadly gas. The detectives also found in Lowes's pocket a blackjack that opened like a telescope.

When arraigned in the Essex Market Court on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, Lowes admitted that the pistol was made to fire gas shells. He said that he was a guard on a steamship pier and that he bought both weapons to protect himself from bootleggers who caused the death by drowning of another guard there a short time ago. He said that he never had fired the pistol. Magistrate August W. Glatzmayer held him in $1,000 bail for Special Sessions.

Inspector John D. Coughlin, in charge of the Detective Bureau, declared it was the first time he had seen such a pistol.

DEATH THREAT IN LETTER.

Man Pressing Assault Charge Gets Special Police Protection.

Winfield Boyson of 8,456 Eighty-fifth Street, Woodhaven, is receiving special police protection from the Richmond Hill station because of a letter he received threatening his life. Boyson is pressing a charge of assault against Louis De Luca of 1,354 101st Street, Ozone Park. The letter was signed "De Luca's Friends," and bore a figure of a skull and crossed bones and a heart pierced by an arrow. It demands that Boyson drop the case against De Luca.

A few days ago De Luca was held in $1,500 bail for Special Sessions by Magistrate Conway in the Jamaica court. Boyson, who is manager of a gasoline station, alleged that De Luca quarreled with him over the price of gas and stabbed him while he was telephoning to the police.

PORT AUTHORITY TAX ISSUE RAISED

Gov. Silzer in a Special Message Asks for a Legislative Inquiry.

SAYS PROBLEM IS VITAL

Declares Future of the Project Hinges on Whether Acquired Property Is Taxable.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 26 (Associated Press).—Declaring that the future of the Port of New York depends upon determination of whether property acquired by the Port Authority shall be taxable, Governor Silzer in a special message to the Legislature tonight recommended appointment of a committee to study the question. A committee of six, composed of two Senators, two Assemblymen and two members appointed by the Governor, was suggested.

With the Port Authority Commissioners as members ex-officio the committee would confer with like representatives from New York, and, if necessary, present the result to the States and to Congress for its confirmation.

The message pointed out that both in the unification of port facilities and in the construction of proposed bridges across the Hudson River and the Arthur Kill, private property would be acquired by this agency, and that the relationship between the respective municipalities and this agency which exercises functions for the United States Government must therefore be determined.

"The most important question at present is that of taxation. Whether the property of the Port Authority shall be taxable at all, or if taxable by whom and to what extent, is not fixed in the treaty creating the commission. If the courts shall hold that the Port Authority is a governmental agency, then it and the property acquired by it under our laws would not be taxable."

The message declared that the imposition of taxes might prevent the Port Authority from carrying out the treaty mandates imposed upon it by the States themselves and by the United States Government, but that, on the other hand, the local municipality could not be stripped of an undue proportion of its ratables. The proposed tansfer to the Port Authority of the Hoboken Shore Line Railroad and of the Government-owned docks and piers, which were formerly private property, snaring in the local tax burden, but now were untaxed, were cited as concrete examples of the importance of this question to the municipalities.

The message commended the work of the Port Authority. Referring specifically to negotiations for acquisition of the Hoboken Shore Line Railroad, securing of enlarged facilities to end delays in receiving and dispatching freight on Long Island at a cost of $1,250,000, and the practical operation of Belt Line 13 from Bayonne to Edgewater. Reference was made also to plans for the unification of service by car floats which was declared well under way.

"No more important functions are being performed at the present time in the public interest than these great enterprises of the Port Authority," said the message.

The report of the Port Authority will be submitted to the Legislature tomorrow.

TALLEY VERDICT TODAY.

Libel Suit Brought by the Judge Left in the Hands of the Jury.

A $100,000 libel suit brought by Judge Alfred J. Talley of General Sessions against the Sun-Herald Corporation went to the jury yesterday afternoon, and an hour later the jury, by direction of Supreme Court Justice Charles L. Guy, was directed to seal its verdict. The verdict will be announced this morning.

The suit is based upon publication of a letter from F. L. Carrao, replying to an anonymous attack upon the Sicilians in New York which was given out for publication by Judge Talley after the Cusimano kidnapping trial.

Martin Conboy, summing up for Judge Talley, said the Carrao letter was libelous on its face when it referred to the plaintiff as "a Judge of your disgraceful character." Judge Talley's life, he said, was an open book without a sullied page.

MARRIAGE CONSENT ENTERS GOULD CASE

Referee to Be Asked to Rule on the Validity of One Clause in the Will.

Another phase of the suit brought by the heirs of Jay Gould, who are contesting the accounting of the $82,000,000 estate, will be entered upon on Thursday, Feb. 5, when Referee James A. O'Gorman will be asked to determine the validity of the so-called marriage clause in the will of the founder of the Gould fortune. This was stated yesterday when the hearing was resumed before the referee in the office of Taylor, Knowles & Hack, 165 Broadway.

This brings to the front the question whether George Gould obtained the necessary consent of the other trustees to his second marriage, and whether Frank Gould obtained consent for his third marriage. In a codicil to his will, drawn Nov. 21, 1892, about ten days before his death, Jay Gould stipulated that if any of his children married without the consent of a majority of the executors and trustees his or her share would be reduced one-half.

Referee O'Gorman expressed the personal opinion that the marriage clause in Jay Gould's will was "against public polity." Marriage, he said, was presupposed to be based upon love and affection, and while it might be advisable to restrict the contemplated marriages of young persons, to require, as in the case of Frank Gould, who is 55 years old, the consent of other trustees was permitting a "dead hand" to interfere.

More testimony as to the physical condition of the Gould brothers will be introduced on Thursday. Counsel will begin summing up on Monday, Feb. 9, and Referee O'Gorman announced that any additional testimony that counsel might wish to offer after that would be received without prejudice.

Colonel George T. Vickers, who prosecuted the Weehawken liquor smuggling case in the Hudson County, N. J., courts, went to Washington yesterday to consult with Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General in charge of prohibition enforcement, but missed her because Mrs. Willebrandt came to Jersey City to consult him.

Edwards, left for Washington on the midnight train Sunday, and Mrs. Willebrandt left Washington for New York at the same time. Arrangements were made for a meeting in Washington today. Griffin, Police Commissioner Stearns and ten policemen will be sought in the county courts or whether the Federal Government should act.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Senator Edwards of New Jersey declined tonight to make any comment upon a letter which he received today from the Committee of Forty-eight and signed by J. A. H. Hopkins, Chairman of the Executive Committee. The writers demanded that he face the charges that he acted as an intermediary in negotiations involving the transfer of some $3,500 worth of whisky in violation of the prohibition law.

When Senator Edwards was asked if he had made a reply to the letter, he replied that "it isn't necessary." He declined to discuss the communication further.

PLAN A NEW HOME FOR PHILHARMONIC

Encroachments of Business May Doom Orchestra's Present Quarters at Any Time.

UNION WAGES MINOR ISSUE

Society and Musicians to Meet Thursday in Mackay Office for Discussion.

Vital questions for the future of all orchestral concerts in New York, as well as the immediate outlook for settlement of two-year contracts with union musicians in both opera and symphony bands, are to be taken up at the first conference between committees of the Philharmonic Society and of Local 802, American Federation of Musicians, on Thursday at the office of Clarence H. Mackay, 253 Broadway, following Mr. Mackay's return from the South.

It was declared yesterday that the least of present difficulties are the union proposals of $25 weekly advance, or $85 minimum scale for symphony players, and a proportionately larger advance, to $104 weekly, at the opera.

The Philharmonic, it was made known by the society's friends yesterday, may be called on for a far heavier expense in another direction, that of providing a concert hall both for its own performances and for those of the New York Symphony, the Boston, Philadelphia and other orchestras playing regular seasons here. Carnegie Hall, the home of these concerts for over a generation, has been looked on as a permanent musical centre, but the movement of business northward has made it clear that a new site must be sought before a crisis comes that would leave both musicians and concert-goers homeless.

When the Aeolian Building, in Forty-second and Forty-third Streets, was sold and resold last Fall, its former proprietors, who remain tenants in their own house for a few years at most, cast about for a new location. A rumor of impending transfer of Carnegie Hall at that time was denied. Real estate operators, however, had their attention sharply drawn to the situation, and the rumors have persisted with growing frequency that the site, which has multiplied in value during recent years, had been made the object of speculative offers running into millions.

As far as those who discussed the matter yesterday were aware, the first intimation of uncertainty as to the future of a home for orchestras reached the Philharmonic Directors at a dinner given by Mr. Mackay, as Chairman of the Directors' Board of that society, to the visiting composer and guest conductor, Igor Stravinsky, on Jan. 14, at Mr. Mackay's home. Otto H. Kahn at that dinner, according to other guests present, told Mr. Mackay that if the time should come when New York's orchestras must build their own hall, Mr. Kahn would join them in arranging to finance the plan.

The New York Symphony Orchestra left at 2:05 o'clock yesterday afternoon on its tour of a month to Cuba and the Southern States. Instruments valued at $100,000 were carried in two baggage cars, while the Music Special, as the train was bulletined, had three Pullman sleepers and a diner for the 100 men traveling with Conductor Walter Damrosch.

J., on Christmas Day, according to officials of the French Consulate, who are aiding in the search for the missing woman. Persons who knew her in Paterson say that Mrs. Lutfy applied to a priest for money to return to New York, but investigation of this clue by relatives has failed to clear up the mystery of the woman's disappearance.

Mrs. Lutfy, who was in comfortable circumstances and living with her daughter, was 48 years old, 5 feet 3 inches tall, with dark brown eyes, black hair streaked with gray and a mole on her right cheek. One wrist is tattooed with Arabic characters.

WOMEN BEGIN DRIVE TO SERVE ON JURIES

More than a thousand representative women of New York City launched a movement yesterday to support the Woman Jury Service bill. At a luncheon of the New York League of Women Voters in the Hotel Roosevelt they listened to a celebrated American woman jurist, a famous English woman barrister and two former jurywomen of New Jersey, who told them that women jurors could, and should, hear unflinchingly whatever witnesses might testify of the sordid details in crimes, particularly crimes against women and girls.

Justice Florence E. Allen of the Supreme Court of Ohio asserted that women jurors had uplifted the whole tone of the courts of Ohio. She described how the presence of women in the jury box encouraged faltering women and girls to tell the stories of their wrongs.

Justice Allen said that in her experience the presence of women jurors in such cases had stopped the sneering and jeering of the unfeeling in the courtroom. She explained how the kindly, motherly sympathy of several women in a jury box drew from witnesses the necessary details of testimony which made possible convictions.

"There is no more important service that woman can render," said Justice Allen. "It is true that a certain part of jury service is irksome, but it is not all irksome. Of course, it is not pleasant to sit in a jury room a long time waiting to be called, or to be challenged by a lawyer because you may look intelligent. But the whole drama of human life passes through the courts."

"By calling women to serve as jurors new sources of intelligence are opened up, and intelligence is surely needed on a jury, she said. In Ohio jurywomen follow the evidence well and are unusually conscientious in their verdict.

"Women can very well spend their time studying human relations in court. In cases of crimes against women and girls no one knows the overwhelming difficulty of the prosecutor in trying to present evidence sufficiently strong to convict.

"It is difficult to get witnesses to repeat revolting details of such cases. Although they will give a clear statement of fact outside the court, they are abashed when on the stand. Frequently their testimony becomes so thin that it practically vanishes.

"Mrs. Helena Normanton, who, as Standing Counsel to the Women's Unionist Organization, is described as England's first and foremost woman barrister, told the women that if they tried to resist jury service they would find it thrust upon them, and that if they went after it as if it were a prize they would not get it."

Mrs. Harriman Simmons, President of the New Jersey League of Women Voters, described her experiences as a Grand Juror. She said the men on the jury were kind and courteous. They gave the women flowers and asked their permission to smoke, she said.

Miss Elizabeth Hill, President of the Orange branch of the New Jersey League of Women Voters, said that women on a mixed jury on which she served were adamant in a disorderly house case. They decided to hear the full testimony.

"The case involved a woman defendant," she said, "and as women we felt fortunate in being on the jury so that we could perform a service to the State."

State Senator Nathan Straus explained the provisions of the Women's Jury Service bill, of which he is an author. He described as "bunk" the arguments that the service of women on juries would disrupt domestic affairs. State Senator Seabury C. Mastick of the Twenty-sixth District, Republican, said he was sympathetic with the measure.

Mrs. Leslie J. Tompkins, Chairman of Manhattan Borough, New York League of Women Voters, presided at the luncheon, and Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany, Director of the first region of the league, conducted the discussion.

$450,000 IN NARCOTICS SEIZED IN WAREHOUSE

Agents Arrest 11 Men and a Boy, in Various Parts of the City, as Drug Traffickers.

Treasury agents seized a quantity of narcotics estimated to be worth $450,000 at Robinson's Warehouse, Brooklyn, late yesterday. The drugs, the agents said, arrived some months ago on the freighter Constantinople secreted in an olive cask. The government officials were waiting for the owner to call for the barrel, which was consigned to this port with six barrels of bona-fide olives, but he failed to appear.

The contraband narcotics were of high grade and had been manufactured in Germany, shipped to Italy and reconsigned to New York, the Federal officers said. The drugs were packed in bottles which were wrapped in cotton wool and included chloride of cocaine, cocaine and morphine in powder form. There were a few ripe olives packed around the bunghole to deceive the customs officials. The actual weight of the seized narcotics was said to be more than 200 pounds, and the Federal agents place a selling value of between $2,000 and $2,500 per pound on the drugs because of the high strength and quality.

Federal narcotic agents under Ralph Oyler arrested twelve men yesterday on charges of violating the Harrison Narcotic act and conspiracy. The agents arrested one of the men, David Butterman, at Pennsylvania Station and said that they seized $1,250 worth of opium. Five others who were charged with being implicated with him in the drug traffic were picked up in other sections of the city. Two of them were employed in a cigar store at Forty-seventh Street and Broadway. The six other arrests were made in Italian restaurants on Thompson Street. No narcotics were seized, but the agents said that they made purchases from the accused men several days ago. There was considerable excitement when they arrested the Italians. Chairs were thrown about and several shots were fired by the agents in order to attract the attention of the police. One of the prisoners was a sixteen-year-old boy, who was accused by the agents of being a runner for drug vendors.

EDITOR MUST GO TO JAIL.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Arthur Lorenz, former editor of the Illinois Staats Zeitung, must serve six months in the House of Correction and pay a fine of $1 for criminal libel against the American Legion, the Appellate Court decided today.

The Court affirmed a verdict in criminal court two years ago, the higher Court holding that Lorenz's editorials referring to Legion members as "tramps, vagabonds and bums" was obviously "a deliberate attempt to impeach the honesty and reputation of the American Legion."

Lorenz was brought back here from St. Paul for trial after indictment, largely through efforts of Legion officials. His attorneys contended that the verdict should be set aside because it infringed the freedom of the press.

The Appellate Court declared that the article tended to arouse public feeling and contribute to a breach of the peace. The Court said the article was written "in a spirit of vindictiveness and intended as a gratuitous insult to the Legion."

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE WARNS REPUBLICANS

Bishop Leonard, President, Says Voters Won't Forget Enforcement Law Pledge.

Bishop Adna Wright Leonard of Buffalo, President of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, speaking yesterday at the annual union preachers' meeting, at the Twenty-third Street branch, Y. M. C. A., called upon Republicans holding State offices to remember their campaign pledge to do their utmost to bring about the passage of a prohibition enforcement code. He warned that if they do not keep their promise the league "will not overlook and will not forget" at the next election.

The audience, consisting of 150 ministers and laymen, adopted a resolution favoring the passage of State enforcement legislation and calling upon the ministers of the State to urge their parishioners to appeal to the legislators in this connection. The following resolution was also adopted:

"Whereas a new assault on prohibition is made by a committee of fifty of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, including Senator Wadsworth of New York and Senator Edge of New Jersey, toward modification of the national law and the repeal of State laws; be it

"Resolved, That we call upon all law-abiding citizens to intensify their observance and respect for the prohibition law and to resist every effort of wet propagandists to weaken the law and nullify the Constitution of the United States."

No More Commissions Paid.

Bishop Leonard assured his listeners that "all commissions for services in the Anti-Saloon League are a thing of the past." Without mentioning William H. Anderson, former State Superintendent, he added that "the books are audited and only the proper persons are permitted to go to them."

Discussing political matters, Bishop Leonard said:

"The Republican Party might have won a great victory at the last election if it had selected a candidate for Governor in the first instance who was unqualifiedly for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"We recall the pre-election promises of those who were aspirants for political office, and now as an aftermath of the campaign, and in the face of events and rumors at Albany, I want to serve notice as President of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, bespeaking the sentiment of those in the leadership of the league, that the law-enforcement element in the State at the next election will not overlook and will not forget. The leaders of the party must stand by their word if they wish to be regarded as worthy of trust in the future."

After saying that ministers who try to do the work of law officers discredit their sacred calling, Bishop Leonard added:

"I believe this is the most critical time prohibition has faced in the State. With a Governor who is a nullificationist, with an increase in alcoholic deaths and in drunkenness—an increase not due to prohibition but to the repeal of the Prohibition law of the State—it is imperative that the churches stand together, and in the name of God prove that those who passed the Prohibition law did not pass it in vain."

Soon To Announce Program.

Arthur J. Davis, who replaced Mr. Anderson as Superintendent, said that within a few days a committee of the Board of Trustees would announce the policies and program of the organization.

Saying the Republican "Party is reported to be prepared to repudiate its pledges" to have its candidates vote for an enforcement law, he went on:

"It has been said that, even if the Republicans send an enforcement law to the Governor, he is certain to veto it. It may be, and probably is true, that Governor Smith has not learned the lesson of Madison Square Garden, but that does not lessen the responsibility of the Republican Party."

DELAY ON SEIZED FARM SOUGHT BY PARK BOARD

The Long Island State Park Commission has asked Supreme Court Justice James C. Van Siclen to extend the time in which to file briefs in the injunction proceedings brought by W. Kingsland Macy and other wealthy residents of Islip in the fight over the old Taylor estate there, which the Commission seeks to make into a State park.

This became known yesterday, when the time expired. The additional time was sought on the ground that the commission had not been able to complete affidavits in support of its contention that a little group of golfers had stepped in to prevent the State acquiring the property by purchase.

That the commission is also seeking to examine Mr. Macy became known yesterday. Application has been made to Supreme Court Justice William F. Hagarty for permission to question him about the Pauchogue Land Corporation, which was organized to acquire the property after the State had practically completed negotiations for its purchase. Mr. Macy, through his counsel, Joseph Auerbach, is contesting the application on the ground that it is obstructive. A decision is expected today.

The difficulties between the commission and members of the Timber Point Golf Club began last fall, when the commission's negotiations for the Taylor estate, adjoining the club, became known. The property had long been on the market, and the commission's offer of $250,000 would have been accepted, the commission argues, had not Mr. Macy and Horace Havemeyer, acting for themselves and other wealthy residents, stepped in with $250,000 cash and a promise of certain profits in the event of a resale within five years. For this purpose the Pauchogue Land Corporation was organized, and the commission contends that it bought the property on the very day it was incorporated.

When the property slipped out of the Commission's hands by title passing to the Pauchogue Corporation, the Commission appropriated it and placed State troopers in possession. The new owners thereupon obtained a temporary injunction, and it was in this proceeding that the State seeks more time.

"We have not completed the affidavits needed in the case," said Robert B. Moses, Chairman of the Commission, "and we filed a letter with the Court asking for an extension that we might do so. The collateral proceeding is to examine Mr. Macy on the organization of the Pauchogue Land Corporation."

Mr. Macy was critical of the Commission.

"They seized our property by force quickly enough," he said, "and when the matter came up for a hearing they were not prepared to defend their action. They got more time and used it trying to force an examination of me for purposes of further delay. Now that their time has expired they are asking for an extension."

Father Cleared of Striking Son.

Martin Dulaney, 37 years old, of 247 East Fifty-fifth Street, charged with having struck his 9-year-old son Martin Jr., was discharged in Yorkville Court yesterday by Magistrate Norman J. Marsh. Mrs. Helen Dulaney withdrew her complaint.

It is useless expense to burn coal any higher priced than No. 1 Buckwheat for house heating—

IT SEEMS strange that more people do not use buckwheat coal exclusively for heating their homes. It costs from $4 to $7 less per ton and contains an equal amount of heat.

Probably the only reason is because they do not know that there is a heater specially designed to burn buckwheat coal—the Spencer Heater, which for nearly thirty years has saved money and given even, comfortable heat to thousands of owners.

But economy is only one of its many unusual advantages. Every Spencer Heater, from the small residence size to the largest apartment house or industrial units, has the unique Spencer coal magazine which holds a 24-hours' supply of coal that feeds by gravity to the sloping grates in the exact proportion needed to maintain a steady, even fire, without attention.

Perhaps the emphasis should be on the "steady, even fire." It all depends upon your experience with your own heating system.

In any event, the chief advantages of Spencer Heating your present home, or the new one you are planning to build, sum up as:

2—Steady, even heat as long as you want it.

A coal magazine holding 12 to 24 hours' supply, from which the No. 1 Buckwheat coal feeds by gravity to sloping grates as the fire requires it, enables the Spencer to maintain even, controlled temperature for long periods without attention.

These and other advantages are discussed in a little booklet on "Better, Cheaper Heating." Write for a copy.

BARNARD GIRL DIES IN 8-STORY PLUNGE

Columbia Physician Says She Murmured Incoherently on Religion in Last Moments.

The mind of Helen E. Vosburgh, 22 years old, an honor student in economics at Barnard College, collapsed yesterday and she plunged eight stories from her room in Brooks Hall, Broadway and 116th Street. Thirty minutes later she died in Knickerbocker Hospital, murmuring incoherently of religion.

Although this was the opinion of the physicians, friends denied that the brilliant young girl's mentality had broken under the strain of overstudy. They said her mental equipment was such that she needed less than the average study period. They declared that Miss Vosburgh, occasionally subject to somnambulism, had climbed out the window while asleep.

But the figure up above straightened slowly to full height; its hands were raised and joined above the head, as a diver's are. Several times the flashing form turned in its plunge. Once it struck a ledge. The girl landed on her feet.

Thought Physician Messiah.

Louis Marino, a fellow-employe of Cafferty, students and Policeman Gayner of the West 100th Street Station hurried to the spot. Dr. Koinor of Knickerbocker Hospital, in a hasty examination, found Miss Vosburgh's left leg had suffered a compound fracture and there were symptoms of severe internal injuries. Almost as soon as the unconscious girl had been delivered to the emergency treatment ward, having been sped to the hospital in a commandeered automobile, Dr. William H. McCastline, medical officer of Columbia, was summoned.

Dr. McCastline said that when he entered the operating room Miss Vosburgh had regained consciousness. She gazed at him a moment and in a calm, weak voice said that the physician was the Messiah and that she was his daughter. The coma descended again and in a short time she was dead.

Her father, George H. Vosburgh, a City Court Judge of 61 Putnam Street, South Norwalk, Conn., was called. Later the authorities announced that the parents would take the body to South Norwalk for burial his morning.

Acted Strangely, Students Say.

Miss Vosburgh, a senior in economics, was to have been graduated in June. It was said at the college that she had been acting strangely of late. On Sunday night she knocked at the door of Miss Loretta Bates of Hazleton, Pa., who occupied a room opposite. Miss Bates, tired, called out to ascertain who knocked. Miss Vosburgh responded: "Jesus Christ."

She was advised to go back to bed and later was heard stirring about. Fellow-students who had noticed her strange remarks in the last few days had not reported them, thinking that her condition was merely transitory.

Miss Olga Rudholm, a friend of the dead girl, who lives at 25 West Eighty-second Street, told Miss Mary McBride, Assistant Director of Brooks Hall, that Miss Vosburgh was a victim of sleep-walking. Miss Rudholm said that Miss Vosburgh had visited her often and that frequently the young student had risen while asleep and walked about the room. Miss Rudholm was convinced that while in this state the girl walked through the window.

ENDS LIFE, FEARING DOOMSDAY

Laborer Had Listened to Preachment That World Would End Feb. 6.

BAY SHORE, L. I., Jan. 26.—Fear caused by brooding over a prophecy that the world would end Feb. 6 caused Edward Marquaret, a laborer, to commit suicide by hanging himself in the cellar of his home at Islip Manor today. A widow, who is about to become a mother, and four children, the oldest 8, survive.

Never previously a religious man, for eight weeks Marquaret had followed closely the preachings of an advocate of the Gospel of Doom, who has been daily passing up and down the South Shore exorting all to prepare for the second coming. He had often listened to the announcement that to be one of the 144,000 in the United States who will be saved a man must sell his belongings.

Mrs. Marquaret disclosed to Coroner Edwin Moore that about six weeks ago her husband tried to kill himself and his family by turning on the gas in the kitchen stove. She said that after his conversion to the Gospel of Doom he frequently discussed with her whether he would sell their home.

THOUGHT SUICIDE WAS ASLEEP

Landlord Discovers Next Day His Tenant Had Shot Himself.

The body of Charles Lind, 64 years old, a pattern-maker, lay for nearly two days in his furnished room at 146 East Sixteenth Street before it was discovered that he had shot and killed himself. Frank Hanna, landlord, who made the discovery yesterday forenoon, told the police he had seen Lind, fully clothed, lying across his bed in the third-floor room Sunday morning when he entered to make up the bed, but thought that Lind was sleeping late. When he saw the man in the same position yesterday he investigated and found a pistol on the bed beside Lind, who had a bullet wound in his left breast.

Mrs. Hanna, wife of the landlord, told the police she had seen Lind enter the house early Saturday afternoon. Police found a note in Swedish, giving his name, age and saying he was a native of Sweden.

DRINKS POISON IN PARK.

A few hours after he had been found lying unconscious in a snow bank in Van Cortlandt Park with a small bottle from which carbolic acid had been drained beside him, Max Frankel, 45 years old, of 98 Broadway, Paterson, N. J., died last night in St. Joseph's Hospital, Yonkers. He had been taken to the hospital in an automobile by Policeman John Finnigan of the Kingsbridge Station.

Frankel, who was employed as a clerk in a Manhattan office, lived at the Paterson address with his wife and two children, Ida, 20, and Harold, 15. His family were unable to say why he had ended his life.

CAPT. FRISCH HEARD ON BASEBALL 'BRIBE'

OTHER PLAYERS TO FOLLOW

Commissioner Landis Says That All Required Will Be Sent From Their Homes to Inquiry Here.

Frankie Frisch, captain of the Giants baseball team, and Heinie Sand, shortstop of the Philadelphia National League team, were questioned at length yesterday by Assistant District Attorney George N. Brothers in his investigation of the alleged attempt last October to "fix" a game between their teams which resulted in a victory and the League pennant for the Giants.

Sand reported to Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, High Commissioner of baseball, at the close of the National League season that Jimmy O'Connell, a utility outfielder for the Giants had offered him $500 "not to bear down hard" on the Giants. In the investigation by Commissioner Landis which followed, O'Connell was said to have admitted making the offer and he named "Cozy" Dolan, Giant coach, as the instigator.

A transcript of the testimony of Frisch, Sand, O'Connell and Dolan and other players on both teams was sent by Commissioner Landis to District Attorney Banton last week. The next day Assistant District Attorney Brothers, who had been ordered by his chief to begin an investigation, announced that he had requested Judge Landis to furnish him with the addresses of ten players, including Sand, O'Connell, Frisch and Dolan. Frisch and Sand were the first to appear. O'Connell and Dolan, after the Landis investigation, were put on the "ineligible list" of baseball, but it is expected that they also will appear to be questioned.

Mr. Brothers would not reveal the developments resulting from his interrogation of Frisch and Sand. He said that no statement would be made about the testimony of any of the witnesses he might call. He explained that this stand was necessary because there was a possibility that if the right kind of corroborating evidence of attempted bribery or conspiracy was obtained it would be necessary to lay the matter before the Grand Jury.

Frisch and Sand had left Mr. Brothers's office in the Criminal Court Building before it became known that they had appeared for interrogation in the investigation. Mr. Brothers intimated that he would exert every effort to maintain secrecy about the appearance of the other witnesses to prevent any possible interference with the plans he had laid out for the conduct of his inquiry.

The prosecutor said that he had received a reply to the letter which he had sent to Judge Landis. He said that Judge Landis had assured him that every player in the National League needed for interrogation in connection with the O'Connell-Dolan affair would be sent to the prosecutor at the expense of the High Commission, no matter in what part of the country the player might live.

RUTHENBERG OUT ON BAIL.

Released Pending Appeal, He Will Speak at Lenin Meeting Here.

JACKSON, Mich., Jan. 26.—Charles E. Ruthenberg was released from the State Prison today under bail of $7,500 pending a review by the United States Supreme Court of his conviction on a charge of violating Michigan's anti-syndicalism law.

C. E. Ruthenberg will be one of the speakers at a Lenin memorial meeting in Madison Square Garden Sunday night, according to Charles Krumbein, local district organizer of the Workers' Party. He said that he had been informed by telegraph of Ruthenberg's release on bail and that he had taken immediate steps to have him appear at the meeting.

According to the organizer, Ruthenberg's release was made possible by a writ of supercedus signed by Justice Brandeis of the Supreme Court.

The Miller boy was arraigned yesterday morning in the Children's Court before Justice George J. O'Keefe, and he was released in $500 bail for a hearing on Friday.

SCHENECTADY BIDS FOR FUNSTON TO STAY

Mayor Suggests Same Salary for Chief of Police There as New York Pays Him.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Mayor Campbell today asked Captain William Funston of the New York City Police Department to accept the post of Chief of Police of Schenectady permanently at a salary of $3,300, which was said to be the equivalent of his present salary in New York.

If a bill now before the Legislature is passed and the New York Municipal Council takes favorable action he will be eligible to receive also a pension of $1,675 annually from New York City.

Captain Funston was loaned to Schenectady to reorganize the Police Department here when two murders were followed by the resignation of the Chief of Police. His leave of absence from New York will expire soon.

AUDITORE HEARD IN SUIT.

Admits $26,000 Gambling Loss In Enright Libel Action Testimony.

James Auditore, sometimes referred to as the "millionaire stevedore," testified yesterday in the Brooklyn Supreme Court in a civil action he has brought against Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright charging libel, and in which he asks damages of $100,000. He charges that his character and reputation were injured by a statement issued by the Commissioner in 1921, during the investigation here of the municipal government by the Meyer Legislative Committee.

Auditore had been a witness before the Meyer committee, but the committee had refused permission to Commissioner Enright to read into the record a statement concerning the witness. George R. Brennan, attorney for Auditore, told Justice Lewis and a jury that Commissioner Enright had then given the statement to reporters and that it was published in the newspapers.

When Joseph Reilly, an Assistant Corporation Counsel, cross examined Auditore for the defense, he replied to numerous questions by saying he couldn't remember. To one respone Justice Lewis exclaimed:

"Well, about six times," replied Auditore. He said he had never been convicted. Reilly asked Auditore if he had hit a woman named Edith Darrell when she spoke to him on a certain occasion regarding his gambling losses. "I lost $26,000 that night," he answered. "We were all fighting. I don't know who was hit."

By MORDAUNT HALL.

A Melodrama.

Just as the main title of "The Lady" was flashed upon the Colony screen yesterday afternoon two old ladies with white hair took seats in the first row of the balcony. In modulated, cultured tones they commented upon the scenes as the story was unfurled. Norma Talmadge, who apepars in the principal rôle, immediately found favor in their eyes. She reminded them of somebody they knew. Soon these two spectators were living in bygone years, being deeply stirred by some of the passages of the melodrama, which was translated to the screen from Martin Brown's play.

Possibly the two old ladies remembered the time when Lottie Collins sang "Ta-ra-ra-doom-deay" and became the rage of London, in the days when hansom cabs were the principal conveyance to the theatres. Polly Pearl (Miss Talmadge) was a stage favorite like Lottie Collins, and the two old ladies exchanged a few words when Polly appeared in the short skirts of an old-fashioned soubrette. These two old ladies saw Polly as the centre of attraction, with a dozen stagedoor johnnies waiting hopefully with bouquets in their arms. Later Polly appears in Monte Carlo as the wife of the aristocratic Leonard St. Aubyne, and the old ladies were affected and sighed when Polly discovered her husband in the arms of another woman.

The film version of "The Lady" is really well done, and Miss Talmadge gives one of the finest performances of her screen career. She is sympathetic and sweet as the elderly woman who is telling the story of her unfortunate life. She is captivating, vivacious and charming as the nimble-toed dancer who weds the faithless St. Aubyns, and she is excellent in the highly emotional moments when, as a mother, she parts with her baby to save him from being taken by the selfish father of her late husband. She is real as the woman, selling flowers in foggy London, wondering whether every little boy who passes is her child.

The settings in this effort are quite good, the weak point about the picture being the subtitles, which were obviously written by somebody who knows little of the cockney parlance. In these captions one sees modern American slang and countless other errors, and it is certain that if more attention had been paid to this text it would have improved the picture considerably, for although those who have never been to London and never have heard the Bow Bells cockney utterance may not be any the wiser, the effect of words such as were spoken by Mary Nash in the play and spelled according to the pronunciation would have impressed anybody much more than these careless captions. Although it must be admitted this feature did not spoil the production for the two old ladies, it did not emphasize certain situations, and therefore lost much of the impetus of the play.

George Hackathorne, as the grown soldier son who accidentally shoots his old pal, is agreeable and compelling. Perhaps some of the pathetic scenes are prolonged, and it would be more telling to cut them, but the sudden discovery of the son by the elderly mother is compelling. She learns who he is by his identity disc, which, like all soldiers in the World War, he wears on his wrist.

The part of Tom Robinson, the amusing bookmaker, is played by Alf Goulding, who does not rise to the possibilities of the character as did Victor Morley on the stage. Fanny LeClare, the chorus girl, is impersonated by Doris Lloyd, whose make-up and costume are quite effective, as is also her characterization.

In the initial scenes Polly, old and worn, is seen talking to Mr. Wendover (Marc McDermott). There is a flash-back as she relates the events in her life, not knowing that her own son is one of two British soldiers seated at a table in the café over which she presides in Havre. Mr. McDermott is quite stiff, giving nothing like the admirable performance he did in "He Who Gets Slapped."

Franke Borsage, who directed this pictorial effort, has for the most part done a creditable piece of work. You may take it from the two gray-haired old ladies that this is a photo-melodrama worth an hour and a half of any one's time.

A Pathetic Farce.

EXCUSE ME, with Norma Shearer, Conrad Nagel, Renee Adoree, Walter Hiers, Bert Roach, William V. Mong, Edith Yorke, Eugene Cameron, Fred Kelsey, Paul Weigel and Mae Wells; adapted from Rupert Hughes's play of the same name, directed by Alf Goulding, supervised by the author; overture, "Semiramide"; ballet corps with Doris Niles; "A Bit of Transplanted Russia," "Poland," a travelogue; Macquarrie Harp Ensemble and John Valentine; "Dinkie Doodle and Red Riding Hood." At the Capitol.

Rupert Hughes's stage farce, "Excuse Me," which was presented before the footlights on Broadway about fifteen years ago, has been filmed under the author's supervision and the result is to be seen at the Capitol this week. It is a wearying production in which the comedy is so forced that the laughs are lost, and in quite a number of instances the situations are little more than slapstick. There are also too many tame and superfluous titles.

There is a fat man who is intoxicated, and he is supposed to be extraordinarily funny because he puts a lighted cigarette under the mattress of his bed on a sleeping car. The man is inebriated from morning to night; he even wakes up drunk!

Conrad Nagel is the young hero, Lieutenant Harry Mallory, who is desperately in love with Marjorie Newton. From the moment Mallory treads awkwardly on a man's corns to the boarding of a cross-continental express, every kind of contretemps happens to the young couple. To make his audience laugh, Alf Goulding, who directed this production under Mr. Hughes's eyes, has a man pouring water on a woman's hat. The liquid eventually finds its way into her cup.

Mallory and Marjorie hope to get married on the train, but the minister they had seen turns his collar around and adds to the effect by putting on a weird necktie. The young couple, who are said in the last fade-out to "live scrappily ever after," have their first quarrel before they are married. Marjorie during the course of her escapades almost misses the train at one station, but she jumps on the running board and in going through the tunnel is made all sooty. When she is rescued she finds out that a former French sweetheart and her enfant terrible are monopolizing Mallory's attention. There ensues further complication of a strained and utterly impossible nature, even for a farce.

Mallory, an air hero, misses the train on another occasion and waves his arms to an airplane, which finally puts him on the limited's roof. Then there is a crash and Mallory falls with the locomotive.

The only worthy situation which is adequately worked out is when the train comes to a halt at a station where there has been a convention of clergymen. Unfortunately for the would-be married young persons, the ministers leave the train at the next junction, just as they are seen by Marjorie and Mallory.

"Excuse Me" could have been turned into a lively farce, but as it stands it is only mildly funny in a few stretches.

A SUMMER CRUISE TO THE MEDITERRANEAN

For the first time in history we are offering Summer travelers a Cruise to the Mediterranean that is the equal in every respect of the best Winter Cruises.

This Cruise Visits

Funchal	Madeira
Tangier	Morocco
Gibraltar, Granada	Spain
Algiers	Algeria
Monte Carlo, Nice	Riviera
Ragusa, Cattaro	Jugo-Slavia
Athens	Greece
Dardanelles, Bosphorus, Constantinople	Turkey
Beyrouth	Syria
Jerusalem, Haifa, Bethlehem, Jaffa	Palestine
Port Said, Cairo, Alexandria	Egypt
Naples, Pompeii, Genoa	Italy
Marseilles, Cherbourg (for Paris)	France
Southampton (for London)	England

This is the most comprehensive itinerary ever offered by any cruise to the Mediterranean (whether in Winter or in Summer).

SUMMER THE BEST TIME

Summer is not only the most convenient time of year for most travelers, but in many other respects it is the best time to visit the Mediterranean. The weather is much better than in Winter There is less rain and the various countries present a more attractive appearance. On the entire trip only at one or two points are we likely to find hot weather and the cool nights and time aboard ship always insure comfort. After all, Naples and New York are at approximately the same latitude. Arrival at Cherbourg and Southampton on August 18 permits continued travel on the Continent.

A REMARKABLE SHIP

The 20,000-ton, oil-burning "Oronsay," launched in November, 1924, is the finest ship of the great Orient Line. Designed for service from England to the Mediterranean and Australia, she has more single rooms than any ship afloat. Every stateroom used by us will be an outside room (many of the popular "Bibby" type). Not more than two passengers will occupy any room, except upon request. Membership is limited to less than the first class accommodations of the ship. "Oronsay" is the largest and finest ship ever sent on a Summer cruise to the Mediterranean.

VERY ATTRACTIVE RATES

The rates are extremely reasonable for such a comprehensive cruise—a cruise more complete in its route than any to the Mediterranean in recent years, whether sailing in summer or winter. The rates, of which $675 is the minimum, include many shore excursions—such as a two-day trip to Granada and the Alhambra, two days in Rome, four-day trip through the Holy Land, three-day trip in Egypt.

The extremely early filling of our Winter Mediterranean Cruise prompts us to urge our friends to make immediate application if it is at all probable that they will wish to join this cruise.

"BLOODY WILLIAMSON."

Williamson County, in Southern Illinois, is an old Nordic enclave, the seat of a spirited population. For forty years or more, before and after the Civil War, it practiced the vendetta. Under one name or another, Regulators, White Cappers, Night Riders, it indulged in the diversions of minding other people's business, shooting and being shot at. A lawyer who wrote the history of the feud fifty years ago reckoned among its fruits more than 1,000 grave crimes, including 285 murders. The "picturesque" character of some of its law officers is nothing new. It had a State's Attorney who used to write letters to "prominent citizens" of the county, signed "Big Pete," threatening them with death. Then he would call on these threatened men and offer to have "Big Pete"—he knew who he was—put out of the way for $5,000. He was doctor as well as lawyer, played on the fiddle and the horn, and is said to have been a very moving preacher.

Thus Williamson has a great tradition. Herrin was scarcely true to it in the mine riots of 1922. If nineteen men were killed, they were outsiders, "foreigners." There cannot have been the zest in those "executions" of outlander strikebreakers that there is in domestic assassination. Fortunately the Ku Klux Klan has filled admirably the place of its predecessors; and the Knights of the Flaming Circle became worthy rivals. Murder begins at home. Foreigners aren't worth a good killing. If there have been only thirteen murders in a little less than a year, they have all been the genuine home brew of malice domestic. Though Herrin is but a village, nobody there can suffer from ennui.

Wars of Wets and Drys; killings in garages, automobiles, the streets; the Sheriff and his deputies besieged in a hospital; county and city officers accused of murder; the Sheriff and his chief deputy going into voluntary "exile" and the Ku Klux taking charge; GLENN YOUNG, the Ku Klux chief and prohibition enforcement volunteer, breaking into private houses, assaulting men and women, carrying off officials, taking possession of the town; GLENN YOUNG shot at from ambush and his wife made blind for life; JACK SKELCHER, suspected of the attempted assassination, killed by constables, who found only "two automatic revolvers, two sawed-off shotguns and a riot gun", in his car; sporadic appearances of the State militia; "elegant" funerals for all the heroes of both sides—such is the roughest fragmentary outline of the epic of "Bloody Williamson," nobly continued last Sunday night by the slaying of GLENN YOUNG, his first lieutenant, another alleged Klansman and Deputy Sheriff ORA THOMAS—a Bret Harte gambler and head of the Knights of the Flaming Circle.

How do the movies make a living in Herrin? GLENN YOUNG seems to have always seen himself on the screen. His estimate of his killings varied from twenty-two to more than thirty. He loved trouble, was handy with his gun and not any more lawless than some Deputy Sheriffs of Williamson. YOUNG and THOMAS can well be spared. Perhaps the Mayor of Herrin, who, like the Sheriff and some other eminent citizens, was put under military arrest last Winter in connection with the murder of a constable, is too hopeful in predicting peace now that the heads of the Montagues and Capulets are gone. Feuds are transmitted from sire to son. These village broils, accentuated by the rigmarole of secret orders and romantic "oaths," seem likely to continue. Doubtless the majority of Herrin, of Williamson County people, would like to live in quiet; but town and county seem to be run by determined minorities. It would be useless for outsiders to offer any moral observations. If Williamson is to be pacified, it will have to do the job itself and wrench itself out of the clutch of tradition and heredity.

A TRIFLE LATE.

Explanations and tacit apologies come thick and fast after the recent eruption about the French debt. In Paris they point out that M. MARIN had no official status, and, moreover, did not exactly mean all that he said. M. LOUCHEUR greatly daring, denies that he ever told Colonel HARVEY that France would not pay her debt to America. On this side of the Atlantic also attempts are made to throw a little rose water on the late unhappy explosion. Senator BORAH is a great man, but, after all, he is not the Government. He is, in fact, almost always not only "agin' the Government," but against all ideas of which he cannot claim the proud paternity. Thus there is a marked and welcome softpedaling in both France and the United States. It appears to have dawned upon all concerned that the settlement will have to be left to the Governments, not to rhetoricians—especially the noisy kind. For the poultice of silence that has now been placed upon the situation we must all be grateful, though we should have been much more grateful if it had not come so late.

A similar pleasing reticence, though also belated, marks the second stage of the muddle in connection with the confirmation of Attorney General STONE to be a Judge of the Supreme Court. It is evident that all involved now feel that a great deal of suspicion and animosity was exploded prematurely. The effort will hereafter be to keep the remaining proceedings largely under cover. No one seems to doubt that Mr. STONE will ultimately be confirmed. Nor does anybody really question his firmness, courage or integrity as Attorney General. Why, then, all the pother? Why the thunder in the index if it was not to be followed up in the body of the book? It certainly is a pity that the second thoughts about the business could not have come first. Doubtless the thing will come out right in the end, but we might have been spared some of the friction and groaning in the beginning. It is easy to be wise after the event. But the acme of wisdom is to abstain from uttering folly before it is.

LABOR IN TRANSITION.

Only those who expected the Rockefeller plan of employé representation to bring the millennium will be disappointed by the Russell Sage Foundation report on its working. The triumphs of unionism are acknowledged. By advancing wages and living conditions it has, on the whole, safeguarded the efficiency of labor and enhanced its power. But its conduct during the war and in the critical times that followed cannot be forgotten. Employé representation is an effort to check the anarchic power of outside labor leaders, replacing it with orderly self-government within the industry.

That the Rockefeller plan has removed "outstanding grievances" the report freely admits. Living conditions have been improved and wages raised to the prevailing union scale. But it has not stimulated the employés' interest in the industry or developed leadership among them. The reason is evident. Men trained only in the hard school of manual labor are not mentally equipped to cope with technical and financial experts. If they were, the fact that, in the end, they depend for their daily bread upon their employers, makes equality in negotiations a practical impossibility. It is highly significant that the Rockefeller wage scale is that which has been fixed in plants effectively unionized. In a word, no plan has been reached by which those who do not own an industry, but are dependent upon its owners for their livelihood, can be effectively represented in its councils. In his comment on the report, Mr. ROCKEFELLER said that the plan only aimed to provide for an "illumination" by "publicity," so that enlightened opinion should have due influence. But, as WASHINGTON was once led to remark, influence is not government.

The unions, naturally, are opposed to employé representation. It yields them nothing in dues, yet profits fully by the gains they have achieved. But not merely the public has a just complaint; workmen themselves have a cause against outside and largely irresponsible leadership in the needless strikes it involves and the costly squabbles for place and power. It would be preferable that leaders be elected from within the industry. Many liberal employers are striving toward this end. Since the Rockefeller plan was inaugurated about one thousand companies have installed shop committees, work councils and the like, some of which have achieved interesting and promising results.

To the socialistic mind, of course, the whole problem is simple. The workers have only to possess themselves of the given industry and operate it as a Soviet. But the more thoughtful are seeking a means by which manual labor, technical direction and individual ownership can be resolved into a harmony of forces. Labor is in a process of transition to orderly and efficient freedom. To this longer view the Rockefeller report is a milestone of progress.

THE ITALIAN OUTLOOK.

In his notable survey of Italian political conditions in yesterday's TIMES Mr. JAMES was not attempting paradox when he said that popular support of MUSSOLINI has been waning for the reason that MUSSOLINI's régime has brought better business conditions in Italy. In this country an Administration does not get itself unpopular by promoting prosperity, but in this country we do not encourage prosperity by establishing a dictatorship. The only justification that can be cited for MUSSOLINI is national necessity. Italy, threatened by Communist sedition, was in a desperate plight that called for a desperate remedy. But now that the patient is well again it is natural for him to be asking whether he cannot dispense with the doctor. "Many business men," says Mr. JAMES, "welcomed his advent because it "brought the stability they desired; "but now that they have enjoyed "that stability until they have for"gotten their troubles they tend to "drift back to the old political "faiths."

MUSSOLINI's political position is firm in the sense that if it came to a showdown today there is little doubt that he could retain the upper hand. But our correspondent thinks there is no doubt that if it came to a proper referendum the vote would go against MUSSOLINI. The Dictator-Premier is tactically strong, but the strategic position is shifting against him. Since last Summer conditions in Italy cannot be called stable. If MUSSOLINI is the ordinary dictator who thinks of the future only in terms of himself, then his problem consists in holding on. But if he is sincere in regarding himself as the surgeon of a national disease, he must now be confronted with the extremely difficult task of liquidating his régime.

Should he decide to restore normal political conditions and succeed, he will have added a new title to his claim on a place in history. Many men have seized power, but few have been willing to surrender it or have known how. Concerning MUSSOLINI there is no telling. There are Italians who believe "it would be characteristic of him to resign and take joy in "reconquering his position"; not by violence but through the normal democratic method. In a popular election the Fascisti can swing from 30 to 40 per cent. of the voters—a formidable political capital in a country split up into numerous factions. By the ordinary parliamentary test MUSSOLINI has the advantage of being outnumbered 8 to 1—he has eight little political parties against him and one big, disciplined party behind him.

CONSOLIDATED CHARITIES.

Through a merging in 1923 of three related State departments there was a saving of $873,000. Also there resulted increased efficiency. But this merger was only an earnest of the administrative improvements that might be effected by extending consolidation in other duplicating activities and agencies of the State. Governor SMITH proposed certain specific transfers and mergings last year, some of which it is within the competency of the Legislature to make, while others must await constitutional amendment. But there was no considerable progress in doing what any private business would do without question or delay.

Even private charitable organizations are learning the lesson. There is a gradual movement toward getting rid of duplication and overlapping in raising funds and spending them, wastage in personal overhead and in material equipment. In Cleveland, where the fullest coordination of charities has been achieved, the common fund pledged for this year, $4,399,160, exceeded the amount asked for by nearly $25,000. This required organization and active work by thousands as well as contributions from increased numbers. There was an initial economy in the raising of funds, and a further economy in the avoidance of waste in their distribution. In New York the outstanding illustration of success in coordination is the achievement of the Jewish Federation of Charities, which Governor SMITH praised so heartily on Sunday.

The expenditures of the institutions and other agencies included in the Jewish Federation for Manhattan and the Bronx were only a million and a quarter less than the total disbursements of the State in the last fiscal year for its nineteen State agencies dealing with charities (exclusive of what is spent for the insane). It would seem that with them the same policy could be adopted, for the range and diversity of the State welfare service are much the same. As the Governor said, the State has to move more slowly, but even so it should be possible to accept the same general administrative principle in the application of State funds.

When anything goes wrong in agencies subject to so many overlapping officials, it often takes "a special investigator several months to fix any "measure of responsibility." The Governor said last year that any planning of a positive, humane and forward-looking nature is entirely impossible under existing conditions. They still exist. It is to be hoped that the Governor was not speaking too optimistically when he predicted that the Legislature would approve the consolidation measure which he proposed. Its ratification by the people, if and when it reaches them, would be certain.

UPRISINGS IN THE SUBWAY.

A remark attributed to the British Military Attaché with our army in Cuba in 1898 was to the effect that the battle of Santiago was won not by skilled generalship but by "a popular uprising" among the American troops. Such uprisings may win a war, but they cannot run a railroad. Persons who are filled with a bitter spirit of resentment and revolt cannot really take the place of a train dispatcher. Yet the habit of refusing to obey orders in the subway seems to be spreading. Everybody must sympathize with certain forms of this kind of violent protest. When the train label distinctly promises to take passengers to a certain destination without change, and then suddenly and without notice they are bundled off at an intermediate station, the excuse for anger and for resistance is obvious. Occasionally the travelers who have gloriously asserted their rights in such a case have won. But it is another story when an accident ties up transit, and the delays and confusion and even danger are made worse by the stubborn refusal of passengers to do as they are told. In such an instance, as was conclusively shown on the Interborough yesterday, the defiant assertion of personal liberty simply means a rude disregard of the safety of others.

People must not fail to distinguish between the indulgence of their private whim and the convenience and comfort of their fellows. Time was when an unterrified American citizen could refuse to get out of a street car when shunted short of its destination, and triumphantly spend the night in it in a car barn in proof of his unswerving defense of his inalienable rights. But that sort of thing on the subway is only a selfish gratification at the cost of misery to many others. It is a splendid thing to stand up for one's blood-bought liberties, but time and occasion must be consulted before it is done. Such an exhibition on a subway train is magnificent, but it does not make transit any more rapid. It is better not to vindicate one's rights as a traveler so strenuously as to prevent all the travelers from getting to their journey's end.

INCOME TAXES AND LAWS.

The Treasury's analysis of income tax payments shows that the 25 per cent. reduction in the levy resulted in a falling off in receipts of only $23,607,372. Somewhere there is a limit to the rule that tax payments increase as the rates decrease, but it has not yet been reached. That such is the belief of the Treasury appears from its warning that taxpayers are already anticipating and overpaying taxes on the incomes of 1924. Expected reductions in the payments of 1925 are mostly in the lower brackets, and on "earned" incomes. The official illustration under the law is that all incomes under $5,000 are regarded as earned, even though not the result of services. Incomes from profits or investments may enlarge the legally "earned" incomes up to $10,000, but no more. Even if a salary is over $10,000, the excess is excluded in calculating the 25 per cent. reduction allowed to incomes from "services actually rendered." Capital gains or losses are still calculated as of 1913.

That arbitrary date has slight bearing on current business other than for tax estimates, and it cannot be intended as a fixture in legislation. More of the difficulty in administering the income tax law results from the estimates of gains and losses than from any one other thing. Estimates where the property does not change hands are proverbially unreliable. Who can tell now the exact worth of any property in 1913? The Treasury advises taxpayers not to overpay. Taxpayers would be glad if the Treasury would not overcollect.

A FAMOUS WEATHER PROPHET.

Hackensack always brought DE VOE to mind, and to mention the sawmill weather prophet was to add cubits to its stature. Of the old Dutch town the Gazetteer says: "Many New York business men reside here." This was to do despite to the phenomenal ability of ANDREW JACKSON DE VOE as a business man, for he derived a large income from forecasting the weather to order, days, months and years ahead. He had never heard of WILLIAM MERLE, rector of Driby, who nearly 600 years ago kept a daily record of local weather phenomena and doubtless was held in high regard for his prognostications by farmers, picnickers and Sunday school excursionists. DE VOE did not bother with diathermancy, conductivity, coefficients of absorption, molecular friction, distribution of aqueous vapors and the rest of the lingo of the trained meteorologists. He wasn't much on pressure and density curves, nor familiar with the nephoscope and polarimeter. He was superior to science. He had notions recognized by no school, as that eclipses created storm belts, but when asked for more light he became opaque. Sun spots he denied; they were only clouds, he said, millions of miles away from the sun. He was at cross purposes with the astronomers, and particularly with weather observers in the Government service, like our own estimable SCARR. The rivals lived only a few miles apart in the Hackensack and Passaic watersheds.

"Professor" DE VOE, as he loved to be called, needed no apparatus to register the secrets of the weather. He was born weather-wise. From early childhood he could feel the rain or snow coming. He was an infant meteorological phenomenon. As he grew older he became daring in long-range prophecy, in which one success makes up for many failures. He foretold the Great Blizzard. He could have afforded to be wrong for the rest of his life, but he wasn't: now and then, in the midst of a welter of mistakes, he rightly predicted a big blow, or a flood, or an electrical convulsion. Thus he warned his neighbors of the cyclone that tore roofs off and uprooted trees in Cherry Hill, a suburb of Hackensack. When his reputation for prescience began to fade, nature came to his assistance, and he was rehabilitated. When the event floored him he simply made another forecast, of hurricane, of forty days of rain, a dry spell, or another blizzard. He understood human nature about as well as BARNUM, and the more he advertised the more in demand he was by merchants in the goloshes and raincoat business, truck farmers and organizers of picnics.

The late CHARLES A. DANA knew Mr. DE VOE's value as an entertainer and paid him two dollars apiece for weather forecasts. His charts won him notice, crude as they were, and he traveled and lectured. The intelligentsia of Hackensack refused to honor him, but the plain people understood that there was something in his weather wisdom after all, perhaps as much as there is in the Farmers' Almanac. ANDREW JACKSON DE VOE had a gift for reading the atmospheric pressures, feeling a coming storm (perhaps he suffered more or less from rheumatism), and he sometimes had great luck in guessing. If he had a secret it was the study of seasonal recurrences and averages. Nature often repeats, but sometimes she catches a De Voe napping.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Illusory and Yet a Reality.

To the great number who saw the blazing "jewel" that hung on the sun's lower edge during the culminating seconds of the eclipse it will be just a little irritating to be told, on the high authority of Professor RUSSELL of Princeton, that it was an "optical illusion." Whatever it was, the thing, being, for the public, the one wholly unexpected phenomenon connected with the great spectacle, ranked with most folk as quite the most interesting and exciting part of the display.

However, the expert's explanation of the "jewel" as merely just such an enlargement to the view of the very last or very first bit of the sun's vividly bright crescent as is to be seen whenever a bright light emanating from a very small surface is looked at, has so much plausibility that it cannot be contradicted.

Every electric light, seen at a distance, shows the same magnification into a brilliant sphere larger than the incandescent filament or rod, but these ordinary examples do not have the backing of the solar corona to give them color, and they have been seen so often that they no longer are noticed.

Anyway, an "optical illusion" always has a reality behind it, and the familiar ones, like the coming together of the parallel rails of a railway track and the apparently decreased size of objects far away, we have learned to judge not as what we see but as what they are, we know that the rails do not come together, though the eyes say so, and we do not think the remote mountain a molehill merely because a minute visual angle encloses it.

Next time, if there were to be a next time for living New Yorkers who are not far wanderers, we should see the "jewel" just as we saw it this time. Understanding it better, however, we should not get at all excited over it.

Illustrating Press "Sensations."

Those misguided and unobservant people who always are scolding the newspapers for the sort of matter with which they are said to fill their columns—crimes, disasters, divorces, and the escapades of wild boys and wilder girls—have just had a convincing proof that when occasion arises the newspapers can use and make much of happenings of another sort.

It takes a good memory to recall anything that has received more journalistic attention and space than did the passage of the moon over the sun's face. The recognition of this event as having "news value" was immediate and general. Every paper published in or anywhere near the zone of totality took up the subject days and days before the eclipse came. They assumed the existence of great and general public interest in the unusual event, they presented by the column learned explanations of it, and when the great transit occurred, the most skilful and most competent of descriptive writers were allowed to use all the space they wanted to tell the "story."

In other words, newspapers print news, when it comes, because it is news, and they are not less ready to make a "sensation" out of a rare exemplification of celestial mechanics than out of a murder case out of the ordinary. They do not attempt to rival the astronomy books in telling the usual behavior of suns and planets any more than they repeat day by day that such and such men went about their business in an orderly and virtuous manner, or praise bridges that stand stiffly up and serve safely their designed end.

But neither do the critics of the press in their conversation with their neighbors follow any other course than the one of which they complain when the newspapers follow it. They do not discuss with emotion humdrum topics, simply because there is no sin or sorrow in them; they discuss just such things as the newspapers do—whenever, that is, there have been such things in their neighborhood or circle of acquaintances.

An Important Variable Was Forgotten.

As is well known, the General Electric Company is one among the corporations of its class that maintain a corps of men eminent for scientific attainments. They are expected, indeed, to "produce results," but they are allowed to present, as "results," such additions to the sum total of human knowledge as they can make, regardless of whether or not it has immediate application to business and profits. One of the Schenectady Wise Ones, it seems, devoted several valuable hours recently to "research work" of a kind a little out of the ordinary, and reached an interesting conclusion.

The great plant has many visitors daily, and as these pass through the several departments they receive more or less attention from the men employed in them. Noticing this, that particular Wise One, who has a passion for exact statistics in relation to production costs, accumulated a lot of data and then deduced from them that every woman who visited the General Electric works in that city cost the company $500, that being the value of the work not done that would have been done if she had not come.

That, however, presumably is an "average," beloved by mathematicians, but always terribly deceptive wherever the human element is involved. The computation should have gone further, instead of ignoring a very important "variable." For it is evident that the amount of attention diverted from work by the feminine visitors would not always be the same. It would depend on—well, the better worth looking at, from any of several points of view, the visitor might be. In some cases the amount of attention would fall to an almost negligible minimum.

Somebody Was Mistaken.

What firm of New York lawyers was it whose members told the Prince of Monaco that if he would come over here his title and the fact that he is a ruling sovereign would be effectual in moving our Government to make that of Mexico validate his claim to certain oil lands in that country? They may have been right, and recent events here do lend a semblance of support to the supposition, but one must pronounce it mistaken.

The Prince of Monaco, indeed, does have some excuse for demanding official attention besides the fact that his realm consists largely of the very profitable gambling house from which his revenues largely are derived. He is a scientist of some note, especially distinguished for his able efforts to extend oceanographical knowledge.

He is a rather serious person, as an individual, and not at all a character in a comic opera or a cape and sword drama. But although he spends well a good deal of his money and a Roman Emperor said that money was odorless, yet it does not seem at all likely that either President COOLIDGE or Secretary HUGHES would bring very heavy pressure to bear on a neighbor State to serve the interests of the last of the GRIMALDIS.

The Copyright Law of England.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE NEW YORK TIMES is always so manifestly fair and willing to give both sides of a question that I feel sure you will not resent my pointing out a misconception on the part of the author of the short editorial in today's issue on the new Copyright bill. It is true that it seeks to alter the term of copyright to the lifetime of the author and fifty years after his death, which far from being "not recognized in any country" is the law in England, under which American citizens have equal rights with their British brethren. The existing term in the United States is twenty-eight years, plus an additional twenty-eight years, making fifty-six years in all. But under the existing law there is nothing to prevent any individual copyrighting any other individual's literary work, save an action in law that would put the rightful owner to unwarranted and, perhaps, enormous expense.

The existing copyright law is so slipshod that, were it not for the gentlemen's agreement between the recognised publishers in the United States and the signatories to the Berne Convention, piracy on both sides of the ocean would be rife. The only publishers who would not benefit by the new bill would be those whose income is derived by stealing the works of native or foreign authors, who, owing to the ridiculous omissions in the existing law, have been unable to obtain protection for their productions.

I had the privilege of serving on the Copyright Commission in England from 1907 to 1911 responsible for the Copyright act of the latter year, which has saved authors and publishers many millions of dollars and has been instrumental in driving the pirate out of business. G. F. SCOTSON-CLARK.

An Appeal by General Bullard.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On giving up my commission at Governors Island and on my retirement from active service, I should like to make an appeal to the people of New York for the Soldiers and Sailors Club, at Thirty-ninth Street and Madison Avenue, New York. I am told that this club may have to close unless it is more generously supported by the public. After knowing intimately of its work for four years and what it means to the lonely soldier in New York, I should deeply deplore such a necessity. I am, therefore, making this appeal through your columns for immediate financial help.

R. L. BULLARD,

New York, Jan. 26, 1925.

Eclipses and False Gods.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial you give science all the credit of freeing us from superstitious fears regarding eclipses or other signs of the heavens. Is this exactly just?

Do you think that any truly religious man, who is convinced his God is the omnipotent creator of all things, and is distinct from His creation, and is in absolute control of what He has made, is ever superstitious?

It is only your infidel and half-way believer who is afflicted with a dread that after all his God is not the master of his universe. In other words, it is the idolater, who has made himself another kind of god, who entertains these fears.

God said to Jeremiah long before any of the present day sciences came into existence: "Learn not the way of the heathen, and be not dismayed at the signs of heaven, for the heathens are dismayed at them. For they fashion for themselves stupid gods, and they are like unto them."

G. NASH MORTON.

A Lesson.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The community has seen a total eclipse of the sun. Let this be a lesson for the egotists, overestimationists, cynicists, provincial, narrow-souled, prepossessed, intolerant, jaundiced, shortsighted, besotted, superficial, conceited, positive, dogmatic, opinioned, purblind, wrong-headed and vain.

MARCEL STEINBRUGGE.

ON THE PRESENT SCORN OF FIG LEAVES.

Now, as of old, come Momus and his rout,
Filling the groves with their unhallowed din;
Too rude to hesitate, too bold to doubt,
They take for rule the wild desire within.
Of life's slow, painful gains they make a scoff,
To set her in the ribald market-place.
Love had distilled a drink divine from shame,
But they would smear his countenance with lees
And thrust him to the pit from which he came,
With what base chants, what itching ears to please!
But know, not Liberty alone to Art was given;

GEORGE MEASON WHICHER.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I had the good opportunity of watching the total eclipse from the top of Mount Beacon, which turned out to be a most excellent post of observation, due to the very extended view over the surrounding country.

Before totality several of those located on the summit (all together twenty) looked westward to catch the approach of the moon shadow; none, however, succeeded in seeing it coming. What I saw was that the Catskill Hills (the nearest of which are about twenty-five miles away from Mount Beacon) were covered by the bluish darkness, which indicated that the totality was on over there, while the whole stretch of low land between was still covered by that peculiar yellowish pallor preceding the totality.

I therefore turned immediately toward the sun, which was then pretty nearly entirely covered by the disk of the moon. At the same time I saw the three planets, of which Mercury was just visible, and immediately afterward, while the last rays of the sun were lingering on the southeast side of the moon, the corona appeared suddenly as a faint brim diametrically opposite the last sunlight. I would judge that the corona appeared about fifteen seconds before totality.

In the moment the sun was fully covered the corona, which had grown larger with the diminishing sunlight and covered at last about half the circumference of the moon, suddenly fully encircled the dark moon and shone in all its brightness.

The most impressive sight during the totality was—besides the wonderful corona—the coloring of the whole firmament. All around the horizon was a deep red tinge, fading into orange and yellow higher up. Then a sharply defined stark green band, then purple, and above that the dark, dull bluish sky.

It was a kind of rainbow effect with the difference that the green was much more distinct than the orange and yellow streaks; above it all the absolute black disk of the moon, the perfect white of the corona and the dark sky around. The contrast between the moon and the corona was an absolute black and white effect without the slightest trace of color, and my belief is that observers on the lower land who saw the corona yellowish only did so due to impurities in the lower atmosphere. In the extreme cold prevailing in the upper strata—I should imagine the temperature on top of Mount Beacon about 20 degrees Fahrenheit below zero—the air was as clear as it possibly could be.

The prominences were only visible through magnifying glasses, but the long coronal streamer on the northwest side of the moon was easily seen with the naked eye during the entire period of totality.

When the totality ended I looked for the passing of the moon shadow, and saw it as a dark curtain sweeping the landscape toward the southeast at an incredible, tremendous speed. Probably I only saw it for a second, well away from the sun. But even then this was nearly the most imposing sight of all the unusual phenomena watched. It gave, so to speak, instantaneously a clear conception of the underlying mechanical causes for the whole eclipse, why it must be so that the moon passes between the sun and the earth.

When watching the eclipse I at least forgot entirely its astronomical significance, regarding it as the magnificent, weird and beautiful sight it certainly was. But with the passing of the moon shadow it was different. Here you somehow immediately felt the celestial forces at work, speed and everything. When the sun appeared again we were all glad to see the old sun again and realized suddenly how cold it was, what we had not noticed during the important minutes of totality, and all non-professional observers started in a run down hill.

An Eclipse in Australia.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When I was a boy about 12 years old, in Sydney, N. S. W., about the year 1852—I forget the exact date—there was a total eclipse of the sun, and with my younger brother I got up before daylight and walked a few miles along a fine road to South Head, near the entrance to the harbor, where we had a splendid view of the great Pacific Ocean to the sky line and saw the sun rise in grandeur from the sea.

In a short time a dark spot appeared on the sun's disk, and gradually covering it the daylight got dimmer, until it was totally obscured and we were in dense blackness. It was most uncanny. Birds uttered queer cries, poultry went to roost, dogs howled and all animal nature seemed overawed at the strange occurrence. Gradually the impertinent moon withdrew and the glorious sun shone out in all his brilliance.

"The Diamond Ring."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you kindly permit me to contradict Dr. Russell's "explanation" of the "diamond ring" effect in the eclipse as due to an "optical illusion experienced by observers with the naked eye."

I saw this appearance twice on Saturday morning on the ground glass of my camera; first, on the lower left-hand quadrant of the sun's disk as the eclipse became total; second, on the lower right-hand quadrant as totality ceased. I did not look at the sun at all, but at its focused image as it came through a telescope magnifying twelve diameters and thence through the camera lens. The "ring" was sharply defined, the "diamond" a hazy ball about one-third the diameter of the moon, and overspreading a part of the moon's disk.

"Bailey's Beads."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While observing the eclipse in Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., which was supposed to be within the limits of totality, I noted the following phenomenon: On the southern half of the rim of the moon a regular succession of reddish scallops was visible along the rim for a short distance when the eclipse appeared to be at the height of totality. Could some astronomer tell me whether these were "Bailey's Beads"?

Artificial Eclipses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is of interest, in connection with the eclipse, that perhaps much of the phenomena is subject to experiment, and not alone observation of what is vouchsafed by the moon. It would seem that studies of the corona could be made by artificial eclipses, and that these could be caused by utilizing the fact that in a deep well it is possible to exclude atmospheric light and see the stars in daytime. Along these lines a similar effect should be obtainable with our largest telescopes; and, if so, all that would be required would be a simple arrangement for intercepting the sun's image with an obturating disc.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your general story of Saturday's eclipse you say: "Scarlet tufts of flame about the sun's rim had been predicted but were not visible to the naked eye."

Standing on the viaduct at 155th Street I distinctly saw two or three protuberances on the lower right hand side of the moon's disk, of a vivid red, contrasting strongly with the pearl gray of the corona. The color was not scarlet, but still of a decided red, not a mere tint. Regarding the eclipsed disk of the sun as a clock face, these tufts of burning hydrogen were approximately at 5 o'clock.

HOPE FOR LEAGUE SEEN BY FOSDICK

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—Friends of the League of Nations, "the greatest moral issue presented to the American people since the days of slavery," were advised yesterday by Raymond B. Fosdick of New York not to be discouraged if the fruits of President Wilson's efforts were slow in ripening.

"The League has rooted itself deep in the hearts of fifty-five nations," he said. "It took a cataclysm of war to bring the League into being; another cataclysm will be required to overthrow it."

Mr. Fosdick spoke before a luncheon of the Women's Democratic Luncheon Club in the Bellevue-Stratford.

Prior to his address yesterday, Miss Ellen Gowan Hood, President of the Women's Luncheon Democratic Club, read a letter from Mrs. Edith Bolling Wilson, widow of President Wilson, accepting the honorary membership tendered by the club last month.

As one of the accomplishments of the League, Mr. Fosdick cited the Corfu incident of 1923, when in seven days of deliberation the League brought about a modification of all seven points of Premier Mussolini's ultimatum to Greece, and thus he said, averted a repetition of the 1914 holocaust.

"Mussolini," declared Mr. Fosdick, "ran up against a force he didn't know existed—the force of international public opinion, focused through the machinery of the League of Nations. As in 1914, a brutal political murder prompted the ultimatum, but in this case the war was averted."

He reviewed the collapse of the Austrian krone and said that "Austria is coming back, and a renewed peril has been averted, due to the application of common sense." The same kind of stabilizing aid that was given to Austria is now being applied to Hungary, through negotiations at Budapest, he added.

Mr. Fosdick related past and present efforts made by the League toward stamping out the opium and white slave traffics. He told how the League "threw a sanitary cordon across Poland and completely stopped the spread of typhus," and pictured the health conferences at the Hotel Internationale at Geneva, declaring that "the United States was represented unofficially by a man who sat at the conference table almost afraid to admit that he was there."

He praised President Coolidge's advocacy of entry into the Court of International Justice, but pointed out that the Court is only one part of the machinery of the League, which presents "an opportunity for nations to gather around a table for a common discussion of common differences."

"We are living in the midst of a mighty scientific revolution, which is tying the world together in trade, commerce and understanding," said Mr. Fosdick. "No longer can the West keep from being affected by the happenings in Europe; and so there is need for a new technique wherein methods of preventing war, as well as matters of common business, can be discussed along a mutual boundary line."

GOES TO ADVISE ESTHONIA.

J. Evenol of the League Staff Will Study Country's Finances.

GENEVA, Jan. 26.—In response to an invitation from the Government of Esthonia, J. Avenol, Under-Secretary General of the League of Nations, has gone there to examine the finances of the country and give his advice on how best to perfect its economic machinery. The visit is entirely private.

League officials say that the action of Esthonia indicates the tendency of the Baltic countries to take advantage of the League's expert financial and economic machinery, which previously has been used to advantage in the reconstruction of Austria and Hungary. M. Avenol, who was distinguished for his services as a French financial expert before joining the staff of the League, was accompanied to Esthonia by a number of experts from the League's economic section.

THE PLAY

By STARK YOUNG.

Experiment at the Provincetown.

Raul ..... Walter Abel
Jeannie ..... Helen Gahagan

People who take the theatre as mere pastime will not find the new piece at the Provincetown Playhouse to their liking. "Beyond" is a modern German drama, in twenty-two scenes, in which the relation of a man and woman for a short and intense while is set forth, or rather exploded from a violent centre.

Whether the directors of the Provincetown have invested their time profitably in such an experiment remains their affair. Meanwhile they have given us a thoroughgoing example of the work of one of the younger and most powerful of the German dramatists. At this performance we may see the use of a highly modern and abbreviated method of writing, and a theme that winds itself in and out of two people's souls and in and out of the author's insistent mood. If you have a special interest in the art of the theatre, and the modern theatre in particular, you may find out at the Provincetown what you think of the progress of expressionism in drama, what you expect of its future, and what kind of acting is required if it is to have any persuasion and emotion. After that you can decide whether you feel that this manner of writing for the theatre can reveal the inmost meanings of life as we feel life today, or whether it is for the most part a mere technical fashion in technique, even more dependent than the older methods on the dramatist's imaginative genius to keep it from platitude.

One thing is clear, and that is that in the matter of settings you will see at the Provincetown as beautiful arrangements of scenes and lighting in the expressionistic style as you will be likely to see anywhere. Against the plaster dome at the back, the doors, the tall shutters, the balcony, the railing, with the stars beyond, all are rendered with subtlety and invention.

The story of "Beyond" concerns a man who has absented himself from the too strong influence of a friend. He returns, drawn by some power, to the friend's house, and there he finds the wife, for unknown to him the friend is now a married man. The woman's husband is absent at the mines. He is killed in an accident. The man takes the husband's place, the wife still loves her husband, but finds herself bound by passionate and unseen forces to this newcomer. Events happen from the invisible world, made visible through the two. For a time after scene they torture themselves and at length the man kills the thing he loves. The story stated thus conveys but little of the play, which depends very largely on its heightened lines and on the images created for the eyes by the figures and the scenes. There will be some who will find Hasenclever's tragedy striking and deep. I for one did not.

To act such a play requires an intensification of style that would demand the most expert artist in the theatre, or at least the sustained emotion of players to whom these characters are the most pressing reality. This difficulty is the heavier because of the fact that two actors have to carry the entire situation. Helen Gahagan, looking extremely beautiful somewhat after the school of Ethel Barrymore, played with a good pictorial sense, if not with much continuity or pathos. Walter Abel lacked rhythm but achieved a good subjective quality. The acting all through needed more variation in the cues. The scene before the fire proved the most successful of the twenty-two.

MARC KLAW TO BRING HIS LONDON BRIDE HERE

Marc Klaw, reports of whose marriage to Miss Blanche Harris were published yesterday, will return to this country with his bride late in the Spring, it was said yesterday by his sons, Joseph and Alonzo Klaw.

The Messrs. Klaw declared that they knew before their father had sailed for Europe on Dec. 26 that he intended to be married. The new Mrs. Klaw is variously reported as between 26 and 31 years of age. Mr. Klaw is 71. The ceremony, according to a cable received by the Klaw family, took place in London on Jan. 6.

Marc Klaw has been one of the most prominent figures in the theatrical world for many years and, with A. L. Erlanger, comprised the celebrated "syndicate," which broke up with a disagreement of the partners in 1918. Since then Mr. Klaw has devoted himself primarily to the management of his theatre in Forty-fifth Street, but has also produced a few plays. Last year's Pulitzer prize play, "Hell-Bent Fer Heaven," was one of Mr. Klaw's productions.

Mr. Klaw's wife, it is said, has never been connected with the theatre.

Philharmonic String Quartet Plays.

The Philharmonic String Quartet, drawn originally from players in its namesake orchestra and comprising Messrs. Guidi, Lichstein, Barzin and Mazzucchi, rendered public account of its second season in the only concert planned for it here at Aeolian Hall last night. The four players showed an agreeable ensemble in the quartet of Haydn, Op. 76, No. 3. They added music unfamiliar or new to many of their hearers in the "Rispetti e Strambotti" of Malipiero, given affield at Berkshire festivals, and in local concerts of living composers. Concluding their program was the quartet, Op. 70, No. 5, of Glazounov.

Daisy Jean Plays 'Cello and Sings.

Daisy Jean, a versatile musician of Belgium who has before appeared here, gave a concert in the Town Hall last night, playing 'cello classics with Arthur Loesser as piano accompanist and adding soprano songs to which she gave her own accompaniment on a harp. Miss Jean was applauded in a sonata of Boccherini and concerto of Lalo, as she evoked the charm of respective classic and romantic styles. Her songs included an air from Massenet's "Fortunio" among the French and a group in English by Barnet, Mendelssohn and Sibella.

'THE STORK' MILDLY AMUSES

New Comedy From the Hungarian Is of the Kind Called Risque.

Justin ..... Thomas MacLarnie
Adolph ..... Ralph Shirley
Heloise ..... Barbara Bennett
Lionel Depart ..... Geoffrey Kerr
Susanne ..... Katherine Alexander
Jacques Morel ..... Ferdinand Gottschalk
Duvert ..... Lee Beggs
Martin ..... Monroe Childs
Bardou ..... Sam Colt
Margot ..... Wanda Lyon
Theophile Surat ..... Morgan Wallace
Adrienne ..... Mildred Brown
Fanny ..... Carlotta Irwin
The Bandmaster ..... Eugene Keith

"The Stork," presented at the Cort Theatre last night, contains a rather promising farcical idea. Unfortunately, however, it has been developed along the lines of social comedy, with occasional forays into satire. The necessity for situation has been largely overlooked, and the result is a play which, relying too largely upon its original idea, is repetitious, and hence generally dull.

The new piece, however, has its amusing moments and is capable of rousing not a little sophisticated laughter. It is perhaps fair to assume that most of the amusing material has been inserted by Ben Hecht, who made the adaptation from a Hungarian original. This, at all events, is the assumption of one who knows a good deal about Mr. Hecht and nothing at all about Laszlo Fodor, who wrote the original play.

The central situation of "The Stork" has to do with a young man who is plunged, suddenly plunged, into national politics on his wedding night, and who thereupon finds himself compelled to give his time more and more to affairs of State, to the consequent neglect of his bride. To create an emergency sufficiently compelling to draw the young man away, the playwright has been required to elevate him precipitously to the Premiership of France—not altogether a convincing turn, but one which would have been admissible in a play of rapid movement and farcical situation.

The first and third acts of the play have some amusing moments; the second act, which repeats the situation of the first, contains less to buoy it up. In its central roles the play misuses the talents of two capable players. Geoffrey Kerr is ever too English to suggest the distinctly Continental youth drawn by the playwrights, and the promising Katherine Alexander is likewise required to move in a sphere that is not hers. One is constantly aware in the course of her performance that she is a good actress, but there is an equally persistent realization that she is miscast in this play.

Ferdinand Gottschalk is successful in suggesting, to one who has never seen one, just what an ex-premier of France should look like, and Wanda Lyon extracts the maximum from the rôle of a worldly young woman. There is a good performance, too, by Morgan Wallace.

Perhaps there should be a word of warning to the general playgoer to the effect that the play is of the kind called risqué. If that fact has been almost forgotten in the course of writing this review it has been primarily because the play tries a little too hard to be naughty to succeed in its mission of shocking.

'HELL'S BELLS' STAGEY PLAY

HELL'S BELLS! a comedy in three acts by Barry Conners. At Wallack's Theatre.

Mrs. Bullock ..... Olive May
Nan Winchester ..... Shirley Booth
Jimmy Todhunter ..... Humphrey Bogart
"Jap" Stillson ..... Tom H. Walsh
D. O. O'Donnell ..... Eddie Garvie
Horace E. Pitkins ..... Joseph Greene
Mrs. Amos Todhunter ..... Camilla Crume
Abigail Stillson ..... Virginia Howell
Gladys Todhunter ..... Violet Dunn
Chief of Police Pitkins ..... Ernest Pollock
Dr. Bushell ..... Fletcher Harvey
Halligan ..... James Cherry
Swartz ..... Clifton Self
Riordon ..... Converse Tyler
Mahoney ..... George Spelvin

A painfully synthetic comedy called "Hell's Bells" came to Wallack's Theatre last night. It must be recorded, nevertheless, that it was the pleasure of many in the first-night audience to laugh loudly and frequently.

Barry Conners, the author, has chosen to present the plight of two middle-aged adventurers of the kind generally known as lovable, who have created in the little town they have happened to strike the faulty impression that they are persons of extreme wealth. The town is the birthplace of one of the wanderers and the home of two unsympathetic sisters whom he has every reason to despise. The merry complications that ensue through the sudden change of heart that comes over the sisters when they are brought to believe that their brother is a millionaire and other circumstances, can be imagined, and are much funnier in the imagination, to be sure, than in the substance Mr. Conners has given them.

The piece is of the stage stagey. Its situations are artificial and thus completely in key with its language and its characters. Eddie Garvie and Joseph Greene, as the cliched vagabonds aforementioned, managed to extract a little comedy from some vigorous histrionism combined with decidedly unpersonal appearances. In addition, Humphrey Bogart, Shirley Booth and Olive May did their best with stock roles.

PEASANT ORCHESTRA'S TOUR

Poland Authorizes American Visit of Fifty Shepherd Players.

Poland's unique musical organization, the Peasant Orchestra, founded by the Namyslawskia, father and son, with fifty players who began life as shepherds farm hands and dairymen, is to sail from Danzig on Feb. 7 for an American tour. The Polish Government has authorized its visit and Dr. Stefan Grotowski, Consul General in New York, has formed a reception committee, aided by Ladislaw Benda, Sigismund Stojowski and Adamo Didur.

S. Hurok, who will book the tour, has arranged with Joseph Kresse and the local Polish colony for a gala welcome at the Metropolitan Opera House on Washington's Birthday. The Peasant Orchestra will then visit twenty-five cities, from Boston to Washington, St. Louis, Chicago and Milwaukee, in which are similar groups of their former compatriots and colinguists.

Hatcher Hughes Not Play's Author.

Hatcher Hughes, author of "Hell Bent fer Heaven," yesterday corrected the statement made in THE TIMES that he is the author of the play tentatively called "Damanigger," which Richard Herndon will produce. Mr. Hughes revised the play; the original author is James Faller. The play will be offered at the Cort Theatre for matinees, beginning Tuesday, Feb. 10.

"Ritz Revue" to Winter Garden.

With "Big Boy" temporarily closed because of the illness of Al Jolson, "Hassard Short's Ritz Revue" will come to the Winter Garden next Monday night for a single week. It is hoped that Mr. Jolson, who has gone to Florida to recuperate from a cold, will be able to resume performances on the following Monday, Feb. 16.

EDWARD GOODMAN AGAIN A PRODUCER

Edward Goodman, director of the Washington Square Players, out of which sprang the Theatre Guild, will re-enter the producing ranks immediately as the head of a new organization to be known as the Stagers. Mr. Goodman has leased the Fifty-second Street Theatre, just west of Eighth Avenue, and will offer his first production in four or five weeks. With the start of the season five productions will be offered each year.

The Stagers hope to maintain a permanent resident company, and for this purpose have already assembled Margaret Wycherly, Mary Kennedy, Whitford Kane and J. M. Kerrigan. It is probable that all of these players will take part in the opening production, the nature of which will be decided within a few days.

On the play-reading committee of the new organization will be Deems Taylor, Don Marquis, Geoffrey Parsons, Ruth Hale, Edna Kenton and Antoinette Perry. Both foreign and American plays will be presented.

THE GIRL
All of her dreams—the dreams of youth—
These made bitter by tawdry truth,
Golden thoughts in her shapely head;
Around her, Life and tasteless bread.
Drab things, gray things, met her eyes.
But she lifted her head and saw the sky.
She built herself a castle in Spain,

BIDDING FOR MINK KEEN AT FUR SALE

DAY'S RECEIPTS $235,000

Skunk and Otter in Demand—Skins to Be Disposed Of Expected to Bring $3,500,000.

Bidding for mink, especially the finer Eastern Canadian skins, marked the opening yesterday of the $3,500,000 auction of raw furs offered by Frederick Huth & Co. in the grand ballroom of the Hotel McAlpin. Mink pelts from the Province of Quebec were said to have brought out particularly strong competition. The best mink brought $25 each, and the entire collection brought prices averaging from 10 to 20 per cent. higher than at the Huth sale here last Fall.

Between 200 and 300 buyers and onlookers from the principal fur markets of this country and Canada were present when General Manager W. H. Bennet, the auctioneer, put up the first lot of the 33,092 skunk pelts. Buyers from Leipsic and Paris also were in attendance and were active bidders for skunk. The highest price paid for skunk was $4. Civet cat, which followed, did fairly well, but the demand for mole was uneven. Top for mole was 20 cents, paid for choice Scotch skins.

A collection of more than 30,000 ermine moved well, and some of the finer skins brought good prices. The choicer ones brought up to $3.35 each.

The first complete collection sold at the afternoon session was otter, of which 870 were offered. Bidding for these skins was more active than had been generally expected. The best brought the highest price of the day, $66, and the average prices were 40 per cent. above the levels of the Fall sale. Fine Eastern Canadian skins brought the $66 bid.

Japanese, baum and stone marten followed the otter and met with varying demand. Japanese marten, the best of which fetched $12.75, was generally higher than last Fall. The same was true of baum marten, which reached a top of $24. The best price for stone marten was $18.50.

The collection of Canadian marten, which was scheduled for yesterday, was not reached, but despite this the day's sales total brought $235,000. Marten will be the first thing to go on the block this morning.

	Highest Price.	Advance. (P. C.)
Skunk	$4.00	15
Civet cat	1.25	*
Mole	.20	10
Ermine	3.35	30
Mink	25.00	†10
Otter	66.00	40
Marten, Japanese	12.75	15
Marten, baum	24.00	15
Marten, stone	18.50	Unch'd

*No comparison. †This advance was on Alaskan mink. Other mink showed these advances: Ontario, 20 per cent.; Louisiana, 10, and Central, 10.

After the marten are sold, today's sessions will be given over entirely to the sale of fox skins, including 8,444 Australian, 2,898 gray, 2,281 kitt, 22,826 red, 14,717 sundry and 470 silver. The collection of red fox pelts, one of the "bright spots" of the entire sale, is expected to be the most actively sought by buyers.

To Show Children's Garments.

The newest things in children's garments, ranging from infants' clothing to apparel for juniors, will be displayed at the second fashion show and dinner of the United Infants', Children's and Junior Wear League of America. The show is to be held at the Hotel Astor on the evening of Feb. 10, and, according to an announcement made by league executives yesterday, more than a hundred makers of the merchandise in question will take part. Children will act as manikins, and the show will be conducted along the lines laid down at the one held last Summer. A large stage, with a U-shaped runway leading from it and back, will be used for the display. Practically all kinds of apparel for infants and children will be shown.

Hosiery Colors Taking Well.

Announcement was made yesterday by Onyx Hosiery, Inc., that it had adopted the standard hosiery shades selected jointly by the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers and the Textile Color Card Association of the United States, Inc. This concern is the third large distributor of hosiery to adopt the sixty-six colors selected by the two associations, the other two being the Gotham Silk Hosiery Company, Inc., and the Brown, Durrell Company. Officials of the hosiery association are enthusiastic about the way the standard colors are being received by the industry, and assert that the adoption of these shades by other well-known concerns will probably be announced in the near future.

Gray Goods Continue Quiet.

The week opened quietly in the local gray goods market yesterday. Some spot printcloth sales of 38½-inch 64-60s were made at 9¼ cents, and 39-inch 68-72s sold for similar shipment at 10⅝ cents. Trading in the latter construction for March delivery was reported at 10⅝ cents. Near-by shipments of 38½-inch 60-48s were sold at 8¼ cents. Sheetings continued dull, with prices for lightweights based on 8 cents for 36-inch 5.50s and 7¼ cents for 6.15s of the same width. A few spot sales of 72-80 pajama checks were made at 10⅜ cents.

Popularity of Suspender Skirt.

With the arrival of more buyers in the market here a further growth of interest in the "suspender" skirt for Spring is noted. Until recently the large local stores gave most attention to the skirt, but during the last week or so out-of-town buyers have begun to take it up with a degree of enthusiasm. Wholesalers figure on the style as one of the sure leaders for the youthful trade, for the early season at any rate. Its popularity is also expected to have a favorable effect on blouse sales to the young girl. The skirts are being shown in a large variety of flannels, hairline stripes, plaids and novelty patterned fabrics.

Retailers to Make Early Start.

Retailers are planning an early start of their Spring ready-to-wear showings to consumers, according to information in the wholesale trade. A prime reason is the fact that Easter comes earlier this year than last, which shortens the retail selling period by a week or more. This situation, it is figured, will mean a concentration of wholesale buying over the next few weeks. It is also considered to have the makings of another "double" season in the selling after Easter, for which period many of the wholesalers will make up special garments in line with the movement for a distinct Summer season.

Glove Orders Take Spurt.

Orders for Spring gloves have shown a substantial increase lately, according to manufacturers here. The buying covers both suede fabric and silk gloves, with the short glove having a novelty French cuff stressed from a style standpoint. In colors the sands and grays stand out prominently. The suede fabric gloves are said to be in strongest request from a volume standpoint, but, with the progress of the season toward Easter, the demand for the silk merchandise is looked upon to show a marked gain.

Progress of Stout Wear.

In a number of instances, stout wear firms find their orders for Spring are larger than last year at this time. Wholesalers comment on the increase as reflecting the growing concentration of consumer demand. A greater number of women are being satisfied in the retail stores, according to this version, who formerly had to go to dressmakers for their garments. The attention given to the proper sizes of garments for "short stouts" is also a beneficial factor. The ensemble is a feature of the Spring stout wear lines and is said to be meeting with favor.

Spring Buying Gains Momentum.

The Spring ready-to-wear season is now entering its most active stages from a buying standpoint. This week and the two to follow are likely to mark the peak of the present buying movement, with almost all retailers represented in the activity here. With the larger number of buyers the purchasing has tended to be distributed over more of the wholesale firms, with the result that the trade as a whole is getting a "good line" on the way the season will probably develop. Buyers are said to be somewhat cautious as yet in committing themselves heavily on the ensemble. The wholesalers, so far, are prone to regard this as only a passing development, asserting that there is practically no doubt that the ensemble will go over well with the consumer.

Offers New Educational Toy.

Among the new educational toys to make their début at the National Toy Fair, which will be held in the Bush Terminal Sales Building here, beginning on next Monday, will be a set from which can be made several useful articles. These include simple and compound microscopes, telescope, kaleidoscope and tele-kaleidoscope, magnifying glass and a "quizzing" glass on the order of a lorgnette. For use out of doors there may also be made a simple form of camera and a photometer for gauging the heights of trees, hills, &c. This feature is expected to make a particular appeal to Boy Scouts. The set, which can be used by children of six years of age and up, includes a number of lenses of varying power, and these play important parts in constructing the different articles. A book of directions explains their construction in great detail. The sets sell to the retail trade at $36 a dozen.

Men's Shoes Moving Well.

Quite a good business is being done here in the better grades of men's shoes for delivery this side of March 15. Later deliveries are also selling, but the retailers seem especially anxious to get "at once" goods with which to fill up the gaps in stocks that have resulted from improved consumer buying. Most of the shoes wanted are of the oxford variety, with the greater call for the lighter, custom effects. Shoes of the so-called collegiate type are not being overlooked, but they seem to be doing best in the more medium-priced lines. The trend in the more expensive footwear is almost entirely toward simplicity in the line and trim. In many cases the Spring business booked to date shows an appreciable gain, in pairs, over that on the books a year ago at this time.

MAY DEDUCT BONUS IN NEW TAX RETURN

Payments to Employes, However, Must Be Compensation for Services Actually Rendered.

PENSIONS IN SAME CLASS

Business Expenditures When They Become Capital Assets Are Subject to Levy.

Bonuses and pensions paid to employes and business expenditures and purchases for use in professions or trades were the features of the new income tax regulations explained yesterday by a statement issued by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Income tax returns for last year may be filed now. The statement follows:

"Bonuses to employes constitute allowable deductions from gross income when such payments are made in good faith as additional compensation for services actually rendered, provided that when added to the stipulated salaries they do not exceed a reasonable compensation. Donations or gifts to employes which do not have in them the element of compensation or are in excess of reasonable compensation for services are not deductible from gross income.

"Pensions paid retired employes, or their families or others dependent upon them, or on account of injuries received by employes, and lump-sum amounts paid or accrued as compensation for injuries are proper deductions as ordinary and necessary business expenses. Such deductions are limited to the amount not compensated for by insurance or otherwise. No deductions are allowed for contributions to a pension fund held by the corporation, the amount deductible being the actual amount paid to employe.

"When the amount of salary of an officer or employe is paid for a limited period after his death to his widow or heirs in recognition of the services rendered by the officer or employe, such payments may be deducted. Salaries paid employes who are absent in the military, naval, or other service of the Government, but who intend to return at the conclusion of such services, are allowable deductions.

"Donations or gifts to employes which do not have in them the element of compensation for services rendered may not be deducted by the employer, and need not be included in the return of the recipient.

"Business expenditures are not always business expenses within the meaning of the income tax law. For example, a merchant may build an addition to his warehouse at a cost of $100,000. This is a capital expenditure for an addition to his assets. Capital expenditures are not deductible. Distinction is made between expenditures for an asset and expenditures in connection with an asset. If the merchant during the year should spend $500 for repairs to his warehouse, such as painting the roof or replacing broken windows, he may deduct such amount from gross income as a business expense, provided his plant or property account is not increased by this amount.

"Medical, law or other professional books, machinery, tools, implements, or surgical instruments purchased by a taxpayer for his use in his business, trade or profession and which are of a permanent character are capital assets, and their cost is not allowable as a deduction. A farmer may not deduct the cost of a threshing machine or tractor, these being capital expenditures, but is allowed to deduct the cost of hoes, rakes, and small tools which are used up in the course of a year or two in farming operations.

"The purchase price of an automobile, even when used wholly for business or professional purposes, is not deductible, but is regarded as an investment of capital. The cost of gasoline, repairs and upkeep of an automobile is deductible if used wholly in business. If used partly for business and partly for the pleasure or convenience of the taxpayer or his family, such cost may be apportioned. Only the proportion of such cost attributable to business purposes is deductible as a necessary expense."

COLORADO FUEL & IRON SUPPORTS PEACE PLAN

Employes' representation in the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, as approved by John D. Rockefeller Jr., which was criticized in some respects in a preliminary report of the Russell Sage Foundation, produced unbroken industrial peace after it was introduced by the company in 1915, according to A. H. Lichty, Vice President, who telegraphed a statement from Denver yesterday to the American Management Association. Agreeing that there was room for improvement after experience, he said that for more than five years every question between the employes and the company management had been "adjusted by peaceful methods to the general satisfaction of all concerned."

The statement spoke of new and sometimes difficult problems arising from time to time and added, "we have found that none of them is impossible of solution. We are greatly encouraged by the progress made. We have steadily growing confidence in the underlying principles of our plan; we believe they face in the right direction and that the future of joint representation is one of large promise for all concerned."

Since the plan was put into effect only one important case had been carried to the State Industrial Commission, a wage adjustment negotiated between employes and the management, he said, "and the commission, after careful investigation, approved the decision that was first proposed within our organization."

Saying that, more and more, the questions arising between the employes and the local management were being "adjusted at the source," Mr. Lichty continued:

"Rather than have a highly centralized industrial relations department, we believe that responsibility for the carrying out of the purposes of joint representation should be recognized as a legitimate part of the regular duties of every operating official, from the President of the company out to the least important straw boss.

"Management has the responsibility for taking the initiative in developing increasingly right relations within its organization. When this is done, almost invariably a very satisfactory response will come from the employes. The right thing persistently done in the right spirit will sooner or later bring the desired results."

But Federal Board Says Purchase Has No Relation to British Gold Standard.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The Federal Reserve Board has been sanctioning the purchase of sterling and franc bills in the open market by Federal Reserve banks for some time. No formal action has been taken, it is understood, in approval of this step, and none is now contemplated. The view is held that the law under which the board operates grants the necessary authority. Some criticism, it is said, has appeared because such paper has not been purchased to a greater extent.

Sterling bills have been bought for several years. In the early Fall of last year $300,000 or $400,000 was invested in this way. British, French and Dutch paper is understood to have been included in the purchase.

It is explained that such action has no relation to the pound sterling or a general scheme for enabling Great Britain to return to the gold standard.

Until Great Britain has formally declared itself on a gold basis and the pound sterling has been returned to par it was believed yesterday by New York bankers that the Federal Reserve banks would not purchase sterling bills as an investment. A report from Washington that the Federal Reserve Board had approved of such investment caused much conjecture among bankers. Officers of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, beyond stating that no order to that effect had been received, would not discuss the report.

Private banking interests have been fairly heavy buyers of sterling bills, and their purchases in the last four months have helped to hasten sterling's advance toward par. In most instances purchases made by the larger banks have been hedged through the medium of selling forward orders of sterling.

Sterling bills are not eligible for rediscount at the Federal Reserve banks unless endorsed by member banks, thus insuring the central banking institutions against loss. Only in those instances where the Reserve banks have been guaranteed against loss through the possible decline of sterling have they been authorized to purchase sterling bills.

With England on a gold basis, it was said yesterday, there would be nothing in the way of such an operation. Purchase of sterling bills would be considered equally as solid an investment as the purchase of dollar bills.

Three awards carrying cash prizes of $1,000 each and a certificate were made for distinguished individual advertisements.

For the advertisement most effective in its use of English an award was made to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company with recognition to Robert Lynn Cox, Second Vice President, and to the Hawley Advertisement Company, for an advertisement titled "100 Years to a Day."

For the advertisement most effectively accomplishing its purpose in a few words with or without illustration, the award was made to L. Hayward Bartlett of the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, for an advertisement titled "Keep a Kodak Story of the Children," one of a series in which Frank Seaman, Inc., assisted.

For the advertisement most effective in its use of pictorial illustration in any form, the award was made to Emma Perham Proetz of The Gardner Advertising Company of St. Louis for an advertisement of Pet Milk titled "Take Baby and Go."

Two prizes of $1,500 each and certificates were awarded for scientific research in advertising. One went to the J. ONLY REAL RESULTS

The only real results I have had through advertising during the past year have been from the Real Estate columns of The New York Times. I have tried other daily newspapers and magazines with very indifferent results. Inquirers visiting my office almost invariably have with them clippings from The Times. Evidently the reading public scans the pages of The Times with faith in its ability to supply their wants in the best and quickest manner.

Fine FURNITURE Is the Most Important Thing You Buy

Your furniture dollar—wisely spent—gives more pleasure for a longer time than any other dollar. Clothes wear out, automobiles trade in, travel fades away, but all your life old furniture stares you in the face, morning, noon and night. And when you finally escape it descends on your children.

Come get the BEST at Wanamaker's $2,000,000 February Furniture Sale

Remember always it is regular Wanamaker stock, beautifully designed, honestly manufactured. Remember then that the Red-and-Black Sale tag lowers every price from 10 to 50 per cent. Remember that this special tag is attached to every piece of furniture in stock, including the famous Belmaison museum reproductions

Why take chances with "sale" furniture, or even ordinary store furniture, when you can get regular Wanamaker furniture at February Sale price?

Don't be dazzled by varnish

All furniture looks alike in pictures; and sounds alike in advertisements. More interested in competition that reputation, some establishment may, now and then, quote lower prices on furniture that looks like Wanamaker Furniture. Compare the furniture before you buy. And remember that the store behind the offer is the only thing that makes any price worth considering.

See the Little Home that Budget Built

Nine rooms, from sunroom to clever kitchen, small and dainty, fitted out with new and interesting ideas for decorations and uses for furniture. Bring in your problems—your blue prints—your sketches—and have experts help you work them out. Don't waste time on uninteresting furniture, nor money on ordinary furniture. Come to Wanamaker's for the romance of furniture!

And Now—An Entirely New Sale of

Women's Fur-trimmed Coats

$98 to $135 grades.... $68

NEW FABRICS—NEW FURS taken fresh from the shelves of a leading New York coat maker. It's inventory time and time for his new Spring collection and he found himself with a large stock of winter woolens and furs. He offered to make them up into our own selection of models at a great sacrifice in price if we would accept the entire collection. We did.

English Windsor Chairs

AT FEBRUARY SAVINGS

Belmaison has an unusually interesting group of English Windsor chairs of the attractive early Georgian type, with pierced splats introduced in the backs between the spindles, and including, of course, the especially decorative wheel-back Windsor. All of them now lowered in price for the duration of the February Furniture Sale.

What makes these chairs so desirable is the fact that they have, to such an extraordinary degree, the pleasant, homely character of the old ones, both in their lines and in the tone of the wood. Many in fact are made, just as the originals were, of such combinations of woods as elm and yew. Others are of oak. And, of course, their great adaptability to different rooms and types of interiors is much in their favor.

Wheelback Windsor side chair, regular price, $35—now $30.
Wheelback Windsor arm chair, regular price, $35—now $30.
Windsor splat back arm chair, regular price, $50—now $40.

OVERCOATS & ULSTERS

Of Crombie & Blenkhorn Richardson British Fabrics, $75 to $95 Grades

You know the famous Crombie and Blenkhorn Richardson fabrics. Everyone knows them. They're the finest fabrics that come out of Britain to go into coats for well-dressed American men. Thick. Soft. Amazingly durable. Light. And luxuriously warm.

We picked them up at an amazing price because an importer wished to clear his shelves for inventory.

Had them made up by one of our leading manufacturers, who is also one of the first coatmakers in America. Had them designed to carry the style impress of London. The quality impress of Wanamaker's London-New York clothes. They are lined, to quote but one instance, with the best grade of Satin lining. And they will go out today—your choice of the entire group—as the lowest price for which we have ever seen or offered overcoats of such beauty, style and fabric.

Come early if possible. All sizes for all men are in the group—34 to 46.

Dr. Manning Calls 600 Workers to "Council of War" to Speed Up Campaign.

MANY SACRIFICE TO GIVE

Girl Foregoes Movie—Man Sends Ten Days' Pay—Scrubwomen Pledge $200.

Plans for the cooperation of union labor in completing the Cathedral of St. John the Divine will be disclosed today at a conference between Bishop William T. Manning and the Executive Committee of the Building Trades Council. The Bishop has accepted an invitation to appear before the labor men in their meeting room at 67 Lexington Avenue at 11 o'clock this morning and to make an address on the Cathedral campaign.

Bishop Manning is expected to discuss with the labor representatives the amount of money they shall subscribe to the fund and the purpose for which their gift shall be used. Like other contributions from community groups, the money given by labor is expected to be used for the building of some designated part of the Cathedral which will be known as a memorial to labor. Gordon J. Young of the Granite Cutters' Unions is Chairman of a labor committee which is soliciting contributions for the Cathedral.

Bishop Calls Council.

The Bishop issued a call yesterday for a special "council of war," which will assemble in the Synod House, 110th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Invitations were sent to 500 members of the clergy of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York and to the same number of parish Chairmen. They will discuss plans for "speeding up" the campaign within the Church itself. Bishop Manning desires to have a 100 per cent. record for every parish in the diocese—that is, to get a contribution from every member of every parish.

Chairmen of various parish committees reported new contributions of $96,-167.16 yesterday, making the total so far $5,140,600.43. This total includes only the money actually given and pledged, and does not include the amount, computed by Bishop Manning at between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000, which various community committees have accepted as their quotas.

The largest individual gifts reported yesterday were $5,000 each from Mrs. William L. Harkness, a member of the Church of the Resurrection, and from the Rev. Ernest M. Stires, rector of St. Thomas's Church. Dr. Stires will deliver a radio speech for the Cathedral at 9:45 o'clock tonight from Station WJZ.

In memory of the Rev. Peter Williams, the first colored rector ordained in the Diocese of New York, the committee for Holy Church, Harlem, pledged $5,000 to the fund.

Girl Foregoes Movie to Give.

The Rev. T. J. Williams of St. Luke's Chapel, in downtown Manhattan, reported the case of a little girl in his parish who had given up a chance to see "Peter Pan" in the movies to contribute to the Cathedral.

"This little girl," said Mr. Williams, "lives down near the docks, on Caroline Street. She is a very poor child, but wished very much to have $5 in her Sunday school mite box to help build the children's arch in the Cathedral and have her name in the golden book. So when the rest of her club went to see 'Peter Pan' she stayed at home, and gave the 55 cents which it cost in order to bring the amount in her box up to $5."

"Another case," Mr. Williams went on, "was that of a woman, a janitress in a tenement house, who had very little to give, but who prayed very hard that she might be able to do something to help build the Cathedral. In answer to her prayers twenty families in the house, all members of the Roman Catholic Church, left under her door $16 as their contribution to the Cathedral.

Mr. Williams also reported the receipt of a letter from the captain of a group of Girl Scouts enclosing a gift of $2 from the girls in her group.

This was matched by Stuyvesant Wainwright, Parish Chairman for the Church of St. John the Evangelist, who reported a contribution of $15 from the Boy Scouts.

A representative of St. Paul's Chapel said that an Italian newsboy, who is a Roman Catholic, had given $20, and that a very poor woman had given $1, saying that she was very glad to give even such a small sum.

To Pay 25 Cents a Week.

Howard R. Bayne, Parish Chairman for Christ Church, New Brighton, Staten Island, said that another very poor woman had pledged $12, which she is to pay in instalments of 25 cents each. Mr. Bayne also reported a gift of 25 cents, sent from West Virginia by a family in New Brighton.

The Rev. Caleb R. Stetson, rector of Trinity Church, reported a subscription of $200 by a church guild of women who scrub the floors of Manhattan office buildings.

"These scrubwomen, all living down around Fulton and Washington Streets," said Dr. Stetson, "are very poor people. We thought the best way to get their interest in this great enterprise was to get them to subscribe as a guild. They held a meeting last week, and one of our committee told them he hoped to get $100 from them, which really would be a very large sum. However, the women were quite indignant and insisted on making it $200.

"So they have pledged themselves to give $200. These women, let me repeat, are all very poor and live down in the lower parts of the town. They are old women, loyal to the Church, and want to do their part for the Cathedral."

Dorothea Benson, a stenographer, who is a member of the Trinity Parish, sent a contribution of $25 several days ago to Dr. John B. Walker, the parish Chairman, with a note. He showed the note and the contribution to two well-to-do men, who immediately gave $1,000 and $500, respectively.

Sends Ten Nights' Pay.

The Rev. Canon H. Adye Prichard, Acting Dean of the Cathedral, announced the receipt of a letter from William Leslie, night supervisor of the New York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, inclosing a contribution of $15, representing ten nights' pay. His letter read as follows:

"I am overjoyed to learn from the daily papers of the wonderful success being accomplished in the campaign for completing the Cathedral, and I regret exceedingly that my present position prevents me from being of real help in such a worthy cause. I am just a very poor man, at present employed as night supervisor at the above-named institution.

"I beg to enclose $15 toward the fund, and I sincerely wish it could be many times that amount, but I know that you are aware of the fact that institutions of this kind pay very small salaries, and the amount enclosed represents ten nights' pay."

"I wish to congratulate Bishop Manning, yourself and all those who are assisting in this great drive, upon the success of your labors, and I trust that the good work may continue until the final goal is attained."

Canon Prichard also received a contribution of $1 from a Christian Scientist yesterday. Another gift sent to the Canon was $15 from a Catholic, evoked by the recent attack by America, the Jesuits' official organ, on Catholics who contribute to the fund.

The Rev. Clifford Woodworth French, rector of St. Gabriel's Church, Hollis, Queens, which is outside the Diocese of New York, said that he was taking special interest in the campaign because he was the second man ordained in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Women in his parish, he announced, had voted to raise $100 for the fund.

Calls for Renewed Efforts.

Bishop Manning, who spoke at the Hotel Astor meeting, was applauded when he repeated the announcement he had made in the Cathedral on Sunday—that in addition to the more than $5,000,000 actually given and pledged, between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 had been accepted as quotas by committees representing business and other interests outside the Church. The amount needed is $15,000,000.

"So then," he went on, "we may say that we have $5,000,000 definitely pledged, and between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000 in sight, which means that we have only about $6,000,000 left to raise."

Bishop Manning urged the church members to make this "the great crucial week in our campaign." He told them to go out confident they would carry the drive to success, and to "take the trail for gifts of $500 and $1,000 and the larger ones," in addition to "all those nobler smaller gifts that are coming in." He said that "every force in the city seems to be working with us," and urged all the church people to put their "whole hearts and strength into it."

The Bishop was applauded again when he said, referring to the extension of the campaign beyond Jan. 30 to allow the church committees more time to canvass their neighborhoods, that he had only just got started.

"I am just getting warmed up to it," he added.

Bishop Manning said that the campaign would continue as long as "necessity seems to require, but we want to do it as quickly as possible."

"The newspapers and the general public," he said, "have paid this Church a high compliment, though they had not gone beyond what the Church deserves. It is taken for granted on every side that when this canvass is completed the money for the Cathedral will have been assembled. This is the challenge, and we all know it can be done, but it means twenty-four hours a day every day until the end."

Each New Yorker Gives $1.67 A Year to Local Charities

Each New Yorker contributes to local welfare work annually an average of $1.67. This estimate is obtained from the financial reports of 414 leading private welfare organizations in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx. The survey was made by the Bureau of Advice and Information of the Charity Organization Society for 1923, in connection with a plan to bring about better co-ordination among the charitable activities of the city.

The bureau points out that, although the expenditures of the 414 private agencies were $38,814,435.67, only a little more than $13,000,000 represented voluntary contributions. This means an average yearly per capita gift to charity of about $1.67. The remaining millions came from interest on investments, fees paid by clients and appropriations from city departments for the care of public charges.

The investigation, the bureau reports, shows that much money is given to charity in hit-or-miss fashion and too frequently misses. Indiscriminate giving is encouraging frauds at the same time that it is crippling legitimate organizations.

GAVE HUSH MONEY, SAYS PEGGY JOYCE

TEX RICKARD PAID $250

Then, He Testified, Attacks Ceased and He Was Lauded as Rickard the Great.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce and Tex Rickard both testified to payments of money to Broadway Brevities to avoid further uncomplimentary references to them in that publication at the trial yesterday of Stephen G. Clow, its publisher, and three of his advertising solicitors. The defendants are on trial before Judge Julian W. Mack and a jury in the United States District Court. They are accused of using the mails to defraud. The Government reserved its two star witnesses for the last and, at the conclusion of Rickard's cross-examination, Assistant District Attorney Maxwell Mattuck announced that the prosecution rested.

Peggy Joyce told the jury she had paid $200 to Brevities for the reproduction of her picture and that the payment was made with an express understanding with Clow that he would discontinue all slighting comments about her, which she testified had appeared from time to time. Mr. Mattuck then offered in evidence an unusual document, which Peggy Joyce said was a receipt for the money and had been given to her by a "D. J. Thomas," who, she understood, was Clow's secretary. It read:

"Received of Miss Peggy Joyce the sum of $200, same to be used for advertising. Miss Joyce is hereby guaranteed that articles are not to be used derogatory to her without her written permission."

"Fired" Because He Gave Receipt.

Shortly after she made the payment, Miss Joyce said, A. B. Brown, one of the defendants, appeared at her dressing room at a theatre and demanded that she return the receipt to him. When she refused to do so, she said, he was "very sore and sulky." Later Thomas came to her, she testified, and told her that Clow had "fired" him because he had given her the receipt.

In cross-examining Miss Joyce, Edward F. Reynolds, of counsel for the defense, read to the jury an item from Broadway Brevities headed "Peggy's Annual Donation," in which there was caustic reference to the size of the tips she was said to have given stage hands and other employes at the Earl Carroll Theatre, where she was then appearing in "The Vanities."

"Money flows like glue from Peggy, the way it does from Harry Lauder and Ed Wynn," the article said. Miss Joyce reddened during its reading and, when Mr. Reynolds had finished, she jumped to her feet.

"I consider that the greatest insult I have ever had," she said. "And they put that in, too, after I had given them $200 for such things!"

"Did you ever advertise in Brevities after the time you say you gave them $200 to have your picture published?" Mr. Reynolds asked.

"Of course not! Do you think I would give them any more money after that?"

Under cross-examination Miss Joyce confessed to having once attended a performance of the Follies with Clow, and she said that he had once called upon her at her home.

Miss Joyce said she had been to Jimmy Kelly's cabaret with Clow and an unidentified newspaper editor. When Mr. Reynolds asked if Clow came over to the table where she was seated at the El Fay Club one night, Miss Joyce shouted, "No! I've already told you several times, no!" "You don't make yourself very clear; I wish you would be more intelligible."

Got No Affectionate Telegram.

"Did you ever get a telegram from Clow with a reference to 'Love and kisses'?" asked Mr. Reynolds.

Miss Joyce laughed. "No, of course not," she replied.

Mr. Mattuck, on redirect examination, read to the jury an article he said had appeared in Broadway Brevities which referred to Miss Joyce as "beautiful, sweet and charming," and a "talented actress." It deplored articles appearing in previous issues and explained they had been "written without the editor's knowledge."

Tex Rickard testified that he had received telephone calls and visits from two representatives of Broadway Brevities whom he identified as Charles J. Greene and A. B. Brown, two defendants. At the time of the telephone calls Rickard said Brevities was printing derogatory articles concerning him and the boxing bouts staged under his management. When Greene and Brown called, Rickard said, they asked him to advertise.

Rickard declared that he asked why he should help the paper when it was publishing "nasty" things about him and that he was told the attacks would cease if he advertised. He told of giving Brown and Greene two checks for $125 each and of the appearance in Brevities shortly afterward of an article captioned, "Rickard the Great," which referred to him as a man "who enriches charities," an asset to the game," and a "friend of clean sport."

Leo M. Fletcher, Vice President of H. R. Mallinson & Co., told the jury that in 1922 Brown came to him and told him he had "a story" which Fletcher "might not like to see in print." Fletcher said he told Brown that if anything were printed which was not true, he would lodge a complaint with the Federal Government. After this, Fletcher testified, he received no more visits, but Brevities printed several "derogatory" articles. One, which was put in evidence, was headed, "An Item From the Silk District," and referred to Mr. Mallinson as "The Man of a Million Wrinkles."

Edith Bobe Says She Paid $50.

Edith Bobe, a modiste, whose name figured in the newspapers a few months ago when $25,000 worth of jewels were taken from her apartment, told the Court that Clow called her on the telephone and asked her for $50. When she told him she couldn't afford to give it to him, she said he called her ungrateful and said: "I'll fix you!" She said she later "purchased silence" by paying $50 for an advertisement in Brevities of Nellie Revell's book, "Right Off the Chest." Robert M. Hague, marine superintendent of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, who was robbed in Miss Bobe's apartment, said that when a representative of Brevities told him the publication had "some very interesting information" concerning himself and Miss Bobe he declined to show interest and thereafter was not bothered. He said that articles appeared in Brevities subsequently, linking his name with that of Miss Bobe in "a disparaging manner."

Ben Holsman, a dramatic critic, testified that at the request of Martin Herman, a brother of Al Woods, theatrical producer, he had dissuaded Brevities from continuing his articles about Miss Bobe and Hague.

Other witnesses who told of attempts to obtain money either through threatening the publication of articles or promising to suppress those being printed, were Richard A. Porter, who handled advertising for Vivaudou, manufacturer of perfumes; Mrs. Frances B. Hoffman, advertising agent, and May Davis, former secretary to Mr. Vivaudou.

The trial will continue at 9:30 o'clock today.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 26.—While the Whitley legislative committee was holding its first hearing at the Capitol this afternoon in an effort to find out why there is so much delay in the settlement of workmen's compensation cases, Governor Smith was working on a special message which he sent to the Legislature tonight urging an emergency appropriation to take care of 25,000 new compensation cases.

Under a statute enacted by the Legislature of 1924, the compensation law was amended by reducing from fourteen to seven days the non-compensation waiting period after an accident. The Governor pointed out that the Legislature of last year made no appropriation under which new cases thus created could be handled.

"The Industrial Commission," the Governor said in his message, "should be in a position immediately to handle these numerous applications for compensation. I would, therefore, suggest that the emergency appropriation, designed to take care of the needs of the department until the beginning of the next fiscal year and already requested of the Legislature, be acted upon as soon as possible in order that the Commissioner may be in a position to dispose of the increase in the volume of work in his department.

"This question is removed entirely from any which may come under the investigation ordered by the Senate.

"If left until passage of the regular bill making appropriation for the support of the Government, one-half the time the appropriation is designed to cover will have passed and the congestion complained of will be added to materially."

E. Clarence Aiken, Deputy Attorney General, who handles the compensation cases of the Attorney General's office, was the first witness before the Whitley Commission. He said the principal reasons for the delay in the settlement of claims made by injured workmen were lack of hearing stenographers and a sufficient number of deputies in the Attorney General's office.

On Jan. 1 of this year, Mr. Aiken said, there were 2,048 workmen's compensation cases on appeal. He suggested that referees receive power to reopen cases when notice was given that an appeal was to be taken to either the State Industrial Board or the Appellate Division.

James Donohue, Director of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau in New York City, told the committee that he agreed with the suggestions made by Mr. Aiken. In 371,000 accidents in the State last year 111,000 claims for compensation were made, Mr. Donohue said. Cyrus W. Phillips of Rochester, referred to by Senator Whitley as "the father of the compensation law," believed the State should spend at least $200,000 more each year to have the compensation law effectively carried out. "I believe the referees ought to be clothed with sufficient power to reopen a case before an appeal is taken," he said. "I also believe the Industrial Board should have complete control over the referees."

John D. Higgins, Chairman of the board, stated that the employment of additional stenographers and a larger force of deputies would largely eliminate delays.

To the Editor of THE TIMES:

At the holiday season hundreds of New Yorkers participated through The Times Hundred Neediest in making it possible for many families under the care of our organization to face the new year with less dread and foreboding. Our present task is to see that the society keeps faith with these and its other families in trouble and also keep faith with New York contributors by actually putting these people on their feet, not just relieving their situations.

It takes the skilled service of many able social workers to be successful in carrying out this ideal. Thoughtful, painstaking work on the part of our staff is the only way that the public will get 100 per cent. returns on its investment. Eighteen hundred and thirty families are looking to us for guidance toward self-support and health today. To give every individual the fair hearing he deserves calls for a larger staff than the C. O. S. has.

We are therefore asking New Yorkers to offer not their money but their time to this cause. A number of able women have already volunteered a portion of their leisure time to us. Many others are needed, however. Applications should be in the hands of Miss Mary L. Dyckman, 105 East Twenty-second Street, this week, so that admission to the Training Course for Volunteers can be arranged in time. Telephone Gramercy 4066 for details.

Let's all pull together to put these families back on the high road of self-dependence!

ROBERT W. DE FOREST.

"The Board of Trustees of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies hereby records its deep sense of appreciation of the remarkable success of the appeal of THE NEW YORK TIMES for the relief of the One Hundred Neediest Cases, and begs leave to offer its congratulations to the publishers of THE TIMES and to record its sense of gratitude for the privilege of being included among those agencies acting as distributors of the funds resulting from the appeal."

ONE QUADRUPLET ALIVE.

Edward Kelly Dies, Despite Blood Transfusion—Hope for Joseph.

Of the quadruplets born on Friday to Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly of 720 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, only one, Joseph, is still alive. Physicians at the Jewish Hospital have hopes of saving his life. Tiny Edward died yesterday morning, despite the fact that his father had submitted to a blood transfusion in an effort to save him and Joseph.

The first of the quadruplets to die was Catherine, named after her mother. Catherin's life flickered out late Friday night. Sarah died Sunday. When Mr. Kelly was informed of the death of Edward, he replied that he thanked God that he still had his wife and the last of the quadruplets, as well as his other four children.

The father was the recipient yesterday of several more checks from persons interested in the stories of the births and anxious to help the family financially.

DOUBTS TURMAN IS WHOLLY "BROKE"

SEARCHING INQUIRY AHEAD

Court Assigns Counsel to Turman and Gives Him Another Day to Plead.

Chief Assistant District Attorney Pecora expressed doubt late yesterday afternoon that Moe Turman, the youth whose flananciering had cost persons who trusted him approximately $2,000,000, was as "broke" as Turman had indicated. Mr. Pecora's statement was made after an unconfirmed report had been circulated in the Criminal Courts Building that Assistant District Attorney Richard C. Murphy, who is assisting Mr. Pecora in the investigation of Turman's activities, had declared that he believed Turman had at least $250,000 "salted away."

Mr. Murphy had left his office before the report became current, and it was when an effort was being made to check up on the statement attributed to him that Mr. Pecora said he believed that Turman had much more than the $14 which he alleged he possessed after a petition in bankruptcy was filed against him Saturday in the Federal court.

District Attorney Banton previously had been asked if Mr. Murphy had reported the possibility of Turman having under concealment $250,000 of his friends' money. He declared he had not, and he did not believe Mr. Murphy would make "so unqualified a statement at this time."

Earlier in the day Turman was arraigned before Judge Morris Koenig in General Sessions on an indictment charging forgery in the second degree. He told Judge Koenig he was not prepared to plead because he had been financially unable to hire a lawyer.

Court Assigns Counsel.

The Court then assigned George Z. Medalie and Sol Eisler as counsel to defend him, and Turman, at their request, was permitted to defer pleading until tomorrow. Bail of $5,000 was allowed to stand.

Turman went to Mr. Murphy's office, where, it was understood, he continued to aid in the examination of checks he had turned over to the prosecutor. Mr. Medalie was with the prosecutor and the prisoner part of the time.

After Turman had left Mr. Murphy's office Mr. Pecora let it be known that every precaution was being taken to prevent Turman pleading guilty to only one forgery charge, on which he could escape with a sentence of from five to ten years, without having to reveal money which he might have hidden.

May Get More Indictments.

It was said that the District Attorney's office already had sufficient evidence on which to obtain additional indictments for forgery, and that if Turman did not satisfy the prosecutors that he was "broke" the State would demand that he plead guilty to each of them, instead of one covering all, and thus leave himself liable to sentences which would total more than fifty years.

Mr. Medalie is to have another conference with Turman today, which is expected to have an important bearing on his client's attitude.

Assistant District Attorney Murphy announced that he had obtained proof, in the form of a letter, that Turman was not paying interest on moneys obtained from many of his victims, but had victimized them by promising income on investments. The letter was sent by Turman on Dec. 2, 1924, to A. H. Friedlander, a relative, of 16,520 Tacoma Avenue, Cleveland, who had turned over about $50,000 to Turman for investment. It read:

My dear Mr. Friedlander:

I owe you a million apologies for not having written, but I did not have anything very definite to say, as I have had only temporary uses for your money until yesterday.

But now I have succeeded in placing same in a good way, and I can tell you that you can depend on a minimum income of $50 a month, with a maximum income that I would rather guess at—but I know will satisfy you. Enclosed is my note, payable on demand. Thanks, and hope you are both well and happy. Anna sends her regards. MOE TURMAN.

WIDENER VS. YOUSSOUPOFF.

A motion demanding that Prince Felix Youssoupoff show cause why he should not produce papers relating to the alleged borrowing by the Prince in 1921 of £100,000 was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by Davis, Polk, Gardiner and Reed, as attorneys for Joseph E. Widener. The order is returnable Feb. 2, and was signed by Justice Davis.

Two Rembrandt paintings, which are now the subject of a suit by the Prince against the art collector, were pledged for repayment of the sum, the Prince alleges. A contract of sale attached to the papers states that the Prince sold the paintings outright, but the second paragraph recites that Mr. Widener realized that the Prince parted with the paintings reluctantly, and provides that he may repurchase them by paying the £100,000 with interest at 8 per cent. from the date of sale in 1921. The Prince denies any sale.

ASKS $6,000,000 FOR MORE PARKS

ASKS CONDEMNATION LAW

He Deprecates Delay in Acquisition of Land and Denounces Tactics of Speculators.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 26.—Governor Smith sent to the Legislature tonight an extraordinary message in which he urged enactment of a bill providing for the expenditure this year of $6,000,000 out of the $15,000,000 bond issue approved at the election last year for the purchase of additional State park lands and their development.

Measures providing additional powers for the State Park Council, as well as for the so-called regional boards, some of which already have been introduced, are recommended by the Governor, who indicates that in another year some feasible plan for the thorough co-ordination of the work of these several bodies should have been worked out and a statute, which would become an article of the conservation law and be known as the Consolidated Park Act, be framed to govern the combined administration.

Appropriations Already Asked.

One large item in the expenditure proposed by the Governor would be for the purchase of land and developments at Palisades Interstate Park. For this purpose $1,550,000 has been provided in a bill introduced by Senator Straus of New York City. Of this amount $600,000 would be for the purchase of additional lands and $950,000 for improvements. For the purchase of land within the forest preserve counties an appropriation of $800,000 is asked and $550,000 is requested for new purchases and developments at the Allegany State Park.

The New York State Reservation at Niagara would be extended, $700,000 of a $750,000 fund being applied to the purchase of land; $250,000 is set aside for Letchworth Park, and $750,000 for purchases of new land and improvements on Long Island. For the State Reservation at Saratoga Springs and the Taconic State Park, $75,000 each is requested; $25,000 for John Boyd Thacher Park and $15,000 for St. Lawrence Reservation. For the Finger Lake Park, $250,000 would be appropriated and for parkways between the Bronx River Parkway and the new Bear Mountain Bridge near Peekskill, $750,000 is provided, including $100,000 for additional lands. A few park and parkways at Fair Haven on Lake Ontario would require $160,000.

Governor Deprecates Delay.

In his message the Governor deprecates delay in the acquisition of park lands, due to a provision in the law under which all titles must be approved by the Attorney General as well as by the State Controller. He cites instances in which, though agreements for the purchase of land were signed a year ago, the Attorney General has not approved title. Not only have there been unjustified delays, but the cost of survey and search of titles in some cases have exceeded the cost of the land itself, says the message.

"It has been suggested that land titles be approved by counsel to the several park commissions and not by the Attorney General," the Governor says. "I am unwilling to make such a recommendation because I feel that the Attorney General is the officer designated by the Constitution to advise on such matters, and because I am sure that a plan of cooperation can be worked out between the Attorney General and the park authorities, by which the park officers will cooperate with the Attorney General and furnish him with the necessary information for a speedy approval of the titles."

Other bills which the Governor urges the Legislature to pass are:

A bill abolishing the Bronx Parkway Commission and turning over the parkway within the Bronx to the New York City authorities, and the part within Westchester to the Westchester County Park Commission, the projected extension of the parkway from Kensico Dam to the Bear Mountain Bridge through Harriman Park being undertaken with State funds under the direction of the Westchester commission.

A bill defining the jurisdiction and control of State parks and parkways and incidentally creating two new regional commissions—one the Taconic Park Commission, covering the counties of Putnam, Dutchess, Columbia and Rensselaer, and the other the Central New York Commission, covering Onondaga, Oswego, Madison, Cortland, Chenango, Otsego and Broome Counties. With these new bodies there will be in all nine regional park authorities, each with representation on the State Council of Parks, which is the central and supervising body.

Urges Condemnation Law.

The Governor strongly urges the enactment of a park condemnation law. The State Park Council and the regional commissions, under the present law, can acquire land by gift, by purchase, by condemnation and by entry and appropriation, when the owner must go to the Court of Claims for the fixing of his award for the property taken by the State, the State taking title at once.

Where condemnation proceedings are resorted to there frequently are intolerable delays, because the State cannot take title until a condemnation commission has agreed on the value of the land.

"There are unfortunately, in this State a considerable number of people who seem to regard the making of an appropriation or the passage of a bond issue by the people involving the purchase of land, as a signal to raise prices and to hold up the State in every possible way. Adjoining owners and real estate speculators are always active. Parkway owners, who concede the fact that their land values will be enhanced by public development, still demand a high price for narrow rights of way. In the cities people are accustomed to assessments for benefits. In the suburbs they seem to regard it as an outrage if they are not given the benefit of public improvements without assessment, and paid high prices for rights of way in addition.

"It is also an unfortunate fact that a number of owners of land, especially in the suburbs near great cities, will use every device and weapon in their power and every influence which can be brought to bear to prevent the carrying out of the State program which they think may interfere with the quiet and isolation of their country estates.

"There is still another case where the power of entry and appropriation is the only weapon the State has to acquire land before real estate or commercial development will ruin it or change its nature or raise its value to a point at which acquisition by the State is impossible. I recently signed appropriation proceedings by which lands owned by a chemical company in the Allegany Park region were taken by the park authorities on the very eve of the destruction of all of the timber by this company.

"Similarly, on Lake George, the notice to owners of some 8,000 acres who had been attempting to hold up the State that the land would be entered and appropriated resulted in an agreement to sell at one-third the price asked by the owners,

Ninety-seven per cent. of all guests in New York hotels are of unquestioned honesty; 2 per cent. are difficult to collect bills from, and 1 per cent. are in that shady fringe of society that needs a policeman at its elbow to enforce fair dealing, according to Wilfred P. Olson, credit manager of the Hotel Biltmore and President of the newly organized Hotel Credit Managers' Association.

The association will hold a bimonthly dinner at the Hotel Pennsylvania tonight. It will discuss methods of cooperation to prevent check raisers and bill evaders from carrying their operations from hotel to hotel.

"To say that 1 per cent. of mankind is dishonest is a gross exaggeration," said Mr. Olson, "but among hotel guests there is a class which habitually lives beyond its means and is so hard pressed that it resorts sometimes to dishonesty. Perhaps 1 per cent. of hotel guests are in this class. In a city like New York these persons now can cheat one hotel and walk up the street and cheat another. The Hotel Credit Managers' Association has been organized to stop the crook after he has victimized one hotel.

WATER POWER OFFER IS PUT UP TO CITIES

Conference This Week Will Decide if Crescent Dam Is to Be Utilized.

WOULD TEST STATE PROJECT

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 26.—On the decision reached at a conference to be held this week at the office of State Engineer Roy G. Finch will depend whether distribution of hydroelectric current under State auspices shall have an early test.

With the plant constructed by the State at Crescent Dam on the Mohawk Canal practically ready to begin operations, a commission composed of Frederick Stuart Greene, State Superintendent of Public Works, as Chairman, State Engineer Finch and Attorney General Ottinger will confer with the Mayors of several cities with a view to deciding if the plant shall supply hydroelectric current to those municipalities for municipal purposes.

Should the decision be favorable the construction of transmission lines will begin at once, and before many months supplying municipal electric light and power will be added to the activities of the State.

Tuesday's conference will be the second of its kind. At a previous conference a formal offer was extended to the same municipalities to supply State-generated electric current at a rate of six mills per kilowat hour, exclusive of cost of transmission. The Mayors are to either accept or reject this offer at the conference on Tuesday.

With approximately 16,000 potential horse power at Crescent Dam, the plant, which was provided for through legislation enacted during the Miller Administration, has been constructed to develop only 8,000. Under the original law the State was empowered to sell what current it did not need, developed from surplus waters of the Barge Canal, to private corporations for transmission and distribution for municipal purposes only. In 1923, under Governor Smith's Administration, the Robinson act prohibiting the sale of current to private corporations and providing for sale to the municipalities direct, the State building necessary transmission lines, became law.

The theory underlying the construction of the plant at Crescent Dam and another similar plant at near-by Vischer Ferry, now nearing completion, was that they should be used to furnish light and power for the operation of the Barge Canal with provision for the sale of surplus current. However, power for the operation of the locks on the canal is being generated by small plants at the locks from water available there.

"What will be done with the output of the Crescent Dam plant should the municipalities decline the State's offer?" State Engineer Finch was asked.

"I do not know that we can do anything with it," he replied, "unless the law is amended so that the current can be sold to private companies, some of which undoubtedly would be willing to take it."

"But wouldn't that leave the State at the mercy of the private companies when it comes to fixing a rate for the sale of current?"

"With the present agitation for development of the State's water resources by the State itself, no private power or lighting corporation would dare to offer the State a mere pittance for its product. It would give too much of a boost to the argument for State development."

Experts who have studied the project say they are in the dark with regard to the elements that should enter into calculation of a rate to be charged for the State's power. The construction of transmission lines is said to cost from $10,000 to $20,000 a mile. The amended Robinson act provides for the sale of the current at the "cost of

U. S. BOXING BODY SUSPENDS DUNDEE

But He Can Fight in New York and Massachusetts, as They Are Not Members of N. B. A.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 26.—The National Boxing Association of America has followed the example of the International Boxing Union in suspending Johnny Dundee, former world's featherweight champion, for his failure to keep his agreement to meet Fred Bretonnel, French lightweight, Latrobe Cogswell, President of the American organization, announced here tonight.

The National Boxing Association is closely affiliated with the International Boxing Union.

Rule Affects Many States.

The suspension of Johnny Dundee by the National Boxing Association will, it is observed by the boxing commissions affiliated with the N. B. A., bar Dundee from boxing in seventeen States throughout the country. The suspension, however, will not be recognized either in this State or in Massachusetts, because of the fact that these two important boxing centres are not affiliated with the N. B. A.

New York and Massachusetts declined to join the N. B. A. at the time the organization was launched several years ago, and have ince proceeded with their administrative business independent of the association. An agreement exists between the Empire State authorities and those of the Bay State whereby the orders of both boards are observed in each State.

WILL NOT RECLAIM TITLE, SAYS DUNDEE

But May Ask to Re-enter the Featherweight Class—Seeks Lightweight Crown.

Johnny Dundee does not intend to reclaim the world's featherweight championship title, which he voluntarily surrendered last year, prior to his departure for Europe, when he notified the State Athletic Commission that he could no longer make the class weight and fight at his best. This was the statement made yesterday by Charley Johnston, brother of Jimmy Johnston, and manager of record for Dundee. Johnston's statement was prompted by reports originating with Dundee's return to this country last Saturday that the veteran Italian had come back to America prepared to lay claim to the title he surrendered on his admission involving the weight question.

In a statement, Charley Johnston had the following to say:

"Johnny Dundee never intended to offend the Boxing Commission in making the announcement that he expected to return to the featherweight division. He never entertained any notion of reclaiming the featherweight title. Dundee has said that if he found that he could make the featherweight limit he would return and try to win back his title. He would first apply to the State Athletic Commission if he felt he could make the weight.

"Johnny was probably over-enthusiastic when he returned from Europe the other day, but I know that he has all the respect in the world for the rulings of the Boxing Commission and doesn't intend making any claims to get back the title he relinquished in good faith. In other words, Dundee expected to ask the commission for permission to return to the featherweight division if he found he could make the required poundage and be strong.

"Dundee was misunderstood about reclaiming the featherweight title. I know that Dundee has no intention of offending the Boxing Commission and does all the respect in the world for the board's rulings. But up to the present time Dundee has no intention of applying to the commission for permission to be restored to the featherweight class. I feel that the whole situation will be straightened out to the satisfaction of all. Dundee's one big hope now is to win the lightweight title recently vacated by Leonard."

Dundee's case may come up for consideration today at the meeting of the commission. The board has before its consideration a cabled complaint from the French boxing authorities because of the Italian's unexpected withdrawal from the Fred Bretonnel match in Paris and it is altogether likely that some cognizance will be taken of this situation. On the other hand, the commission, in the absence of detailed information on the matter, may decide to await the arrival here of a letter of explanation, which, according to the cabled protest, is now in the mails.

The possibility of action being taken against Jimmy Johnston on the ground that he acted as manager of Dundee in the negotiations for the Bretonnel bout when he is listed in the commission records as matchmaker for the Cromwell A. C., disappeared yesterday when Johnston explained that he had not signed the Bretonnel bout contract in the capacity of manager, but simply as a witness. Dundee's plans for the immediate future are uncertain, beyond the fact that the Italian veteran is intent upon entering the lightweight elimination tournament proposed by the commission, according to Charley Johnson. He said he plans to submit Dundee's name to the commission as a prospective participant in the tournament just as soon as it is established that a tournament will be held.

PLANS LIGHTWEIGHT TRIALS

Pennsylvania Commission to Hold Elimination Boxing Tourney.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—The State Athletic Commission announced today that it is planning a lightweight tourney and will ask that the winner and runner-up shall be recognized as Pennsylvania's representatives in any tournament held to determine the successor of Benny Leonard as the lightweight champion of the world. The tourney probably will be held in Philadelphia on dates to be fixed by promoters handling the affair.

The action of the Pennsylvania authorities in instituting a lightweight championship elimination tournament for the purpose of producing representatives in the tournament proposed by the State Athletic Commission controlling boxing in New York adds the third to the list of acceptances of the Empire State board's plan. France and England previously had cabled acceptances. Promoter Tex Rickard is expected to lead the way in conducting the New York eliminations in advance of the decisive trials. It is expected the tournament will be the most representative event of its kind ever conducted.

Gershe Stops Harry Leonard.

Goodrich Victor Over Brown.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo lightweight, won the decision here tonight from Harry (Kid) Brown, Philadelphia, in a ten-round bout. The judges disagreed and the referee awarded the decision to the Buffalo fighter. Goodrich weighed 134½, Brown 134.

Chinese Elevens Play to Tie In Game for Title on Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26.—Chinese football teams of Oakland and Fresno battled to a scoreless tie yesterday, leaving ownerless the title to the Chinese football championship of Northern California. On a field of mud and water, the team of Captain Joe Yue, from the San Joaquin Valley, battled the forces led by Captain Al Chin of Oakland, but neither side could score. With end runs terminating in muddy slides beneath an onslought of tacklers, and with punts and passes splashing into standing water, no chance for strategy was afforded.

The Harvard Club squash tennis team gained a clear hold on second place in the metropolitan Class C championship tournament yesterday when it defeated the Yale Club on the Ellis' courts by the score of 5 matches to 2. The two teams were previously tied with eight victories and one defeat each. The Princeton Club, which holds the lead, did not play yesterday. Three other teams were also idle, the Columbia University Club, the Short Hills Club and the Heights Casino of Brooklyn.

The Crescent A. C. defeated the Montclair A. C. in the only other match that was completed by the score of 4 to 3 in Brooklyn. The New York A. C. and the Fraternity Club played to a 3-3 tie on the Fraternity courts, the seventh match being postponed until later in the week. The Whitehall Club and the Gramercy Park Squash Club played only two matches at the Whitehall Club Two more will be played today and three tomorrow. Each club won one match yesterday.

The play between the Crescents and Montclair was close all the way, the two teams alternating in winning the matches down the line-up. J. W. Irving, lead-off man for the Crescents, defeated C. Merrick in a three-game match, 15—18, 18—9, 15—6. E. L. Winpenny won the No. 2 match for Montclair by defeating D. W. Kleinert in two closely contested games at 15—10, 17—15. One of the hardest fought engagements of the day's play was that between H. B. Van Cleave of the New Jersey team and W. E. Lawrence of Montclair. Lawrence won the first game by a big margin, but Van Cleave showed great improvement in the second and, after winning it, ran away with the third. H. R. Burroughs, D. M. Ogilvie and A. E. Perpall were the other victors for the Crescents.

The Fraternity Club and the New York A. C. were very closely matched and were unable to reach a decision in the six matches contested. H. Elliott and W. Naumer of the Fraternity Club will meet in the deciding match during the week.

KELLOCK TO PLAY PLATT.

Will Meet Yale Club Star in Veterans' Squash Semi-Final Today.

Livingston Platt of the Yale Club and Harold Kellock of the Columbia University Club will meet in the semi-final round of the national veterans' squash tennis championship this afternoon when play is resumed in the tournament on the courts of the Columbia University Club. The winner of the match will meet Charles M. Bull Jr. of the Crescent A. C. on Saturday in the title round. Bull advanced to the semi-finals last week by defeating Dr. Harold R. Mixsell of the Princeton Club.

Platt, who formerly ranked among the best players in the game, is the favorite to win over Kellock today, though the Columbia man may be expected to make a good showing. He has played a fine brand of squash in coming through to the semi-finals. Bull ranks among the first ten in the country and should the final find him opposed to Platt one of the most interesting matches of the season may be looked forward to.

MARULLO HERE FOR BOUT.

Will Complete Work for His Bout With Berlenbach Friday.

Tony Marullo, New Orleans light-heavyweight, arrived here yesterday prepared to complete training for his scheduled twelve-round bout against Paul Berlenbach, Astoria's hard-hitting light-heavyweight, in the feature fistic attraction at Madison Square Garden Friday night. Sammy Goldman, manager of Pete Herman when the latter was bantamweight champion, assumed charge of the Crescent City boxer's local training and sent Marullo through a road workout in Central Park.

Marullo plans to finish his training at the Garden gymnasium, working at an hour when Berlenbach, who is also training there, is not in attendance. The New Orleans boxer plans to engage in sparring workouts today and tomorrow, eliminating sparring from his schedule for Thursday. Berlenbach yesterday exhibited excellent form and expressed confidence in his ability to defeat the Crescent City light-heavyweight.

Two eight-round bouts will precede the main event. In one of these contests Gordon Munce, former local amateur heavyweight champion, will engage Ed Garvey, former Notre Dame football star. Sully Montgomery, Fort Worth, Texas, heavyweight prospect, and Clemente Savaardo are scheduled to clash in the other eight-round encounter. Rene Delfos will face Jimmy O'Gatty in a six-round bout, while in a four-round contest Jackie Cohen will oppose Gabriel Conteles.

BOGASH RULES FAVORITE.

Will Meet Halbran in Bout at New Manhattan S. C. Thursday.

Lou Bogash, Bridgeport's veteran light heavyweight, who enjoys the distinction of having held his own against five ring champions, will enter the ring a favorite to defeat Chief Halbran in their ten-round bout which will be the feature at the New Manhattan S. C., Thursday night. The contest will be a return engagement. In their last meeting Bogash received the decision, an award which did not meet with unanimous approval.

In his career Bogash has held his own against Jack Britton, Mickey Walker, Mike O'Dowd, Mike McTigue and Harry Greb. Four six-round bouts and a four-round encounter will precede the main event.

MIAMI RACE IS WON BY DR. MACMILLAN

FOUR FAVORITES TRIUMPH

Special to The New York Times.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 26.—Dr. MacMillan, owned by E. Lutz and trained by C. Knight, won the gallop of a mile and a sixteenth, which had the place of honor on the program at Hialeah Park this afternoon. The three-year-old son of Pataud and Flycatcher was in with the feather of ninety pounds and ran the distance in 1:53 4-5 over a heavy track. Dolin had the mount and the winner paid $11.90 for a $2 ticket in the mutuels.

There was no handicap on the program this afternoon, the card being made up of six claiming events and a two-year-old sprint. Favorites finished first in four races, three of them at odds-on. K. Noe, who had been riding with great success since coming over from Havana, landed two more winners this afternoon, to make his total nine, being tied with Ivan Parke. He took the third with Mary Johnston and the seventh with Quesada. Harry Stuttz took the lead among the jockeys riding here with a total of ten winners when he came home first with Princess Umbria in the opening number. Parke failed to land a winner.

Dr. MacMillan won his race handily to beat the 7-to-5 favorite, Tulsa. It was Dr. MacMillan's fourth start here, and the first victory he has gained in Winter racing. He was last to get going and raced on the outside all the way. Rounding the lower turn, he drew clear with little effort and held Tulsa safely to win by a length and a half. Nettie May was third.

T. W. Hemingway's five-year-old gelding Who Knows Me upset calculations when he came home first in a field of five in the six-furlong dash for three-year-olds and upward, paying $13.80 and nosing out the favorite, Fighting Cook.

Quesada Wins Again.

The Shapoff Stable's Quesada won his second consecutive victory here when he beat five others in the gallop of a mile and a sixteenth for three-year-olds and upward. The Delhi gelding was held off the pace in the early racing, drew clear entering the stretch and held on to beat J. A. Coburn's Yoshimi, the favorite, by a neck. The winner paid $12.90 for a $2 ticket. Wrangler, under a hard ride by Stutts, was up to take third money.

Mrs. S. Wilson's three-year-old colt Tall Grass, the 3-to-2 favorite, was an easy winner in the gallop of a mile and seventy yards for maidens of three years and older. He drew the outside position at the post and ran on the outside all the way. He was slow to get going, came with a rush in the stretch and won by a margin of six lengths from W. E. Martin's Fun Maker. The latter slipped through on the inside rounding the lower turn and drew clear, but could not withstand the challenge of Tall Grass in the stretch. Mike Mariniere showed speed for five furlongs and took third money.

Hands Up Leads Field.

Mrs. A. R. Alexandra's Hands Up, another odds-on favorite, carried off the claiming race at a mile and a sixteenth in a field of five. T. W. Hemingway's London Smoke was rushed into the lead but Hands Up challenged him in the stretch and Marriner went to the whip. London Smoke swerved over toward the rail and this undoubtedly cost him the race, as Hands Up was only able to get up in the final stride to win by a nose. May Girl was easily the best of the others. Before the field was finally sent away there was a false break in which Hands Up ran three furlongs and several others shorter distances before they were pulled up.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 26.—Live pigeons, which are to replace clay ones in a pigeon shoot in Shelby County tomorrow, were made the basis of a protest filed today with Governor Fields by members of the Kentucky Humane Society. BELPHRIZONIA WINS AT FAIR GROUNDS

SETTING SUN HOME FIRST

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 26.—Mrs. A. Swenke's five-year-old mare Belphrizonia, by Vulcain—Belphoebe, proved an easy victor this afternoon in the Clarence S. Darrow Claiming Handicap, which featured the Fair Grounds program. Belphrizonia was the 11-to-5 favorite and ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:47 1-5 over a fast track. Marinelli had the mount and the winner carried 108 pounds.

Belphrizonia showed greatly improved form over her last race here. Marinelli had the mare under wraps for three-quarters of a mile, but let her have her head in the stretch and she responded with a burst of speed that carried her to the front, and at the wire she was four lengths in front of T. W. Hemingway's four-year-old Provident.

Provident was far out of the running for six furlongs, but Fisher saved much ground with the gelding, and he got up in the last stride to nose out Plus Ultra for the place. The latter showed good speed in setting the early pace and then tired.

The Bonaventure Purse, a gallop of a mile and a sixteenth for four-year-olds and upward, resulted in a stirring finish in which E. K. Bryson's Setting Sun nosed out J. H. Sterlin's Midwestern. The winner was held at 4 to 1. Four went to the post and Setting Sun trailed the field for a good part of the journey. He began moving up with a belated rush in the last quarter, finished gamely and was up in the last jump. William Daniel's Knights Bridge, the odds-on favorite, which was unbeaten in his three starts at Jefferson Park, set the early pace and then tired to finish third. The race was run in 1:46 1-5, the winner carrying 102 pounds.

Benny Marinelli rode two winners for Mrs. A. Swenke. In the opening number he was first with Dr. Glenn and won the fifth with Belphrizonia, both being favorites.

MILLROSE A. A. MEET WILL START TONIGHT

Italian Olympic Walker Entered in Three-Mile Race—Goulding and Other Stars to Compete.

One of the most important athletic meets held here in years and one of the outstanding board floor carnivals on the Eastern indoor program will be held tonight and tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden when the Millrose A. A. conducts its annual indoor meet. Attended by an international flavor of a degree never before attained in this club's meet, the Wanamaker organization's games tonight and tomorrow night promise athletic history and a succession of competitions which will live long in memory.

Major interest will centre around the performances of Paavo Nurmi, great Finnish runner; Ugo Frigerio, Italian walking star and Olympic champion, and George Goulding, Canadian walking veteran, who is on the eve of a "come back" attempt after seven years of inactivity. These three are the most prominent in a galaxy of track and field stars entered for the many attractive events arranged for each night of the games. The competitors include athletes of international and national reputations, among them being Olympic champions, national title-holders, intercollegiate champions and several record holders.

The importance of the games is best attested by the advance indications of the attendance. Every available ticket for the meet has been disposed of, the advance sale having exhausted the supply a week ago. Never in the history of the Millrose games has such a tremendous advance sale been reported. It is a reasonably safe indication that every seat in the Garden will be occupied tonight and tomorrow night while the stars of the athletic world struggle for honors.

Keen Opposition for Nurmi.

Nurmi is scheduled to race tonight in a three-quarter-mile invitation run in which his rivals will include Joie Ray, Illinois A. C. star and record-holder for the distance; Jimmy Connolly, two-thirds of a mile record-holder; Leo Larrivee, Holy Cross, and Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A. In a three-mile run Willie Ritola, Finnish-American A. C. star who established five records in a 5,000-meter run last Saturday night when he shattered three of the marks of Nurmi, will be the outstanding star. His rivals will include some of the best distance runners available.

Frigerio is scheduled to make his American début in a three-mile handicap walk in which he will be asked to concede handicaps up to thirty seconds. Goulding will signalize his return to competition in a two-mile handicap walk in which he will start from scratch and concede handicaps up to thirty seconds.

In the Millrose 1000, a classic on the local indoor calendar, Allan Helffrich, Penn State star, who has won this test for the past two years, will seek a third victory which will bring him permanent possession of the E. H. Post Trophy. The winner of the Walter Mulvihill, Holy Cross star and national champion; Jake Driscoll of the Boston A. A., the record-holder; Vincent Lally, St. Anselm's A. C.; Manville Lochnicht, Buffalo star and C. C. Haggerty of Harvard, are listed to start in this test against Helffrich.

In a sprinting feature in which the stars will qualify at 40 yards for a final at 50 yards, the list of those entered includes Harold Lever, Francis Hussey, Len Rawlings, Ned Gourdin, Walter Blauberg, Clarence McKlin and Ben Weisiger. Jackson V. Scholz, the only American to win a flat running title at the last Olympic games, will make his first indoor appearance in a 60-yard sprint against Loren Murchison, Eddie Farrell, J. J. Sullivan and other sprint stars. College relays are listed in which some of the stars of college athletic circles are scheduled to compete.

Tomorrow night practically the same array of athletic talent is scheduled to compete in a series of competitions which promise interesting races and field events. Of particular importance on the Wednesday card will be the international walking race at 5,000 meters, in which the principals will be Frigerio, Goulding and Willie Plant of the Morningside A. C., America's foremost heel and toe athlete. Paavo Nurmi will seek a record in the Rodman Wanamaker one-and-one-half-mile special run in which his rivals will include Joie Ray, Willie Goodwin, New York A. C.; George Lermond, Boston College; Leo Larrivee, Holy Cross and William Cox, Rocheater Tech, schoolboy star.

FINN TO SEEK MORE MARKS.

Paavo Nurmi will strive for five records in the two-mile special invitation race which will be a feature of the New York A. C. indoor athletic meet at Madison Square Garden on Feb. 14, and following this race will journey to Philadelphia to make his first appearance in a race in that city on the night of Feb. 16.

In the games of the Mercury Foot Club Nurmi will start in quest of a record at two miles, and en route will be timed at the mile, mile and a quarter, mile and a half and mile and three-quarters. It was announced yesterday that a series of college relay races, annually a feature of the New York A. C. meet, will again be conducted this year. One of these races will be among teams of Yale, winners of the event last year, Holy Cross and the University of Pennsylvania.

Station WNYC to Broadcast Events at Millrose Games

Plans for broadcasting the progress of the events and the results tonight and tomorrow night at the Millrose A. A. indoor athletic carnival in Madison Square Garden were announced yesterday. The competitions will be broadcast to radio enthusiasts by Station WNYC. Because of the tremendous interest in the events in which Paavo Nurmi will appear, it has been arranged to broadcast these competitions in detail. In the other events results will be broadcast as the competitions are completed.

PLAN AMATEUR RULE FOR ARMY ATHLETES

War Department and A. A. U. Officials Confer on Eliminating Cash Prizes.

Army athletics will be placed upon an amateur basis in conformity with the eligibility rules and regulations of the Amateur Athletic Union, it became known yesterday, if approval is granted a plan now under consideration to eliminate cash prizes from service track and field sport. The plan, which has been under discussion by Lieut. Col. Thomas J. Johnson of the General Staff of the War Department and President Murray Hulbert of the Amateur Athletic Union for the last several weeks, is expected to make army athletes of the present eligible for Olympic games competition and other important track activities.

President Hulbert announced yesterday that the proposed plan has received the approval of the Committee on Legislation of the A. A. U., of which Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney is Chairman, and that the matter now will be submitted by mail vote to the A. A. U. Board of Governors.

The outlook for adoption of the new basis for the army's competitive athletics, placing the sport on a plane with the activities of the Amateur Athletic Union, was hailed by A. A. U. officials as a progressive step which will eliminate difficulties that have been encountered in the past because of the cash prize awards to the soldier athletes.

Strict interpretation of the A. A. U. code disqualified the army athletes who had won cash prizes, regardless of the amount of reward. The system of cash prizes in army athletics, it was said yesterday, was adopted, not because of the monetary consideration, but because the arrangement was more convenient and expedient, eliminating, as it did, the necessity for deciding on the character of amateur prizes and then purchasing them and getting delivery.

The extension of the army activities to officers' training corps and, to a degree, to the National Guard, made it imperative, according to Secretary Frederick W. Rubien of the A. A. U., to urge a conformity between the service rules and those of the A. A. U.

Plans for launching a campaign to restore the club to the position it once held in local athletic competition will be adopted tonight at a revival meeting of members of the Brooklyn A. A., in the home of Joseph Washaw, a member of the club, at 184 Vernon Avenue, Brooklyn. Secretary Monty Closter has notified members of the organization of plans to appoint a committee to obtain a clubhouse as the first step in re-establishing the Brooklyn club. Several years ago the organization ranked foremost among the so-called smaller clubs of the local district and produced many star athletes and amateur boxers.

Willie Ritola, Finnish-American A. C. distance running star, who gained the spotlight at the Brooklyn College indoor meet in the Thirteenth Regiment Armory last Saturday night when he established records for two and one-quarter, two and one-half, two and three-quarter miles and three miles, in addition to 5,000 meters, will seek further record distinction at the indoor athletic meet of the Western Union A. A. in Madison Square Garden on Feb. 3, when he is scheduled to start in a 5,000-meter special race. Ritola's objective in the Western Union race will be new marks for three miles and 5,000 meters. Paavo Nurmi, Finland's wonder athlete, is entered for a two and one-quarter mile race, in which he will strive for records at two miles and two and one-quarter miles.

Ray Watson, Illinois A. C. middle-distance runner, who scored a spectacular victory in the special 500-yard run at the Brooklyn College games, will be a starter in the special 660-yard invitation run at the games of the Wilco A. A., to be held in the Thirteenth Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, on the night of Feb. 7.

Gunnar Nilson, Finnish-American A. C. distance runner, who with the aid of a handicap of 100 yards defeated Paavo Nurmi last Saturday night in a special 2,000-yard race, will measure strides with the record-breaking Paavo again on Friday night, when the pair clash in a race at 4,000 yards as the outstanding feature on the program for the meet in the 102d Engineers Regiment Armory to be conducted under the auspices of the 102d Engineers Regiment and the Morningside A. C.

FAVOR ATHLETIC EXPANSION.

Michigan Officials Call Two-Million-Dollar Program Essential.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 26.—Expenditure of $2,000,000 on an elaborate athletic expansion program for the University of Michigan is regarded as "essential" by the Board of Control of Athletics, whose annual report was presented to the Board of Regents tonight.

The items which are considered by the members of the athletic board as "not only proper but essential in the provision of suitable facilities for the physical activities of the student body of the university" are stadium construction, Winter sports pavilion, minor sports building and gymnasium, including adequate swimming accommodations.

The quintet is composed of stars who, however, have not played the game since entering the service. They have been practicing together for several weeks and are fast rounding into shape as a formidable team, having beaten a strong Staten Island team in their first game, 24 to 14.

GRIFFITH PREDICTS RISE OF FOOTBALL

Big Ten Commissioner Expects It to Replace Baseball as the National Sport.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Football is destined to become the American national sport, and in the future, if stadia are built to accommodate them, crowds of 125,000 or more may be found watching the game, Major John L. Griffith, Commissioner of the Western Conference, believes. His view of the sport's future comes from observation of the growth in popularity of football in the past few years.

"The greatest single drawing attraction in sports, amateur or professional, has been a world's championship prize fight with the heavyweight title in view," Major Griffith said. "I suppose 90,000 is the correct estimate of the greatest crowd the boxers have drawn, but the Stanford-California football game on the Pacific Coast this year outdrew that by several thousand," Mr. Griffith said.

"Interest in football now extends beyond the colleges, their students and alumni. Major Griffith declared. This has come with the development of individual stars or combinations like "Red" Grange of Illinois and Notre Dame backfield. Baseball, he believes, is experiencing a slump in popularity in colleges and has been abandoned by one collegiate conference, the Midwest.

In the new popularity of football and the international interest aroused Major Griffith sees a standardization of the game and the passing of the so-called "Eastern game" or "Western game," but at present he believes the Midwest is producing the best football.

It calls for salaries for the supervisor and for the deputies, but the amounts are not mentioned.

TABERSKI WINS 2 GAMES.

Frank Taberski, representative of the Fourteenth Street Academy in the National Championship Pocket Billiard League, won the first two games of his series of six with Benny Allen of Kansas City yesterday at the Fourteenth Street Academy. In the afternoon he defeated Allen at 100 to 63 and in the evening he won at 100 to 95. Both games went to fourteen innings. In the afternoon Allen's high run was 25, Taberski's was 23. In the evening Taberski made a high run of 28, two better than Allen's best run.

The second game was one of the most exciting yet witnessed in the Fourteenth Street Academy. Taberski made an uphill fight until the sixth inning, when he took the lead at 40 to 36. Allen regained the lead, only to lose it again in the tenth, when Taberski made his high run, and the New York representative was never headed again. With the score 98 to 95 in his favor, Taberski made an extremely difficult shot and then went out.

In the afternoon Taberski took the lead in the fifth inning and was never headed. Allen made his high run in the last inning.

Tadao Suganuma, the former national 18.2 junior champion, gained a commanding lead yesterday in the first two blocks of his 1,200-point exhibition match with Albert Cutler at Julian's Fourteenth Street Academy. Cutler, who is also a former junior champion, was visibly off form in the afternoon block, and Suganuma ran 500 to his rival's 86 in eleven innings for an average of 27 8-11. Suganuma had a high run of 137. Cutler played better billiards in the evening block, but Suganuma was again the victor, 300 to 204 in thirteen innings. Suganuma compiled an even average of 23 and had a high run of 97. Cutler's best string was 69 and he averaged 15 2-3.

Robert L. Cannefax, world's three-cushion champion, won the first two blocks of his 200-point match with Morgan Hughes at the Strand Academy yesterday. In the afternoon he won at 50 to 29 in fifty-one innings and made a high run of seven. Hughes's high run was three. The final two blocks will be played this afternoon and evening.

Walter Johnson May Accept Offer to Appear in Movies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Following the example of a long line of athletes who have refused to let the pleasure of sport dim their business eye, Walter Johnson, the Washington pitching ace, may soon be seen disporting himself before the moving picture camera, and at $2,000 a week. Tom Moore, Washington picture promoter, has made the offer, and he said today the pitcher had "tentatively" accepted. Moore, who is an old friend of Johnson, declared that if the deal went through, a six weeks' vaudeville tour was in prospect, after which Johnson would be placed "on location" for the picture at Los Angeles. If Johnson finally agrees to a long-term contract, it means he will not accompany the Senators to Tampa for Spring training.

COPULOS GAINS TIE WITH BOB CANNEFAX

Each Has Won 29 Games and Lost 9 in Three-Cushion League Title Tourney.

Gus Copulos of Detroit again has moved into a tie with Bob Cannefax, the world's champion, who represents New York, in the race for the lead in the National Championship Three-Cushion Billiard League. While Cannefax was idle last week Copulos won two games, and now is deadlocked for first place, with a record of twenty-nine games won and nine lost. Cannefax, however, continues to hold the season's mark for high run with an effort of 13, but he has been forced to surrender the season's record for the best game to Johnny Layton, the St. Louis entry, running out his string of 50 points against Otto Reiselt in Philadelphia a short time ago in twenty-seven innings.

Tiff Denton is in third place, three full games behind the leaders. Reiselt is fourth and Layton fifth. Clarence Jackson of Buffalo is sixth, Augie Kleckhefer of Chicago seventh and Allen K. Hall, another Chicago representative, is eighth. Allen is a former amateur star who has replaced Pierre Maupome, who was forced to withdraw from the league on account of illness. Hall will make his New York début against Cannefax at the Strand Academy tomorrow afternoon.

The standing of the players, with the games won and lost, the high runs, best games and percentages, follows:

Lawler Brothers' Manhattan Billiard Academy withdrew as a franchise holder from the National Championship Pocket Billiard League last night, when an official announcement to this effect was given out by Edward Lawler. HUGGINS DUE HERE TO DISCUSS PLANS

Yankee Manager Expected in Town Today to Talk Over Training Camp Conditions.

McGRAW RECEIVES MEDAL

Miller Huggins, the mite manager of the Yankees, who has been reported lurking in St. Petersburg, St. Louis, Cincinnati and way stations lately, will positively make his first appearance of 1925 in New York today, according to Edward G. Barrow.

There was some hope, not to say expectation, that Huggins would be on hand yesterday. A corps of reporters waited in the Yankee offices on West Forty-second Street, eager to ply the chieftain with questions, and a camera man had his machine all rigged up for a picture of the St. Petersburg realtor. When Huggins failed to show, the photographer took a flashlight of Barrow and called it a day.

Tidings of some portent may accompany Huggins into New York. He is said to bear news of the Fred Merkle deal, in which the Yanks are attempting to purchase the former Giant first baseman from Rochester for use as a coach and pinch hitter. Also Huggins may have some news of his efforts to find a shortstop and he is expected to make a report on Steve O'Neill, with whom he was closeted in Cincinnati Saturday on the question of signing a 1925 contract.

Another matter hanging in abeyance until Huggins gets here is that of training plans for the advance trip to Springs squad. Last year the athletes, headed by George Herman Ruth, foregathered at the Arkansas Spa about the 15th of February, staying there until March 1, when they moved on to New Orleans. The same program probably will be in effect this year, but Huggins will have the final say as to which of the veterans are to make up the February detachment.

Ruth has already inquired anxiously about the matter, indicating that the slugger intends to spend another fortnight of golf and hot baths at the Spa. Waite Hoyt, Wally Schang, Herb Pennock, Sam Jones, Everett Scott and possibly Urban Shocker will be asked to take the early exercise. Joe Dugan, because of his trick knee which he hurt near the end of last season, will also be urged to boil out at Hot Springs.

Huggins has had complete charge of negotiations for Merkle, and Barrow is waiting to learn what success the mite one has had in making terms with the Rochester club and in getting another first baseman to take Fred's place. Hug will also bring the latest news of the Yankee training ground at St. Petersburg.

Sparrow Robertson, former athletic coach and now a resident of Paris, dropped in at the Giants yesterday to present a consignment of medals on John J. McGraw in behalf of the French Baseball Federation. In addition to McGraw, Hughey Jennings and each of the players whom McGraw took to Europe on his baseball tour were honored.

Robertson took advantage of the occasion to repeat the cordial invitation from the French federation to McGraw to stage another tour of the British Isles and the Continent next Fall.

Plans are rapidly taking shape for the annual dinner of the New York Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association, which will be held Sunday evening, Feb. 15, in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Roosevelt. Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis has promised to make a special trip from the South for the dinner, at which he will be the guest of honor last year. John J. McGraw, Charles A. Stoneham, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, Miller Huggins, Ed Barrow, Ban Johnson, many players and other officials and notables from other fields are among those invited to be guests of the writers.

HISTORIC PORTRAITS FOUND IN OBSCURITY

AUTHENTICATED BY EXPERT

They Show British Orator and Woman Who Ruled Bavaria as Uncrowned Queen.

Recently discovered portraits of Charles James Fox, one of England's foremost statesmen, and of Lola Montez, once a favorite of Ludwig I. of Bavaria, will go under the auctioneer's hammer soon, it was learned yesterday. They will be exhibited at the Rains Galleries, 3 East Fifty-seventh Street, tomorrow.

The paintings were authenticated recently by Dr. Frank Muller of 248 East Fifty-seventh Street, an expert frequently called into consultation by art dealers. Dr. Muller said he considered them "a find." The painting of Fox was discovered in an art shop in the Fifties off Fifth Avenue and the other was acquired recently from a collector who picked it up two years ago in a little art shop in this city.

Lola Montez, in real life Maria Dolores Porris Gilbert, a great beauty of the '40s, was born in Ireland in 1824 and died in the United States in 1861. She lived in this country from the early '50s to the time of her death. Formerly she had lived at the Court of Ludwig of Bavaria, but fled during the revolution of 1848.

She has been described as the most beautiful woman of her time, and it is said she ruled Bavaria for two years as an uncrowned Queen, "defeating the machinations of her most powerful enemies and ruling wisely and well. Her biographer, Edmund d'Auvergne, says she was "the last of that long and illustrious line of women, reaching back beyond Cleopatra, and Aspasia, before whom Kings bent in homage, and by whose personality they openly confessed themselves to be swayed. Europe worshiped her as a goddess; she associated with the most highly gifted men of her time; she overthrew the ablest plotters and intriguers in Europe, foiled the policy of Metternich."

The painting is by A. Pifani and is dated 1854. Pifani was an Italian artist living in the United States.

The painting by Fox is of the school of David, a famous French painter. It is a canvass thirty by twenty-five inches, and is supposed to have been painted on one of Fox's visits to Paris.

Fox, who was born in 1749 and died in 1806, was perhaps the greatest English orator of his day. He was a foe to the slave trade and the defender of the American Colonies in Parliament.

TWO GENERALS HONORED.

Bullard and Summerall Guests of Soldiers' and Sailors' Club.

Maj. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard retired, and Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, who succeeded General Bullard as Commander of the Second Corps Area, were the guests of the Soldiers and Sailors' Club of New York at a dinner at the Ritz-Carlton last evening. Both paid tributes to the regular army men and requested that they be treated with the same respect and honor as the volunteers who served during the war. General Summerall said that war cannot be outlawed because it exists.

William M. Chadbourne presided. Among those present were Mrs. Francis Rogers, Henry L. Stimson, George W. Wickersham, Murray Hulbert, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, John Drew, Rhinelander Waldo, Adrian H. Larkin, Mrs. Otis Skinner, Brig. Gen. John Ross Delafield and the Rev. Percy Silver.

Youth Shot in Attempted Hold-Up.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—Attempting to hold up a loan company clerk today, John J. Warner, 17 years old, was shot through the stomach and was taken to a hospital in a serious condition. The clerk, Aaron Dansky, 21 years old, a son of the proprietor, was badly beaten over the head with a blackjack by an accomplice of Warner's, who fled without obtaining any valuables.

Raising the Standard of Radio Retailing

An Event in the Industry

The True Blue Radio Salon, located in the Northwest Corner of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel—16 West 34th Street, New York City—is the result of a demand for the same standard of quality in Radio that has made The Sonora Salon on Fifth Avenue famous for the highest quality phonographs.

George E. Brightson, Founder of The Sonora Phonograph Company, is the founder and president of the True Blue Radio Salon. This Salon is under the management of Mrs. Edward J. Brewster, who managed the famous Sonora Salon for many years.

When radio broadcasting first became practical, Mr. Brightson began to select and combine the most experienced men, the most perfected instruments, and the finest equipment in the radio industry. After several years of painstaking care and at a considerable investment the True Blue Radio organization now has its headquarters on the ground floor in the Northwest Corner of the historic Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The True Blue Radio Salon has only one ideal—the highest quality radio equipment for the fine homes of America. For those who require only the finer radio equipment this Salon fills a long-felt want.

"Best in the Long Run"

Silvertown Balloons are made to deliver more than the ordinary run of tires, and they do . . . What the name, Silvertown, has always meant to cord tires, it means now to Balloons . . . Fifty-five years' experience in rubber manufacture implants in them the same sinew of quality that has raised Goodrich footwear, drug sundries, hose, belting, and mechanical rubber goods of every description to their place of honor . . . Silvertown Balloons are wonderful tires to ride—and drive—and last.

Silvertown Applause

"Encore—encore," cries the radio audience that listens in on the program of The Goodrich Silvertown Cord Orchestra.

The audience grows greater with each succeeding concert, and thousands of letters, telegrams and post cards of comment arrive at the offices of The B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, and the Radio Broadcasting stations.

I must congratulate your company on everything you put out—tires, tubes, boots and hot water bottles. Everything is good—better than the rest. Thank you again for your wonderful concerts. Yours for Silvertown Cords. J. N. H., Warren, R. I.

An old time user of Silvertown Cords, but never heard Silvertown Orchestra before. Very fine. H. G. M., New Castle, Pa.

Enjoyed Silvertown Cord Orchestra. As good as the tires, but they didn't tire. F. W. C., Holbrook, Mass.

Last night's concert was fine. It came in as loud and clear as if it were given in our own city. I hope the Tuesday night concerts will be kept up. They are as good as your tires, which I have long used with great satisfaction. W. G. C., Toronto, Canada.

Your programs have been enjoyed by myself and a number of friends. I am a constant user of your tires, having obtained good results from same. G. C. S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Your Silvertown Cord Orchestra reminds me of a Goodrich Rubber Band. Keep up the good work. M. Z., New York City.

No program is complete without this song "Merrily we roll along". I roll along on four Silvertown Cords. A. B. S., Providence, R. I.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

So far as the Stock Exchange was concerned, yesterday's proceedings merely illustrated the purely professional character and the meaningless drift into which the market has fallen. The general trend of prices was decidedly downward; yet the declines of 4 to 19 points in certain industrial shares merely reflected the vagaries of a much overdone professional manipulation of the so-called "specialties." The greater number of stocks changed only fractionally, and how little significance the whole movement possessed was shown by the action of one isolated "pool" in putting up its own stocks no less than 13 points while the general market was declining. No one is likely to take such movements seriously; they are only the froth and backwash which are left when a great wave of rising prices has subsided, and no new impelling force of real power has begun to stir the depths again.

Professional Wall Street was content to ascribe the day's weakness to a 4½ per cent. rate for call money; the highest touched since Jan. 5, when the year-end settlements were being completed. It is difficult to convince the stock market of the unimportance of these fluctuations. They do not measure the available supply of credit; that is sufficiently evident from the motionless time-money market and from the Federal Reserve reports. The real key to the repeated change in trend of the demand loan market since the turn of the year has been the sweeping weekly changes, back and forth, in the rediscounts of private banks with the Federal Reserve Bank and therefore in the reserve of such private banks.

Their rediscounts at New York decreased $27,900,000 in the first week of the year, increased $34,300,000 in the second and decreased $48,000,000 in the third; their reserve credit, in the same three weeks, decreased $31,000,000, then increased $88,000,000, then decreased $36,500,000. These are unusually wide fluctuations—hardly caused by conditions in the outside money market and seemingly reflecting a rather clumsy use of the Federal Reserve machinery.

Wheat for May delivery rose yesterday a full cent over its previous high price, going a fraction beyond $1.97 per bushel. This advance again followed that of the Winnipeg market, where it would seem from yesterday's dispatches that speculative imagination had run mad. There are in fact some indications that the whole wheat market, notwithstanding the undeniably real and potent considerations which have been driving prices up, is getting into a dangerous position. A time when the excited and unexperienced public is talking nothing but "the rise in wheat" and clamoring for a chance in the speculation (as seems to be happening at Chicago) is always a time to look askance at the market. It is quite possible that the fondness of speculators, large and small, to fix a round-number price as the goal of their speculation, is also at work just now. But in all such markets there will be found more sagacious speculators for the rise who will sell before the goal is reached, and will do so because, as in the present case, "$2 for May" might give them too much company in the selling.

Sterling exchange has also shown something of the hesitancy that a round-number price creates. It has vacillated back and forth around $4.80, as it used to do around the "four-dollar mark" when it was trying to get on its feet in 1920 and 1921. It would appear, even from the London discussions of the sterling market, that considerable doubt surrounds the question, how far the recent violent rise has been a matter of speculation, and to just what extent the ealizing sales will be involked, the nearer the price approaches par. A positive declaration of British policy would, however, quite offset such influences.

MONEY.

Preparations for end of the month requirements, which compelled many out-of-town banks to draw down local balances, caused higher market for Stock Exchange call money, rate going to 4½ per cent. after opening and renewing at 3, and interval of 3½ and 4. Approximately $35,000,000 was withdrawn. Time money market, however, was steady and unaffected by stiffness in day to day loans. Popular maturity was four months' which loaned at 3¾ per cent. Commercial paper was likewise steady and at no change in discount.

OFFER $68,365,000 OF BONDS IN 2 DAYS

Biggest Issue Today Will Be $25,000,000 for Bell Telephone Co. of Canada.

DETROIT IN MARKET ALSO

Issue of $19,555,000 to Be Placed Today—A $10,000,000 Project Tomorrow.

Investment bankers announced yesterday their plans for offering $68,365,000 of new bond issues, of which all but $10,000,000 will be placed on the market today. The $10,000,000 issue will be offered tomorrow.

The largest offering consists of $25,000,000 of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada first mortgage 5 per cent. gold bonds, Series A, due March 1, 1925. This is made by Lee, Higginson & Co., the Royal Securities Corporation, Ltd., and Harris Forbes & Co. at 98 to yield over 5.13 per cent. Of the total $15,000,000 will be placed in Canada and the rest in the United States. Proceeds will be used to provide funds for the payment of $10,750,000 of bonds maturing on April 1, and for the growth of the company's business. Additions to plant and real estate last year aggregated $12,000,000, and further improvements are planned.

Upon completion of this financing the company will have as its capital structure $48,497,200 of capital stock and this issue of $25,000,000 first mortgage bonds. After the maturity of outstanding bonds on April 1, the new issue will be secured by a first mortgage on all the company's real estate, buildings and telephone plant. The book cost of this property, as of Dec. 31 last, was about $58,400,000. The company owns and operates the principal telephone system in the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario and serves a territory of 831,837 square miles with 5,500,000 population, including the cities of Montreal and Toronto.

Big City of Detroit Issue.

Another offering is a new issue of $19,555,000 City of Detroit, Mich., 4½ and 4¼ per cent. bonds, due Feb. 1, 1926-1955, at prices to yield 3.50 to 4.20 per cent. This has been underwritten by the Bankers Trust Company, the National City Company, the Guaranty Trust Company, Harris, Forbes & Co., Estabrook & Co., William R. Compton & Co., Ames, Emerich & Co., Remic, Hodges & Co., the Detroit Company, Eldredge & Co., Keane, Higbie & Co., the First National Company of Detroit, Keane, Taylor & Co., Hannahs, Ballin & Lee, Marshall Field, Glore, Ward & Co. and W. A. Harriman & Co. The bonds are for school, sewer, lighting, art museum, market and general municipal purposes and are direct obligations of the City of Detroit.

Dillon, Read & Co. and Blair & Co., Inc., announced that they would offer with associates tomorrow a new issue of $10,000,000 Union Oil Company of California ten-year 5 per cent. debenture bonds at a price to net slightly under 5.50 per cent. Some Union Oil Company financing in the form of common stock was accomplished in the Eastern market last Summer when a block of shares representing a $30,000,000 investment was bought from the Royal Dutch-Shell interests and re-sold here by Dillon, Read & Co. Subsequently, the company's directorate was increased to give the new Eastern interests representation through the appointment of James C. Brady, Clarence Dillon and George W. Davison. The purpose of the debenture issue has not been announced, but in oil trade circles it was assumed that proceeds would be used in part for the purchase of additional crude oil and for other corporate requirements.

Beet Sugar Offering Also.

A new issue of $3,500,000 American Beet Sugar Company ten-year 6 per cent. convertible sinking fund debentures, due Feb. 1, 1935, is offered at 96 to yield about 6.55 per cent. by Spencer Trask & Co., Redmond & Co. and Maitland, Coppell & Co. The debentures are convertible at any time at the option of the holder into common stock of the company at $50 per share if converted on or before Feb. 1, 1927, at $60 a share from them to Feb. 1, 1930, and thereafter at $70 a share. Proceeds will be used to finance part of the cost of the entire issues of capital stock of the Minnesota Sugar Company and the Northern Sugar Corporation.

Prudden & Co. are offering a new issue of $200,000 City of Lakeland, Fla., 5½ per cent. bonds, due July 1, 1944-1953, at prices to yield 4.90 per cent.

Curtis & Sanger are offering $110,000 Town of Wilson, N. C., 6 per cent. gold bonds maturing $60,000 March 1, 1935-1938, yielding 4.65 per cent., and $50,000, maturing March 1, 1945-1948, yielding 4.70 per cent.

FINLAND REBUYING BONDS.

Makes Offer for Three Old Issues Placed Largely in Paris.

Finland is offering to repurchase some of its bonds of 1898, 1901 and 1903, placed largely in the French market. This information was received by the foreign department of Moody's Investors Service from its foreign correspondents.

The dispatch said: "M. Gh. Enckell, Finnish Minister in Paris, has been authorized by his Government to purchase from the French holders of the Finnish Government 3s of 1898, the 3½s of 1901 and the 3½s of 1903, which have been placed largely in the Paris market, at the rate of $30 per 500-franc bond of the 3½ per cent. loans and at the rate of $26 per 500-franc bond of the 3 per cent. loan, provided French holders of bonds of at least 30,000,000 francs par value express willingness to accept this plan prior to March 15, 1925. The Government has also agreed to exchange, if holders so desire their bonds aggregating at least 20,000 francs or multiples into Finnish Government 6 per cent dollar bonds at the rate of $1,000 par value of the latter for 20,000 francs par value of their holdings, plus a cash adjustment of $360 for the 3½ per cent. issues and of $200 for the 3 per cent. loan."

Goodyear Discusses Back Dividends.

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. issued a statement yesterday saying that the board of directors has received and considered several suggested plans for funding back dividends on the company's preferred stock, but that no plan has been adopted. It says that no specific basis for payment of the preferred dividend accumulations in common stock has been discussed or considered.

SURFACE CAR PLAN RECEIVES APPROVAL

BONDHOLDERS ARE NOTIFIED

Court and Transit Commission Have Assented to Agreement Submitted.

Approval of the plan of reorganization of the New York Railways Company has been obtained from the three protective committees representing holders of Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad first consolidated 5 per cent. mortgage gold bonds; Broadway Surface Railroad Company 5 per cent. first mortgage bonds, and South Ferry Railroad Company 5 per cent. first mortgage bonds. Notices to this effect are being published today by the reorganization committee.

The notice to the holders of certificates of deposit under the protective agreement dated June 23, 1921, for the mortgage gold 5s of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue says that the agreement reached with the reorganization committee "makes provision for the protection of consolidated mortgage bonds in addition to the provisions of said plan of reorganization." Further deposits of bonds will be received by the protective committee, it is stated, to and including Feb. 17. The committee "has fixed $20 for each $1,000 principal amount of withdrawn bonds as the proportion of the compensation and expenses of the committee to be borne by dissenting depositors who shall withdraw their bonds in the manner provided in said protective agreement."

The notice to the holders of certificates of deposit representing the 5 per cent. bonds of the Broadway Surface Railroad Company says that the undersigned committee, acting under the agreement of deposit, "has deposited and filed with the depositary a plan for the exchange of deposited bonds for Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company first consolidated mortgage 5 per cent. gold bonds, with an additional payment to holders of certificates of deposit representing deposited bonds of $50 per bond, in addition to interest." No assessment will be made on deposited bonds assenting to the plan. The deposit time on the Broadway Surface bonds is also extended to Feb. 17. The bonds for which the exchange is to be made are due Dec. 1, 1943.

Holders of South Ferry Railroad Company 5 per cent. first mortgage bonds due April 1, 1919, and of certificates of deposit therefor issued under an agreement dated in 1919 are to exchange their bonds, bond for bond, also for first consolidated mortgage 5s of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue. The time limit on the deposit of South Ferry bonds is Feb. 5.

The way now seems clear to declare the reorganization plan effective. The plan has been approved by the court and the Transit Commission.

Enough stock of the Nickel Plate, the Pere Marquette, the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Hocking Valley and the Erie has been deposited under the deposit agreement of the proposed New Nickel Plate System for the committee to vote the agreement in operation when it meets in Cleveland on Thursday, it was learned yesterday.

Whether or not it will take this action at this time is one of the matters which will be taken under consideration by the committee, composed of J. J. Bernet, President of the Nickel Plate; W. J. Harahan, President of the Chesapeake & Ohio; W. L. Ross, Vice President of the Nickel Plate; E. N. Brown, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Pere Marquette, and O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen.

The declaration that the plan is in effect will be a formal step required before the merger is submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval. Other steps will include approval of the leases by stockholders of the roads. Except for the Pere Marquette, the directors of all the roads have passed upon the terms of the lease. As the Van Sweringen interest controls a majority of shares in all these properties, the action of the stockholders is considered a foregone conclusion.

NEW GASOLINE RISE IN MIDDLE WEST

LOOK FOR CRUDE ADVANCE

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, the two largest companies in the Middle West, announced another one-cent advance in the price of gasoline yesterday. This makes a two-cent increase since Friday. The Standard of Indiana serves eleven States in the Middle West and all companies competing with it are expected to follow suit.

News of the industry continues of a constructive nature. Virtually all of the larger Standard Oil companies are reported to be increasing operations in the gasoline branch and are accumulating stocks to meet the larger demand expected in the Spring and Summer. The Standard's refinery at Whiting, Ind., is credited with running 60,000 barrels of crude oil daily, which is virtually capacity.

Opinion prevails in trade circles here that another advance in crude will be announced before the end of the week in Pennsylvania, the mid-continent or California, where developments are being closely watched. Despite the advances of 25 to 42 cents a barrel in mid-continent crude prices last week, some refiners there are still paying premiums of 15 to 25 cents a barrel for mid-continent crude and 17½ cents for Wortham crude. Consequently higher prices are regarded certain.

The advance of 50 cents a barrel in Pennsylvania crude oil during the past month has not resulted in increased offerings from producers, who are still holding for higher prices. The Oil City Derrick says it has learned from an authentic source that pipe line storage tanks of the National Transit Company are being rapidly filled and that unless more oil is sold by producers it will be necessary to declare an embargo on further receipts.

Production of crude in the New Worth field in Texas and in the fields in Southern California registered another sharp decline. According to advices from the Southwest, Wortham is producing at the rate of 105,000 and 110,000 barrels a day at present, against 121,000 barrels on Sunday and 167,000 barrels on Jan. 16, when peak production was established. The current output of 107,000 barrels on the average is received from 127 wells, whereas the peak of 167,000 barrels was from sixty-three wells.

The six large Southern California fields reported a daily average of 327,000 barrels of oil last week, a drop of 6,300 barrels, compared with the average of 333,200 barrels reported in the previous week.

TO AID THE NEW HAVEN.

Connecticut Brokers to Help Sell the Road's Bonds.

Investment dealers and stock brokers of Connecticut will cooperate in the movement for the purchase of 6 per cent. refinancing gold bonds of the New Haven Railroad, the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut, Inc., announced yesterday. The Hartford Stock Exchange, through its governing board, has sent an invitation to all its members for their cooperation in placing the bonds widely among the States' industries.

The manufacturers announced that the industries of Connecticut have taken already more than $1,000,000 of the bonds. A similar movement is under way in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Increase in Carloads on Santa Fe.

During the week ended Jan. 23, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway handled 33,836 carloads of freight. It handled 31,692 in the same week last year.

How a modest estate is saved $2,000 taxes

SIMPLY by selecting securities according to a knowledge of the tax laws, it is shown in this booklet how an estate of moderate size is saved $2,000 in estate and inheritance taxes.

That is an example of the practical usefulness of this booklet to those who are concerned about how federal and state taxes may affect the provision made for their dependents. The larger the estate, the more important this subject becomes.

Among the salient topics with which this book deals, in text that is non-technical and easy to understand, are—

A discussion of Federal Estate taxes.

The status, from an Inheritance tax standpoint, of various types of bonds, stocks, and other forms of investments.

We shall welcome the opportunity to place this booklet in the hands of any one to whom it may be useful.

Mr. J. H. McNulty, President of the Corporation, summarizes his letter to us as follows:

Business and Properties: Pratt & Lambert, Inc., was incorporated under the laws of the State of New York in 1885, to continue a business established in 1849. The products of the Company, consisting of varnishes, enamels, lacquers, dryers, stains and kindred products, are of high reputation and include such nationally advertised articles as "61" floor varnish, Vitralite enamel and Effecto auto finishes. These products are sold largely through distributors in practically every city and town in the United States and Canada. In addition, a considerable proportion of the total output is taken by railroads and by furniture and automobile manufacturers.

Management: The five principal executives have been in charge of the affairs of the Company for many years and after the sale of this 50,000 shares of no par value stock, they and their associates will continue to own a substantial majority of the outstanding shares. This unusual condition as to management personnel has contributed in a large measure to the continuous success which the Company has enjoyed and gives promise of a continuance of profitable growth in the future.

Earnings: Earnings for the ten year period ended December 31, 1924, averaged $3.26 per share on the proposed issue of 202,500 shares of no par value stock. For the three years ended December 31, 1924, earnings averaged $5.93 per share. In no one of the last 20 years have the operations of the Company failed to show a profit.

Working Capital Position: Giving effect to the retirement of all preferred stock heretofore outstanding, total liabilities as of December 31, 1924, including reserve for dividends and Governmental taxes, aggregated $1,039,903.17. Current assets alone aggregated $3,546,087.23, or over 3.4 times total liabilities.

Dividends: It is the intention of the management to inaugurate dividends on the new stock at the rate of $3.00 per share annually, from date of delivery of interim certificates.

Questions of legality will be passed upon by Messrs. Kenefick, Cooke, Mitchell & Bass of Buffalo, New York. The accounts of the Company are now and have for some years past been audited by Park, Byrne & Co., Public Accountants.

Application will be made to list the Capital Stock of the Corporation on the New York Curb.

We offer the above stock, subject to necessary action of stockholders, and when, as and if issued and accepted by us. It is expected that delivery will be made on or about February 15th in form of Interim Certificates of Bankers Trust Company, exchangeable for permanent certificates when ready.

CONSOLIDATED GAS REPORTS LESS NET

Surplus Earnings for 1924 Were $27,974,917, Decrease for Year of $278,332.

$50,000,000 ISSUE PLANNED

Debentures Will Be Offered as Soon as Approved by the Public Service Commission.

The Consolidated Gas Company, the subsidiaries of which include the New York Edison Company, issued its annual report yesterday, showing for 1924 net income or surplus earnings of $27,974,917, a decrease of $278,332 compared with 1923. Gross earnings, including miscellaneous operating and non-operating revenue, but excluding "gas sales suspense," increased from $133,741,995 in 1923 to $136,459,960 in 1924. The increased gross was more than offset by an increase of $3,030,043 in expenses, including retirements and taxes.

Net income of $27,974,917, after taxes, interest and other charges and after allowing for preferred dividends, is equivalent to $7.47 a share earned on the 3,600,000 shares of no par common outstanding, compared with $28,353,249, or $7.77 a share on 3,562,803 shares of no par common in 1923. The balance carried to the surplus account after dividends on the company's and affiliated companies' stocks was $9,998,323, a decrease of $3,814,675 compared with 1923.

The company invested in land, plant and equipment last year the net sum of $50,805,715 after deducting credits to capital account, due to the retirements of plant and equipment from service and the sale of real estate. The aggregate gross capital expenditures of the Consolidated and its affiliated gas and electric companies for land, plant and equipment was $61,420,448. Under the budget made up for last year expenditures of approximately $69,000,000 had been authorized.

Mr. Cortelyou's Statement.

"Applications have been made to the Public Service Commission for permission to effect substantial increases in the capitalization of a number of our affiliated companies for the purpose of discharging their obligations to this company for their capital requirements and the issuance of such securities as may be deemed practicable and proper. As soon as the approval of the Public Service Commission can be obtained it is intended to make a public offering of $50,000,000 par value of 5½ per cent. twenty-year debentures. These debentures will not be made convertible, as it has been deemed advisable to take advantage of the present favorable conditions to issue a straight debenture which will not interfere with subsequent financing by the issue of stock or secured obligations."

Referring to the Dollar Gas law litigation, Mr. Cortelyou said that the filing of the final and favorable report of the Special Master in the case of the Consolidated Company itself made probable an outcome similar to that in the case of the New York and Queens Gas Company and the Bronx Gas and Electric Company in the courts. "Probably no rate litigation in the history of American public utilities," he said, "had ever been tried with such insistence by the defendants upon every trivial detail. The testimony comprised 10,515 typewritten pages, supplemented by 1,052 exhibits, of which 1,037 were offered by the company.

Should Earn 8 Per Cent.

"Among some of the more important principles recognized in this decision (the decision of the Special Master) is the one that a public utility in New York City is entitled to earn at least 8 per cent.," said Mr. Cortelyou, "on the present value of its property."

Notwithstanding the decreased earnings, the company and its affiliated companies installed last year 102,803 gas appliances, an increase of 10.44 per cent., while the net increase in appliance installations was 94,401. Combined output of all the electric generating stations in 1924 was over 2,055,000,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 8 per cent. Gas manufacturing stations produced 1.31 per cent. more gas in 1924 than in 1923. Sales of gas increased 0..39 per cent. and sales of electricity 7.60 per cent.

The consolidated balance sheet as of Dec. 31 shows total assets of $606,-904,659, a gain of $53,770,073. Of the total $10,631,126 was cash, against cash of $8,739,040 in 1923.

John D. Ryan, Chairman of the directors of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, was elected yesterday a trustee of the Consolidated Gas Company to succeed Robert A. Carter Sr., deceased.

ELECTRICAL MARKET GOOD.

Demand for Wire and Cable Said to Be Unusually Strong.

Market conditions in the electrical industry are reported by The Electrical World as good, despite the fact that sales since Jan. 1 have not increased uniformly in all lines. On some commodities, such as wire and cable, the demand is said by several manufacturers to be very good, in one instance better than in any previous January.

Central-station companies have made up large budgets, many of which still await approval. Orders for equipment from these sources are expected to reach the peak in March or April "and to be in excellent volume."

Cotton Exchange Seat for $33,500.

The New York Cotton Exchange seat of David Brown was sold at public auction yesterday to Warner D. Orvis for $33,500, a reduction of $1,500 compared with the last previous sale. Mr. Brown was a member of the firm of Dennis & Brown of Liverpool and Havre, which failed some time ago.

$3,000,000 IN GOLD SENT TO AUSTRALIA

Further Shipments Are Expected in Effort to Knock Down Premium for Pound.

The National City Bank announced yesterday that it would send $3,000,000 of gold to Australia within the next two weeks. This follows the shipment last week by various New York institutions of $1,050,000, the first export of gold to that country since the present heavy movement began.

Further shipments are anticipated by both New York and London bankers. There is a currency scarcity, and a premium has been built up for the Australian pound, it now being considered cheaper in some instances to send gold direct than to buy Australian pounds with American dollars. Further transfers of the metal are expected to knock down the gold premium.

In several respects the Australian movement was said yesterday to be different from the normal. The operation was understood to involve a three-cornered deal in which the American dollar, the Australian pound and the English pound all figure.

The Australian consignment was the only one announced yesterday, and increased the exports for the month to $58,687,000. Since Dec. 1 the total has reached $102,870,000, passing the $100,000,000 mark, which few bankers looked for.

DIVIDEND DECLARATIONS.

Directors of the Miller Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, declared an extra dividend yesterday of $2 a share on the company's 8 per cent. preferred stock, besides the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. The extra dividend clears up all back dividends due on this issue. Both dividends are payable March 1 to stockholders of record Feb. 10.

The Massachusetts Cotton Mills reduced the quarterly dividend on the capital stock yesterday from $2 to $1.50 a share. The smaller dividend is payable Feb. 10, to stockholders of record Jan. 24.

The quarterly dividend on the stock of the Missouri Portland Cement Company was increased from 1¾ to 2 per cent. yesterday, thus placing the shares on an 8 per cent. annual dividend basis. The new dividend is payable Jan. 31, to stockholders of record Jan. 22.

Hart Schaffner & Marx declared yesterday the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent. on the common stock payable Feb. 28, to stockholders of record Feb. 16. Stockholders held the annual meeting yesterday and approved the action of the Board of Directors in retiring all the company's preferred stock last year.

RAIL NET INCOME UP.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—The Illinois Central Railroad increased its net railway operating income by $3,238,633.89 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1924, according to an announcement issued here tonight.

The total net operating income for that period was $28,102,973.45, with railway operating revenues totaling $173,-338,131.99. This was a decrease of $12,-925,034.54 from the revenues of 1923. For December operating revenues totaled $15,168,074.37, an increase of $724,383.45.

C. I. Hudson & Co. Changes Name.

The name of the New York Stock Exchange firm of C. I. Hudson & Co., established in 1874, will be changed Feb. 1, to Dyer, Hudson & Co., it was announced yesterday. RAILROADS SHOW GAIN IN DECEMBER

Missouri, Kansas & Texas Has 75 Per Cent. Advance in Net Over Same Month in 1923.

ST. PAUL REPORT ISSUED

Interest in Statement Marked Because of $47,000,000 Refunding Program in Prospect.

A net operating income for December of seventy-five per cent more than the corresponding month in 1923 by the Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines led the railroad reports yesterday. The general trend was an increase in net and gross income for the month. As the result of the better showings for December there was a decided improvement in the yearly statements. In nearly every case the railroads showed a marked change for the better in the last half of the year.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, closely watched on account of the $47,000,000 refunding program just ahead, reported net operating income of $2,-261,197 for the month, compared with $2,445,345 in 1923. The gross business handled by the railroad during 1924 was $158,366,458, compared with $160,628,337 in 1923, and $156,950,628 in 1922. Net operating income for the year, it was estimated, might be 1,800,000 short of enough to cover fixed charges. It was $18,972,106, compared with $20,167,713 the previous year.

Attention, however, was centred on the statement of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas. For the twelve months it showed a gross income of $57,309,345, against $55,987,918; a balance for interest of $3,024,478, compared with $10,-181,668, and a surplus after interest of $5,508,437, compared with $2,612,433 in 1923.

The St. Louis-San Francisco continued the favorable showing it has made in recent months, and reported a surplus after charges for December of $560,572, against $501,204. For the year the gross income was $89,900,574, compared with $89,187,828, but the surplus after charges of $5,919,444, compared with $3,741,215, testified to the increased operating efficiency of the property, it was pointed out.

The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western was the only one of the anthracite carriers to make its report public yesterday. This had a net operating income of $1,081,266 for December, compared with $1,091,959. For the year the gross income of the property was $86,755,629, compared with $88,490,646 in 1923, and the net operating income was $15,870,712, compared with $13,443,543 in 1923.

RAIL MERGER PLANS LAID BEFORE BOARD

FIGHT PENNSYLVANIA'S IDEA

New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Nickel Plate Officials Explain Plan to Commission.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Heads of the New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Nickel Plate Railroad systems laid today before Interstate Commerce Commissioners specially considering railroad consolidation projects their joint plans for assembling much of the rail mileage of the northeastern quarter of the United States into four great unified systems of approximately equal size.

J. J. Bernet, President of the Nickel Plate, and O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, whose negotiations for control of the Erie, Chesapeake & Ohio and other roads already have laid out the structures for one of the four great systems described; P. E. Crowley, President of the New York Central, and Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio, described the four-system plan, going into the financial status, population served and operating conditions. In addition, tentative proposals by the Pennsylvania, made at previous conferences were critically analyzed.

The emphasis of today's argument for the four-system plan was that it proposed an equal division of Eastern rail mileage, Atlantic port facilities and terminal facilities, while it was argued that the Pennsylvania plan proposed the creation around that road of a system which would be materially larger than any that might be built up for possible competitors after consolidation.

Gives Figures of Mileage.

Advancing the arguments for the creation of four approximately equal systems, a brief filed with the commissioners said that the New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Nickel Plate interests had devised allocations of Eastern rail mileage which would produce an enlarged Pennsylvania system, with 16,237 miles of road and property investment of $2,726,000,000; an enlarged New York Central, with mileage of 15,745 and property investment of $2,346,000,000, and an enlarged Baltimore & Ohio, with mileage of 13,465 and investment of $1,843,000,000, while the Nickel Plate system, with the consolidations arranged by the Van Sweringen operations of recent months, would have a mileage of 13,056 and property investment of $1,806,000,000.

It was declared that the four systems thus constructed would have about an equal total of city population to serve, would have access on a comparative basis to North Atlantic ports, and would constitute reasonably manageable projects.

The Pennsylvania's plan, it was continued, would create around the railroad a new structure, with mileage of 19,385 and property investment of $3,184,500,000, while the other three systems would be held down to a maximum mileage of 15,196 for the largest, the New York Central, with relative decreases in capital and property accounts. The Pennsylvania's plan, it was asserted, would result in less competitive service for North Atlantic ports, and consequently less attractive business prospects for the Pennsylvania's rail rivals.

To make four connections of equal size and competitive characteristics, the brief suggested that to the New York Central should be given the Lehigh Valley, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, and the New York, Ontario & Western; the Pennsylvania would get the Western lines of the Grand Trunk, the Toledo, Peoria & Western, the Norfolk & Western and the Chicago & Alton; the Nickel Plate would absorb the Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie, Virginian, Hocking Valley, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Pere Marquette, Bessemer & Lake Erie, and, Pittsburgh & Shawmut, while the Baltimore & Ohio would take in the Reading system, Central of New Jersey, Western Maryland, Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville, Detroit, Toledo & Ironton (Henry Ford's road), Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville and Wabash lines east of the Mississippi.

Short Lines for Each System.

Each of the systems contemplated would also acquire certain short lines and, in addition, joint ownership among the four would be acquired of the Delaware & Hudson, Lehigh & New England, Lehigh & Hudson River, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Pittsburgh, Chartiers & Youghiogheny. These jointly owned lines would then be operated in the light of serving equally the four larger systems.

The Pensylvania's own plan included the consolidation with its present system of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, the Lehigh Valley and the Buffalo & Susquehanna, as well as the Norfolk & Western and others. It also proposed that the Central of New Jersey and the Reading systems, assigned to the Baltimore & Ohio by the brief's plan, should be turned into joint ownership. The Chicago & Eastern Illinois, which the Pennsylvania proposed for its ownership, would be owned jointly, under the plan set forth in the brief, by the New York Central and Nickel Plate systems.

Live Stock Markets at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Receipts of hogs, 86,000 today, were the second largest on record for January. The market was steady to 15 cents lower early, but improved as the day advanced, and as high as $11 was paid for fancy heavy by local packers. The day's average price was $10.60, as on Saturday, improved quality being a factor, and shippers took about a third of the arrivals. Fat lambs broke 25@35c, with the bulk of the sales at $18@18.25; a few sold early to shippers at $18.75. The dressed-meat market was very dull and the Eastern demand slow. Receipts were 19,000. Beef steers were mainly 25 cents higher, with more at spots. Receipts of 17,000 were somewhat less than expected. Choice heavy steers sold at $10.90 and best handy weights at $11.50.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

European exchanges were dull and moderately reactionary yesterday. In the case of sterling, commercial bill offerings, and the fact that those banks which had been actively supporting the market were out of it, allowed the slight inroad into the high levels recently established.

Another interesting incident of the day's trading was the disparity between the French and Belgian rates which brought it down to about 26 points, where previously this had been as great as 40 and more points.

London checks ruled best right after the opening, when they were ⅛ above Saturday, at $4.80, but thereafter sale of export paper pushed it back to $4.79¾. with a small rally from this point at the close. French francs were sold within a range of less than a full point, finishing for a loss of one point at 5.39 cents. Belgian was 3¼ points up at 5.13 cents. Holland, Spanish, Scandinavian and Swiss bills were easier.

STEEL PREFERRED HITS NEW HIGH OF 15 YEARS

While the general stock market was losing ground yesterday, and even United States Steed Corporation common sold off with the general list, the preferred stock of the corporation attracted attention as a result of a sudden upward rush of 1⅝ points, to 126⅝. This is the highest price the preferred has touched since Oct. 4, 1909, when the peak for all time, 131, was established. In 1903, shortly after the corporation was organized, the preferred sold down to 49¾.

A total of $360,281,100 of Steel preferred is in the hands of investors. The stock pays 7 per cent. dividends annually and is cumulative as to dividends and preferred as to assets. At the closing price last night the yield to investors was approximately 5.5 per cent.

Employes who have subscribed for the company's common stock will receive a special dividend of $8.87 a share for the current year, besides the usual bonus of $5 a share annually paid to employes who hold the stock five years. The special dividend, it was pointed out yesterday, is the result of cancellations by some employes. The dividends they forego thereupon accrue to those employes who hold their stock for the period stated. Last year the special dividend was $11.05 a share.

Martin Parry to Double its Shares.

Martin Parry Corporation stockholders held a special meeting yesterday and approved the management's plan to increase the capital stock from 100,000 to 200,000 shares.

GALLES PARES COSTS OF MEXICAN LINES

Attempt to Put Railways on Paying Basis Part of His Economy Program.

PASSES ARE ABOLISHED

Overhead to Be Reduced by Discharge of 4,000 Employes, Who Will Go on Farms.

For the first time in twelve years the Government of Mexico is considering the possibility of restoring the National Railways of Mexico to a paying basis. This would pave the way for the resumption of dividend payments on the $155,000,000 outstanding stock issues of the system, but such payments could not be made for a period of years owing to the other heavy obligations.

Advice received yesterday by the Financial Agency of Mexico in New York said that the program of economies of the Calles Administration is being extended to the railroad system. About 4,000 employes of these lines, it was said, would be discharged in order to cut down the present large overhead expenses. Places on the farms of Mexico would be sought for the men about to lose their jobs.

The advices said in part:

"With this and other economies that are being put into effect it will be possible to place the National Railways of Mexico on a paying basis, while the Department of Agriculture is studying a plan for making farmers out of the discharged railroad employes. The order of President Calles, issued shortly after his taking office, that no more passes should be granted by the National Railways to Government employes, has had the effect of a marked increase in the revenues of the railways during the month of December, and it is expected that this increase in revenue will amount to many millions of dollars during the year."

This slash in Mexico's expenses follows by a week the announcement that Mexico had cut off all subsidies to Mexican States. A thorough overhauling of administration departments of the Government was said to have been effected and a reduction in the country's various costly services has been carried on assiduously.

ORDERS CANAL OUTLET TO NEW YORK CENTRAL

The Interstate Commerce Commission has found that public necessity and convenience require a physical connection between the barge canal at the Buffalo terminal and the railroads. In a decision handed down yesterday the commission ordered that on and after May 1, 1925, the New York Central Railroad must interchange traffic with the canal. Royal K. Fuller, State Commissioner of Canals and Waterways, said yesterday that the decision would have "an important bearing on the question of canal transportation."

New York State applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission after a decision in the State courts that the question was one to be settled entirely by the commission. That body granted all of the demands made by the State and its barge canal operating organization upon the railroad, which hitherto has refused to consider that a canal and its terminal were entitled to be treated as a connecting railroad.

Officials of the New York Central Railroad refused yesterday to discuss the decision. They preferred, it was said, to read the text of the commission's findings before giving an opinion on the subject. Commissioner Fuller said that the decision established definitely for the first time that the State could compel an interchange of freight between a railroad and the barge canal system, and would open an important industrial area in Western New York for the canal.

Two Commissioners dissented from the majority decision on the ground that the situation was largely a matter for State consideration. The commission's order did not fix rates or switching charges which the New York Central may impose in the handling of freight and furnishing of equipment, but whatever rates for interchange of service are fixed by the railroad will automatically come under control of the commission.

MINISTER EXPLAINS NEW FRENCH LOANS

1,000,000,000 Francs in Cash Subscribed for New Internal Offering.

Addressing the French Senate, the Minister of Finance has declared that the dollars resulting from the Morgan loan would not be employed in sporadic interventions from day to day. The interventions which he will permit will always be on a big scale and will only be employed to break an attack directed against the franc.

During the debate in the Senate on the plan for repayment to the Bank of France, M. Clementel, the Minister of Finance, made the following statement on the subject of the last internal loan and subscriptions to the national defense bonds: "The loan produced 4,900,000,000. Payments were made in cash; but how many national defense or Treasury bonds were repaid? Three and a half milliards of bonds were not renewed and one milliard was paid in notes. Events have shown that French credit is above attack. The purchase of bonds has already started afresh, but we have become the bankers of bankers and at the end of each month we have repayments to effect. I have therefore not been able to apply any portion of the internal loan to the repayment of the bank." The Senate, however, passed the bill for the repayment of 1,200,000,000 of the advances of the Bank of France to the State.

Stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad numbered 145,174 on January 1, a decrease of 1,226 during December, but 946 more than on Jan. 1, 1924. The record was 146,440 stockholders on November 1, 1924. Women stockholders have 32.63 per cent. of the outstanding stock, and constitute 48.77 per cent. of the total stockholders.

Sheet Metal Prices Higher.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Jan. 26—The Trumbull Steel Company of Warren announced today an advance in sheet metal prices of $2 a ton. The new prices are 2.85 cents a pound for blue annealed, 3.70 for black and 4.85 for galvanized. Other independent manufacturers said that they would meet the increase.

Surplus Freight Cars Decrease.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Heavy freight traffic has caused a reduction in the number of surplus cars ready for service, the American Railway Association reporting tonight a total of 255,967 on hand by railroads on Jan. 14. This was a decrease of 24,855 compared with the week before.

COCA COLA SHARES BREAK.

Coca Cola shares broke sharply on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday on the announcement that only the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the common stock, payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 15, had been declared. The retirement of $2,000,000 of preferred, however, was authorised. On retirement of this stock the company will have only $8,000,000 preferred outstanding ahead of the common.

Earnings for the last quarter of 1924 were $964,000 net, after all expenses and charges but before reserves for taxes, equal to $1.55 a share on the 500,000 shares of no par value common stock outstanding after preferred dividends. This compares with $4.42 a share earned in the third quarter and 90 cents a year ago.

The preliminary earnings statement for 1924 shows $2,506,424 net income, against $3,177,308 in 1923. The 1924 net, after preferred dividends, was equal to $11.61 a share earned on the common, against $8.95 in 1923.

New Curb Listings.

The New York Curb Exchange has admitted the following securities to trading: Georgia Light and Power and Railways, 80,000 authorised shares common stock, par value $100; Portland Electric Power Co., 200,000 authorised shares common stock, par value $100.

FLOOD OF BUYING FOR GERMAN LOANS

ONE BEFORE BOOKS OPEN

A shdden floor of buying orders for new German bonds developed yesterday. It absorbed nearly $20,000,000 of bonds for two German electrical manufacturing companies, including a new issue which was not to be offered publicly until today. At the close of business yesterday, however, it was found that advance orders for today's offering had practicly absorbed the total and the opening of books would be little more than a formality.

Bankers said that for the first time since the German Government's reparation loan was placed on the market the buying had developed such momentum as to surpass expectations. Its volume was said to have opened definitely the door for the higher grade industrial corporations in Germany to get long-term loans in America. Heretofore, many credits have been extended on a short-term basis. Many of these will now be refunded for long terms.

Today's new offering consists of $10,000,000 of 7 per cent. bonds and notes, in equal divisions, for the Siemens & Halske and Siemens Schuckertwerke concerns. It is made by Dillon, Read & Co., Marshall Field, Glore, Ward & Co., the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh and the Central Trust Company of Chicago, $5,000,000 consisting of three-year 7 per cent. notes, priced at 99 to yield 7.40 per cent., and $5,000,000 ten-year 7 per cent. bonds., priced at 96½ to yield 7.50 per cent. It follows by twenty-four hours an offering of a like amount of bonds by the National City Company, which were heavily oversubscribed, orders arriving from all over the United States and from Europe. These bonds were for the German General Electric Company.

The Dillon, Read & Co. offering of bonds is for the account of one of Germany's dominating factors in the electrical industry. The two companies, part of a large combination, do a business of about $100,000,000 a year, operating twenty-six factories employing 85,000 operators. The plants were said now to be operating from 90 to 100 per cent. of capacity. Their principal products are automatic and manual telephones, telegraph signaling and electro-medical apparatus, electrical machinery and appliances for lighting, power, traction and electro-chemical purposes, dynamos, turbines, wires and cables. The mortgage debt of the companies, exclusive of the Dawes plan industrial debentures, amounts to $155,000. The preliminary balance sheet of the corporations shows total assets of about $105,000,000 against liabilities of about $48,500,000.

Securing the bonds and notes is a plan patterned after that whereby the Netherlands Government in 1920 advanced 140,000,000 guilders or $56,000,000 to German industry and safeguarded this credit by merchandise having a current market value at all times substantially in excess of the amount borrowed. The Siemens & Halske Schuckertwerke bonds and notes will thus be secured, according to the banks, by salable merchandise with a world market including semi-finished electrical goods, brass, copper, aluminum, zinc, steel, &c., to the amount of 167 per cent. of the total loans. This merchandise has been transferred to the German Securities Trustee Company, which had supervision over the $56,000,000 Dutch loan.

The new financing, it was said, would be used to raise funds for additional working capital, thus enabling the corporations to take care of increased business now said to be available.

COTTON QUOTATIONS MOVE IRREGULARLY

Early Rise Followed by 30-Point Break and This in Turn by 20-Point Recovery.

After May contracts had touched the lowest level reached since Nov. 5, the cotton market steadied yesterday with final quotations 1 point higher on October to 6 points lower on July. The course of prices proved extremely irregular, an early upturn being followed by a 30-point break and this in turn by a 20-point recovery near the close. Reports from Manchester that a return to shorter working hours was probable and a Weather Bureau forecast of rain and snows the middle of the week in West Gulf States, caused considerable selling at one time. Demand for March on the decline steadied the market and a covering movement the last hour left both March and May only a few points lower on the day.

A recovery of 10 English points in Liverpool, following Saturday's sharp decline there, started the local market at an advance of 10 points during which March sold around 23.40. Trade price-fixing and some professional covering absorbed contracts immediately following the call, and as the session advanced execution of wire selling orders increased in volume. New Orleans ruled relatively easier than New York throughout early trading, and later weakness in that quarter threw cotton on New York. As considerable room covering had occurred during the quarter of a cent upturn at the close of the week, buying power was not sufficient to prevent declining prices. All May orders on a basis of 23½ cents were filled, with a sharp dip to 23.39, 6 points lower than bottom figures of Saturday and the lowest of the present movement. May contracts had not sold below the 23.40 reached on Dec. 5 throughout the course of the past six weeks.

October continued to strengthen as compared with near positions and sold 13 points over May and as much as 45 points over March. This represented higher premiums established on the next crop since trading in positions for the yield of 1925 began the first of November. Various interests sold March and May and replaced with October. As March approached 23 cents, larger trade buying orders were disclosed than could be readily supplied, which arrested the decline.

Spot sales aggregated 15,000 bales at a decline of 2 to 13 points in most markets. A further revision at Memphis was reported with quotation from that point placed at 22 cents in afternoon reports.

LARGE GAINS MADE IN INDUSTRIAL FIELD

Wholesale Prices in December Rise 2 Per Cent., to Highest Level Since April, 1923.

PRODUCTION INDEX HIGHER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Wholesale prices advanced in December to the highest level of the year 1924, while production and employment continued the increase which began last Autumn, the Federal Reserve Board announced tonight, adding that railroad shipments of goods kept on in large volume. Wholesale and retail trade were both larger than a year ago.

The index of production in basic industries, the board declared, advanced about 10 per cent. in December, to a point 25 per cent. higher than last Summer, but was still below the level of the opening months of 1924. Practically all of the twenty-two industries included in the index shared in the advance, and the increases were particularly large in iron and steel, cotton manufacturing, coal mining and meat packing.

Among the industries not represented in the index, the output of automobiles declined in December and was the smallest for any month in more than two years.

Increased industrial activity was accompanied by an advance of about 2 per cent. in factory employment, with larger increases in the metal and textile industries and by a growth of nearly 8 per cent. in total factory payrolls. Volume of building, as measured by contracts awarded, was less in December than in November, but continued unusually large for the season of the year.

The distribution of goods was greater in December than in the same month of 1923, as indicated by larger railroad shipments and an increase in the volume of wholesale and retail trade. Christmas trade at department stores was greater than in the previous year and sales by mail order houses and chain stores were the largest on record. Wholesale trade was seasonally less than in November, but in practically all lines was larger than a year ago. Marketings of agricultural products was greater than for the corresponding month of any recent year.

A further advance of more than 2 per cent. in the Bureau of Labor Statistics index of wholesale prices over November, to an average in December 8 per cent. above the low point of June and to the highest level since April, 1923. Prices of all groups of commodities were higher, the principal increases being in farm products and foods. In the first week of January prices of grains, wool, coal and metals increased further, while sugar, dairy products, silk, coke and rubber declined.

Both the Federal Reserve Banks the rapid return flow of currency after the holiday trade resulted, during the four weeks ended Jan. 21, in a reduction of earning assets about equal to that for the same season a year earlier. The net outflow of currency from the reserve banks during the month preceding Christmas amounted to more than $200,000,000, and the return flow after the Christmas peak, reflected both in the increase in reserves and in the decline of Federal Reserve note certificates, was in excess of $300,000,000.

Fluctuations in the earning assets of the reserve banks during the past two months have reflected chiefly these seasonal changes in the currency requirements. The decline in discounts brought their total of Jan. 21 to a smaller volume than at any time in 1924, and acceptances also showed a seasonal decrease.

Holdings of United States securities, which have declined for more than two months, were about $175,000,000 below the level of late Autumn and for the same amount as at the middle of 1924. Net exports of gold, which gave rise to a demand for reserve bank credit, amounted to $30,000,000 in December and were in larger volume during the first three weeks in January.

The growth of demand deposits at member banks in leading cities during the three weeks ended in the middle of January, which has been greater than the increase in their total investments, has reflected the return of currency from circulation. In the same period there was some increase in commercial loans and a continued growth in loans secured by stocks and bonds. Holdings of investment securities have decreased somewhat since the middle of November, particularly at the banks in New York City.

Firmer conditions in the money market in December and the first of the few days in January were followed later in the month by declines in rates on commercial paper to 3½ per cent.

BURNS TAKES STAND IN MEANS'S BEHALF

TELLS OF INFLUENCE RUMOR

Colonel Felder Offers Letter to Show He Was Not Retained to Prevent Prosecution.

The first witness called yesterday when the trial of Colonel Thomas B. Felder and Gaston B. Means on a charge of conspiring to obstruct justice was resumed before Federal Judge Lindley and a jury was William J. Burns, former chief of the United States Secret Service. Witnesses for the prosecution had testified that Means had made statements indicating that his influence with high Government officials was strong enough to prevent the indictment of the men connected with the Crager System, Inc., the concern that marketed the stock of a glass casket concern. Mr. Burns was one of the men, it was stated, whom Means indicated could be influenced by him.

Mr. Burns, called by the defense, said he had known Colonel Felder more than sixteen years and Means for about nine years, but that neither had ever mentioned the glass casket case in his presence. Frank P. Walsh, counsel for Colonel Felder, asked the witness:

"Was there ever a conference at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel at which Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, former Attorney General Daugherty and you were present and at which the glass casket case was discussed?"

An objection by Hiram C. Todd, the Government Prosecutor, was sustained. Then Mr. Walsh asked: "Did you ever say there was a deficit in the Republican campaign fund?" Again the witness was not permitted to answer. Mr. Daugherty, Mr. Walsh stated, would testify this morning.

Colonel Felder continued his testimony by saying in answer to questions by his counsel that his first conference with the Crager System defendants was on Nov. 2, 1922, several days after the fee of $47,800 had been paid to his partners. All previous conferences, he said, were either with Samuel Getzler, a glass casket defendant whose indictment was later quashed, or with Koehler, one of the Chicago lawyer and Alderman, who was attorney for the defendants.

Hears Rumor of "Fixing."

The witness stated that Peter J. McCoy, the Federal prosecutor who had charge of the case against the glass casket men, told him in the presence of United States Attorney Hayward of a rumor that he (Felder) had been retained to prevent the prosecution. This angered him so, the witness stated, that he summoned the Crager System principals to his office and had them sign a statement disclaiming that he had been retained for such a purpose. This letter was introduced in evidence. An affidavit by Samuel Safir, one of the principals in the Crager System, to the effect that he had nothing to do with the system, was also put in evidence. Safir was convicted in the trial of the glass casket men. He was the first to complain of an alleged fee of $65,000 which it is asserted was paid to Colonel Felder's firm with the understanding that the prosecution would not be pressed.

Colonel Felder stated that he had never made an agreement with Means and that Means had told Elmer W. Jarnecke, to attempt to bribe Attorney General Daugherty, Colonel Hayward, Major Clark or Mr. McCoy, and that such a plan had never been suggested to him by Means or Jarnecke.

Tells of Meeting Means.

Cross-questioned by Mr. Todd, the witness stated that he first met Means in the Spring of 1919 in connection with the King will case. Colonel Felder said that he had been examined before the Grand Jury. Mr. Todd asked the witness about one of his answers at that time which indicated that he had met Means two years before, which would make his first meeting in 1917. Mr. Walsh and Abraham I. Menin, counsel for Means, objected and Judge Lindley directed counsel to omit mention of the will case.

Mr. Todd said that his purpose was to impeach the witness. Colonel Felder with a flushed face asked angrily: "For what purpose, sir?"

Colonel Felder denied that he had received the letter from Jarnecke in which the latter stated that it was rumored in bootleg circles that prominent lawyers could fix and unfix juries, and that Chief Justice Taft could be reached through Mr. Wickersham.

Mr. Todd wanted to know if the witness ever had an interview with him on the second floor of the Federal Building, and the reply was: "I am absolutely certain that such an interview did not occur."

When told that a stenographer was present at the time, Colonel Felder contended that the stenographer must have been concealed. Asked about a visit he had made to Washington in relation to the Steinfeld case in January, 1923, the witness replied that he did not see Means or Jarnecke at the time because Means was ill and Jarnecke, it was said, was in Baltimore. Confronted with an entry in his own books showing that fees of $100 and $150 had been paid at the time, along with $50 for expenses to Washington, the witness replied that he had no recollection of the matter.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26.—Reports that Russia is in the market with gold for 1,000,000 barrels of flour were factors in another advance in the price of wheat today. The May future reached $2.04¾, a top figure for the movement and a gain of 1¾ cents over Saturday's close. July made a new high of $2.02.

Rye's May future was carried to $1.80¾, an advance of 5½ cents.

SHIP BUILDERS RESENT NAVY'S COMPETITION

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—American shipbuilders and their allied interests have lined up for a finish fight against encroachment by Government navy yards on the business of the private-owned industry.

The first actual clash, according to shipbuilders, will come in Congress this week over the proposed amendment to the bill carrying the annual appropriations for the Shipping Board, which would make it compulsory for the board to award repair and reconditioning contracts to navy yards where yard estimates are lower than those submitted by private concerns.

Strong opposition to this proposal is known to exist in Congress. Many members in both houses hold that the steady increase in the scope of work done in Government-owned yards is imperiling the very existence of the shipbuilding business in this country and is heading fast toward a governmental controlled industry.

Statistics, many of them from official Government records, have been compiled by the shipping interests for submission to Congress to dispute the contention that the Government can get its repair work done more cheaply in navy yards than by private concerns.

It is asserted that these official statistics show that a compilation of the work done in navy yards for one year up to Oct. 1 last for other departments of the Government record a "reported" cost of about $3,000,000, most of it for the Shipping Board, and in three yards —Boston, Brooklyn and Mare Island (Cal.)

The charge will be made that in specific cases navy yards computed overhead in such a way as to keep the cost of the particular work within or near the estimates submitted for it. It is claimed that estimates of one navy yard will show that a 25 to 40 per cent. overhead was charged against a Shipping Board job, as against the average overhead in jobs on naval vessels of more than 100 per cent., as shown by annual reports of the Paymaster General.

Two cases were the repairing of the ships America and American Merchant at the Brooklyn Navy Yard last year. These jobs amounted to about $1,770,000 "reported cost," and the charge is made that the correct "industrial cost" was actually about $433,000 in excess of this figure.

NEW HIGH IN WHEAT CUT BY LIQUIDATION

OFFERINGS QUICKLY TAKEN

Export Buying Increases on the Dip and the Sales Run Up to 700,000 Bushels.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—May wheat, which rose to $1.97½ in the early market, sold with all deliveries of rye at new highs on the crops today. But liquidation in corn and oats caused a sharp recession from the top. The May option was, however, 1¼ cents higher at the last and rye was unchanged to 1 cent higher. Corn was weak from the start and lost 1¼@2½ cents, with oats ¼@1¼ cents lower. Buying of wheat futures for foreign account and heavy buying by Winnipeg traders, who were closing spreads with the latter market, were responsible for a sharp upturn which came toward the last. Deferred futures of wheat were ½@1½ cents lower at the close.

There was considerable profit-taking in May early by scattered longs who have big profits and have been talking $2 per bushel for some time past, but sold out on the theory that it will take a material increase in buying to absorb all the grain that will probably be for sale at that figure. A little weakening in the domestic cash situation is noted, with No. 2 hard here off 2 cents from the May price to 4 cents under for track lots.

Foreign news remains decidedly bullish, with Liverpool 2½@2¾d higher and Buenos Aires up 1¼@2 cents for the day. Export demand increased as the result of the decline, and sales today were estimated at 700,000 bushels, half of which was domestic grain.

As has been the case for some time past, the trade is somewhat mystified to guess where all the buying comes from, but sufficient has developed to absorb the offerings. May acts tight at times, and responds quickly to aggressive buying. The closing of spreads between Chicago and Winnipeg failed to check the upturn, and it gained 2¾@2¾ cents for the day there, with May at $2.05⅛ at the last.

Flour prices have advanced 50 cents per barrel the past week and are quoted at $9.80@10.35, depending on the brand.

The visible supply decreased 2,589,000 bushels for the week and is 80,572,000 bushels, against 83,161,000 the previous week, and 66,283,000 last year.

Primary arrivals today were 1,802,000 bushels; week ago, 1,612,000; last year, 1,083,000. Shipments were 804,000 bushels; week ago, 579,000; last year, 470,000.

Scattered liquidation developed in corn and oats as the result of a break of 2 to 2½ cents in cash corn. A leading industry was about the only buyer of the No. 5 and No. 6 grades, and at the last No. 6 mixed sold at $1, or about 50 cents under the May, but the buyer paid little attention to the action of the future market.

The visible supply of corn increased 3,037,000 bushels for the week and is 25,685,000 bushels, against 22,648,000 the previous week and 8,959,000 last year.

Primary arrivals of corn today were 2,083,000 bushels; week ago, 2,068,000; last year, 2,154,000, and shipments, 534,000 bushels; week ago, 576,000; last year, 769,000.

COOLIDGE PICKS HUMPHREY.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—William E. Humphrey, former member of the House from Washington, was nominated today by President Coolidge to be a member of the Federal Trade Commission, succeeding Nelson B. Gaskill of New Jersey, whose term expired several months ago.

The nomination of Mr. Humphrey was regarded generally as the first step in President Coolidge's contemplated reorganization of the Trade Commission, one of the three independent governmental agencies in which the Executive plans to make administrative changes. The others are the Shipping Board and the Tariff Commission.

William S. Culberson, Vice Chairman of the Tariff Commission, is expected to be transferred soon to another governmental post, while another man is to be appointed to the place now occupied by David J. Lewis of Maryland as a member of the commission. The situation with respect to the Shipping Board has not been so clearly defined, depending to a large extent upon legislation now before Congress.

Mr. Humphrey, whose home is in Seattle, Wash., was born in Indiana. He served in the House from 1903 to 1917 and was prominent in the Coolidge preconvention campaign.

EIGHTH AVENUE MEN MEET.

The Eighth Avenue Association was urged to fight for an extension of the retail zoning district to a line 100 feet west of the avenue by John E. Gratke, managing director of the Broadway Association, principal speaker at a luncheon yesterday in the Oyster Bay Restaurant, 974 Eighth Avenue. Mr. Gratke cited the advantages obtained for Broadway by his organization, and urged Eighth Avenue merchants and property owners to work for civic improvements.

Walker Matteson of the Jersey City Chamber of Commerce also addressed the meeting, which was called to make nominations for a Board of Directors. About thirty members, including Lee Shubert, George L. (Texi) Rickard and Joseph P. Day, will be asked to serve on the board.

The Eighth Avenue section will have a weekly newspaper to further its interests. It was announced at the meeting by J. W. Dannay, managing director of the association. He said the paper would be similar to those of other civic organizations and would help property owners and merchants to cooperate. Bylaws were adopted and plans made to have the association incorporated. John C. Forster, President of the organization, presided.

CASH WHEAT $2.10½

Washington, Idaho, Montana, North and South Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois raised 333,053,000 bushels of wheat, the farm value of which is approximately $417,253,680.

GRAIN PRODUCTION FOR 1924

Washington, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois

	Bushels	Average price to farmer	Total Value
Wheat	333,053,000	$1.29	$417,253,680.00
Rye	29,088,000	1.05	31,492,810.00
Oats	988,807,000	.56	395,081,520.00
Barley	120,038,000	.78	93,728,900.00
Flax	29,698,000	2.27	67,118,380.00
Corn	903,258,000	1.03	866,731,000.00
Totals	2,353,942,000		$1,871,406,290.00

THIS impressive total of $1,871,406,290 has been added in 1924 by agriculture alone to the wealth of the states served by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway. There are in these states from two to three times more acreage than now under cultivation adapted to the raising of these crops offering unexcelled opportunities to farmers large and small.

If a true impression is to be gained of the wealth latent in this territory, there must be added to the hundreds of millions of dollars derived in one year from grain alone, more millions from the raising of live stock, hay, potatoes, tobacco, etc.—and the annual production of lumber and metals from forests and mines whose resources can only be estimated in billions.

THERE are 28,776,012 people in the twelve states served by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway with 11,010 miles of main line track. 2,566 growing towns are served by the road, a large number of which offer exceptional manufacturing opportunities on account of proximity to raw materials and almost inexhaustible possibilities for economical generation of hydro-electric power.

The St. Paul naturally accumulated a vast fund of information as to the industrial opportunities latent in the territory it serves, before investing more than $200,000,000 in the construction of its Puget Sound extension to the Pacific Coast.

Every man who is interested in agricultural or industrial opportunities should take a trip over the St. Paul system. Write to the Industrial Department for information and statistics regarding the particular kind of agricultural or industrial enterprise in which you are most interested, and we shall gladly co-operate with you to the fullest extent in working out your plans.

Brown Boveri Company Plans Invasion of American Electrical Field.

WILL START IN 90 DAYS

Decision Due to Importunities of U. S. Public Utility Companies Eager for Development.

Laurence Wilder, American representative of Brown, Boveri & Co. of Switzerland, makers of electrical locomotives and of every variety of equipment for power houses and electrical systems, announced yesterday that this company, which has plants on all continents and in twenty-seven countries, had decided to invade the American field.

An initial investment of between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000 will be made in the purchase of six or eight major manufacturing plants which are now in successful operation, according to Mr. Wilder. Negotiations are now in progress for a number of plants, and the American Brown-Boveri Company will be actively engaged in the electrical manufacturing business in this country within ninety days, he said. Former Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby is the legal representative of Brown, Boveri & Co.

The decision to enter the American field was due, according to Mr. Wilder, to concerted demands from the heads of American railroads and utility companies that this international corporation should start actual manufacturing operations in America.

Urged to Compete Here.

"The demand was made so insistently by American public utility companies because they are eager for competitive development in a field where no real competition at present exists," said Mr. Wilder. "For the last two years we have been making a careful survey of conditions in this country to decide whether the Brown-Boveri Company should enter it.

"Plants will be acquired by the company on the Eastern seaboard from Boston to Chesapeake Bay, in the mid-West and on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Wilder said that the Brown-Boveri Company expected to play an important part in connection with the electrification of American railroads and the development of super-power. He said that the company would bring with it a vast command over patents for advanced types of electrical apparatus in use in Europe, but not yet in the American market. As instances he mentioned the Buchli drive for locomotives and the mercury arc power rectifier."

Brown-Boveri Statement.

"While American manufacturers have made great strides in the field of large scale production and in the standardization of machines and equipment of the more usual types, it may be fairly said Europe is far in advance of this country in the development and successful application of many electrical inventions which make for efficiency in operation and economy. These improvements have been long appreciated by the users of electrical quipment in both public utility and railroad fields, and there has been a strong desire and a great endeavor to obtain the benefit of these improved and original developments in this country.

"The Brown Boveri Company, whose main office and plant are in Switzerland, has a position in Europe quite as important as that of the General Electric Company in this country. It employs many thousands of operators, it has subsidiary plants in France, Germany and Italy, and it is not so many years ago that it took over and absorbed the European plants of the Westinghouse Electric Company of Pittsburgh. It has had for the last two years an agency in this country whose chief purpose has been to test out the American market for Brown Boveri products. They are in many fields of electrical operation quite unique, and have no substitute or counterpart.

"The significance of this move is not alone in the opportunity it gives to American consumers to obtain readily Brown Boveri products, but in the fact that they can be supplied at lower prices than now prevailing for similar products. In the relation of this fact to the various public services, such as light, power, and transportation, is seen at once a method to curb mounting costs of these services, and no more effective way may be found than in keen competitive development."

LATEST DEALINGS IN REALTY FIELD

WAS HELD AT $750,000

The real estate market opened strong and active yesterday with a number of important sales and leases and several big transactions pending.

The demand for business properties by both investors and prospective tenants, which has been on the increase since the first of the year, was unusually strong yesterday.

$750,000 Purchase in Times Square Section.

In the Times Square section the United Cigar Stores Company purchased from Richard S. Treacy, representing the Treacy and Farley estates, whose heirs are widely scattered over the country, the five three, four and five-story buildings at 660, 662, 664 and 666 Eighth Avenue, and 261, 263, 265 and 267 West Forty-second Street, comprising the northeast corner of these two thoroughfares with a frontage of 80 feet on the avenue and 10 feet on Forty-second Street.

The transaction was for all cash, the price paid being close to $750,000.

Part of this property has not been transferred for over sixty years. The buyers are at present tenants of the corner store in the property under lease from John Kelly, who holds a lease on the building.

No immediate improvements are contemplated owing to existing leases which have several years to run.

Rice & Hill, who were the brokers in the transaction, last year negotiated the lease of the northwest corner of Forty-second Street and Eighth Avenue, 60 by 75 feet, for William Volk to Dr. Nicholas Partos for a term of eighty-four years.

New Building Opposite the Biltmore.

In the Grand Central zone another old landmark is to disappear and be replaced with a modern commercial structure as the result of a deal closed yesterday by which Fred T. Ley secures control, for eighty-four years, of the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, through Anton L. Trunk, as broker.

Charles A. Dards, with whom the lease was made, has owned the property since 1870, when he started his flower business there under the name of "Dards" in a small greenhouse, the neighborhood then being one of the finest residential sections in the city.

Since then Mr. Dards has built two new buildings on the property in each of which he has continued to occupy the Madison Avenue corner store for his business, carrying on a florist business on this one corner for over half a century.

Although numerous efforts have been made to get Mr. Dards to dispose of the property, he has steadily refused, until the alterations of the Madison Avenue front of the Biltmore into stores made it possible for him to secure, through Albert B. Ashforth, a lease of the Forty-fourth Street corner directly opposite, to which to transfer his business, about May 1.

In October next, when all the leases on the property expire, Mr. Ley will tear down the present eight-story structure and erect in its place a modern eighteen-story office building.

Reardon Brothers have purchased for investment, in an all cash transaction, 48 Franklin Street, a five-story building on lot 26 by 100 feet.

The property was held at $85,000. The building was recently leased through the Charles F. Noyes Company to the Wynkoop, Hallenbeck, Crawford Company until 1940 at a net rental of approximately $6,000 per annum, plus taxes, insurance and repairs.

This is the second sale of the same property by the Noyes Company within the past twelve months.

To the east is the seventeen-story Hallenbeck-Hungerford Building, which occupies the block front on Lafayette Street from Franklin to White Street, and to the west is 50-52 Franklin Street, sold through the Noyes Company a few years ago to the Reading Iron Works, present occupants.

Big Broadway Purchase.

The fifteen-story fireproof office building with stores at 395-399 Broadway, southwest corner of Walker Street, has been sold by the Coolidge Holding Company to the Credit Exchange, Inc., now housed in the building at 248 Fifth Avenue, corner of Twenty-eighth Street.

The Broadway structure was valued at $1,150,000 and returns an annual rental of approximately $172,000.

TWO LANDLORDS HELD.

Tenants Tell Magistrate They Are Getting No Hot Water.

Two landlords, alleged to have failed to provide their tenants with hot water, were held by Magistrate August W. Glatzmayer in Essex Market Court yesterday in $25 bonds for further examination.

The first case was that of Louis Wiederman of 210 Clinton Street, against whom Samuel Friedfertz, a tenant in Wiederman's building at 31 Geerck Street, complained that he and twenty other tenants had not received hot water for the last few weeks.

The second landlord was Hyman Eisen, 805 Fifth Street, owner of the tenement at that address. Carrie Hershkowyts, a tenant, told the Magistrate she and nineteen other tenants suffered from lack of hot water.

They have also sold to the same buyer, two plots on Macy Avenue, Gedney Farm, adjoining the Curtis property in the rear. The properties aggregate a value of about $35,000.

In the Brooklyn Heights section Bertha D. Wright sold to Andrew Nicola the five-story brownstone apartment house at 38 Monroe Place. The price paid was reported to be $50,000. Gustave Girard represented the seller and the Martin Real Estate Company represented the purchaser.

Army Saved $17,000 on Mails.

Frontage of 130 Feet Figure in a Resale.

A $200,000 deal in Jamaica, L. I., was closed by the Bulkley & Horton Company, in conjunction with the Seeth Realty Corporation, who sold the plot of ground on the east side of Union Hall Street, having a frontage of 130 feet, with a depth of 110 feet, owned by the Klin Company, Inc., and the Dena Company, Inc., 50 feet being sold to Benjamin Gertz of Jamaica, and 80 feet to Robert I. MacLellan of Laurelton, L. I. The sale involves part of the property sold by the Bulkley & Horton Company one year ago to the same owners and being resold at a handsome profit.

The Best Available
Stores
on 42nd Street

THERE are only two available stores in the Pershing Square Building — and in fact the only two such stores on 42nd Street — opposite the Commodore — opposite Grand Central Terminal.

STORE frontage 22' 8", depth 28' 6" and mezzanine. $15,000

STORE frontage 21' 4", depth 91' 8". $26,000

The lines of retail merchandise are numerous for which these stores are ideally adapted. The progressive merchant seeking a 42nd Street location will realize the opportunity these stores afford.

CAPITAL WANTED.

I HAVE WHAT PRACTICALLY AMOUNTS to a Canadian concession to sell foodstuffs and household articles in the Province of Quebec without competition; this will be done in the form of a consumers' society which will buy goods from me, because I will purchase direct from the source of supply, thereby eliminating several unnecessary profits which are added to the cost of those supplies today. A leading trust company in Montreal has given me their moral support in writing, as well as several prominent men who have agreed to act as governors, which will assure the Canadians of the merit of this undertaking. I now require about $25,000 to begin the initial steps, which will be used in renting warehouses and completing the organization; after which I can arrange credits for the merchandise, as the membership I will secure will prove the consumption of the articles I import. This can be broadened into a business with unlimited possibilities, as the demand exists there. In answering, give banking references or no attention will be given. G 321 Times.

SWEARS STONEHAM OWED DIER STOCKS

FIRMS AGREED ON TRANSFER

According to Maurice Brooke, the accountant for E. D. Dier & Co. who supervised the transfer of accounts to that firm from C. A. Stoneham & Co., securities valued at $2,403,895 were not delivered by Stoneham when he turned over the accounts of his customers in 1921. Brooke testified yesterday at the mail fraud trial of Stoneham, Dier and five other defendants before Judge Francis A. Winslow and a jury in the United States District Court.

The theory upon which Stoneham's defense will be presented was revealed when his attorney, Herbert C. Smyth, vainly opposed the admissibility of Brooke's testimony. Mr. Smyth said that Stoneham had withheld delivery of the stocks because Dier had not paid the debit balance in full, and that, acting in the capacity of a banker, Stoneham had sold out the stocks to satisfy Dier's indebtedness on the debit balance.

It will be argued by Mr. Smyth that Stoneham was always responsible to his customers for the full amount of his indebtedness to them. He will contend that when Stoneham wrote his customers, assuring them that he had investigated Dier and found him to be in good financial standing, there was no conspiracy. Stoneham will maintain, and what happened to the Dier firm after the transfer was through no fault of Stoneham's.

According to Brooke's testimony, the Stoneham books showed that the customers of his New York, Chicago and Milwaukee offices, from which the accounts were transferred, were long of stocks worth $5,383,010 on March 28, 1921, and May 3 of the same year, the dates of the transfer. Brooke testified that Stoneham delivered securities valued at $2,979,114, but failed to deliver others valued at $2,403,895. The physical delivery of the stocks did not take place until from one to six weeks after the transfer dates, according to Brooke.

Explains Final Statement.

In answer to a question as to how the final settlement in making the transfer was figured, Brooke said:

"First, we estimated the total value of the securities listed in the accounts of the Stoneham firm, finding them to be $5,383,010. There was a debit balance against this amounting to $3,286,834. The equity of customers in these accounts amounted to $2,096,075. From this equity we deducted 10 per cent. to be returned to Stoneham and the 90 per cent., amounting to $1,886,468, was given to Dier."

The net effect of the transaction, Brooke said, was the transfer of $1,886,468, instead of $2,096,075, the latter figure representing the customers' equities. Brooke explained the matter by saying that securities worth $5,383,010 should have been delivered by Stoneham to Dier and that Dier should have returned the debit balance of $3,286,934 to him.

Although Stoneham had not actually delivered the stocks, it was brought out that he wrote a letter to the Dier firm July 25, 1921, stating that every share had been turned over and that the transfer was completed. The letter, which was read to the jury, said:

"Gentlemen: We are herewith attaching a list of the names of all customers whose accounts we have turned over to you. We beg to advise you that after having completed our check we find that cash and every stock, bond and security belonging to each and every one of the accounts attached hereto has been duly turned over to you, and in return therefore you have paid to us each and every debit balance shown by that account.

"We therefore desire to advise you that there is nothing due us from you in connection with the transfers of these accounts, nor is there anything due you from us in connection therewith.

"If you find the above statement to be correct and you approve thereof, will you kindly sign the approval at the bottom of this communication?

"Yours very truly,

"CHARLES A. STONEHAM & CO."

The letter bore an endorsement by the Dier concern as follows:

"We hereby certify to the correctness of all of the statements contained in the above communication and thereby agree to and approve of the same."

Assistant United States Attorney Victor House then placed in evidence the checks which passed between the two firms concerning the transfer.

No Evidence of Margin Payment.

"When you examined the books of Charles A. Stoneham & Co. did you see any evidence concerning the payment by Stoneham's customers of 10 per cent. of anything at all?" asked Mr. Smyth.

Brooke said he didn't.

"Did you see any evidence of impropriety?"

"We are not quarreling over the witness's code of ethics," commented the Court as he sustained an objection by Mr. House.

Mr. House drew from the witness a statement that some of the securities involved in the transfer were high class bonds which Brooke said could easily have been pledged as collateral for loans by Dier and money enough raised on them to meet the payment of debit balances on the particular accounts involved, had they been turned over to Dier by Stoneham.

William J. McCahill, chief statistician of THE NEW YORK TIMES and The Analist, identified charts he had prepared showing the high, low and average prices of fifty selected securities during the two months when Stoneham was making deliveries of stocks.

"I'm not questioning the accuracy of his work; I know it is very accurate, but I consider it immaterial," Mr. Rockwood said.

The trial will be resumed at 10:30 o'clock this morning.
